Social Security Medicare Cards Sent Recipients

Social security beneficiaries who have not yet signed up for medical insurance benefit under Medicare have been sent follow-up letters, reports Clifford Kittelson, district manager for social security in Grand Forks.

Included in the mailing is a post card asking the beneficiary to check the 'Yes' or 'No' block for medical insurance benefits. Those wanting to be under the program should check the 'Yes' block. Those not wanting it should check the 'No' block. Every beneficiary should reply.

This medical insurance program will help pay the costs of seeing a doctor, surgery and various other medical expenses. Beneficiaries who sign up will have $3 a month deducted from their checks starting this July. The government will match this with another $3 a month.

Those who do not sign up by March 31 will not have another opportunity until October of 1967. Coverage then will not begin until July of 1968. Premium rates will also be higher for those who delay.

A beneficiary who has lost his card or changed his mind after sending in his first card should contact the Social Security administration for another card before the end of March.

Farm Tax Questions Are Answered by IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters, with authoritative answers, are provided by the office of the district director of Internal Revenue, St. Paul.)

Q—A dairy and livestock farmer pays $1,200 for a well complete with pump. The well furnishes water also for household needs. Is this an asset which qualifies for the investment credit?

A—A well may qualify for the investment credit provided it has a determinable useful life so as to be subject to a depreciation allowance. Also, provided it is used as an integral part of the production of crops or livestock. If the well is used also for personal purposes, only that portion of the cost attributable to business use would be subject to the investment credit.

Q—A farmer buys a utility power "cub-tractor" which is used primarily for the lawn around the dwelling. It is used to a small degree in the area where the grain storage building and machine shed is located. In the winter, a snow pusher blade is attached, which is used primarily in the dwelling area of the farm. Does this qualify for investment credit?

A—A "cub-tractor" used solely in maintaining the area of the farm residence would not be subject to the investment credit. If it is used also for business purposes connected with farming operations, only that portion of the cost attributable to its business use would be subject to the credit.

Q—A farmer buys two dairy cows which become a part of his dairy herd. If it is anticipated that the cows will be used for a period of 10 years, may the additional first year depreciation be computed and allowed, in addition to the regular depreciation allowance?

A—Dairy cows would qualify as "section 179 property" and would be subject to the additional first year depreciation, if a useful life of six years or more is used for depreciation purposes.

Q—A farmer states that he uses the telephone for farm business, although it is also used now and then for personal reasons by his family will the business intent permit 100 per cent deduction of the cost as a farm operation expense?

A—Only the portion attributable to farm business use of the telephonee is deductible as an expense against farm income. Even if the taxpayer might not otherwise have a telephone, it is the actual use that governs the allowable deduction.

Q—If a crop farmer who does no irrigation purchases a well complete with pump, would this asset qualify for investment credit?

A—It would appear that in the case of a crop farmer who does no irrigating, a well would not be subject to the investment credit. The well could not be considered as an integral part of the production of his crops.

SMOKE billowing in clouds from chimneys in downtown Thief River Falls on Monday, the day of the record-breaking cold wave, gave the distinct impression that most of the furnaces were burning green wood. The Monday morning low was 41 degrees below zero, and by the time these photo were taken from the roof of Northwestern hospital at about 2 p.m., it had risen only to about 20 below. As the photos show, the breeze blew lightly from the north throughout the day. A shift in the wind to a southerly direction late Monday night brought a slight warming trend, however.

Vets Must Report Monthly Payments

Veterans administration today warned Minnesota veterans and dependents of deceased veterans on VA pension rolls they run the risk of having their monthly payments discontinued if they fail to return the income questionnaire forms mailed with the November checks. They may even have to pay back the money received in 1965.

John R. Murphy, manager of the VA center in St. Paul, said the VA is required by law to obtain this income report each year because pensions are paid only to those whose incomes from other sources are below certain limits. Cards must be returned by Jan. 31, 1966.

Murphy asked veterans and dependents not to fold or mutilate the card because it must run through automatic data processing machines.

More than 200 Future Farmers of America chapters have participated in Corn Drives for Camp Courage since 1953. FFA members have succeeded in raising over $100,000 for camperships for handicapped children at Camp Courage operated by the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults. Part of the contributed funds during the past three years have been used toward construction of a $55,000 Speech Therapy Center on the Camp Courage grounds.

Warming Trend (To -2 Degrees) Reversed Today

During a breif warming trend (relative, that is,) the temperature rose almost to zero in the Thief River Falls area this week. Another cold wave is moving into the area however. The wind shifted to northwest early this morning, blowing at 25 to 30 miles per hour and bringing steadily falling temperatures. From a high today of -2 degrees at 6 a.m., the mercury plummeted to -14 by 10:40 a.m.

Winds will blow from the northwest at 20 to 40 miles per hour today, causing blowing and drifting snow and brief blizzard conditions locally. Fair skies, diminishing winds and much colder temperatures are on tap for tonight. Temperatures will continue to fall today to a low tonight of -20 to -30 degrees.

Temperatures recorded at the airport are as follows: -9 and -41 on Monday, and -2, -27 and a trace of snow on Tuesday.

FISH HOUSES at Tindolph Point saw a good deal of use Saturday, despite the arctic weather. Following a low Saturday morning of 30 degrees below zero, the mercury rose to a high of only -8 that afternoon. A cool breeze from the north put an extra "bite" into the cold. The ruggedness of local ice fishermen was shown by the fact that a number of fishermen cut and tended holes on the open ice, away from any weather protection. It is not known how richly the fishermen were rewarded for their efforts.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—I applied for and have been accepted for the newly reopened National Service Life Insurance. I now find that the payments for $10,000 are too expensive for me. Can I reduce this amount?

A—Yes. You can reduce it to any amount in excess of $1,000 in multiples of $500.

Q—Could you tell me if my husband is eligible for a GI loan? He was inducted into the service in March, 1943 and was discharged in February, 1946.

A—He would appear to be eligible. By adding, according to the formula, ten years to his date of discharge (February, 1946 to February, 1956) and then one year for each 90 days he was on active duty (there are 11 such 90-day periods in his two years and 11 months of service) we reach February, 1967 as the expiration period for his entitlement. However, he should check with his VA regional office to make this more explicit by using the actual dates of induction and discharge.

One Rink Remains Undefeated in Women's Curling

Standings in the Thief River Falls Women's Curling league leveled out after last Thursday's action when two of the cellar-dwelling teams defeated a couple of the front-runners. Vernice Newman defeated the previously unbeaten Alice Liden rink and Edith Nabben topped the once-beaten Fern Liden rink.

In other action Thursday, Clara Ellen Bottem defeated Betty Liden and Lois Amundgaard won over Violet Larson. Only the Mae Jahr rink, which was idle last week, remains undefeated in the league standings.

Supremacy of the Jahr rink will be challenged this week when it meets the Alice Liden rink in the feature match of the 9 p.m. draw. At 7 p.m. Naomi Monroe meets Vernice Newman and Betty Liden meets Fern Liden. Other games in the 9 p.m. draw include Lois Amundgaard vs. Clara Mae Swanson, Edith Nabben vs. Ellen Bottem and Linda Jorde vs. Violet Larson.

Team	Won	Lost
Mae Jahr	3	0
Alice Liden	3	1
Lois Amundgaard	3	1
Betty Liden	2	2
Fern Liden	2	2
Ellen Bottem	2	2
Violet Larson	1	2
Naomi Monroe	1	2
Clara Mae Swanson	1	2
Vernice Newman	1	2
Edith Nabben	1	2

C-C-C-COLD weather has descended upon the Times area in the past several days, and that is no real news to area residents. Monday morning the official temperature recorded by North Central Airlines personnel at the municipal airport was -41 degrees—the coldest reading since the Times began keeping record of official temperatures 11 years ago. The above photo was taken that morning looking east on Fourth street from Main avenue (the closest the Times photographer could stay to a warm office). A heavy fog of ice crystals hung over the city and every chimney emitted clouds of vapor into the frigid air. Lack of wind has been the only saving factor during the month of January with five days during the month having lows colder than -30 degrees.

Prowlers Trounced by Warroad 7-2 Tuesday

The hard-skating Warroad Warriors erupted for four goals in the second period, breaking a 1-all tie, and then added a pair in the third period to defeat the Prowlers, 7-2, in a Region Eight hockey conference game played here Tuesday night. The Prowlers will play coach Bob Strand's Crookston Central Pirates here Friday night in a regional conference game; and on Saturday night the locals will make the long trip to Baudette for a conference game against the Bears.

The varsity game found the Prowlers dropping their first decision in Region Eight conference play. The Warriors tallied the game's opening goal when, at the 3:20 mark of the first period, Gordy Huerd's high-lofted shot from center ice took an erratic bounce in front of the Prowler net, eluded goalie Jeff Noel and went into the south cage. The Prowlers knotted the game 1-all at the 8:25 mark when John Olson, on a pass from Chuck Bedard, skated in on Warroad's Billy Poole and blasted a shot into the net from close-in.

Henry Boucha's shot from the blue-line, which was screened, found the Prowler net at the 2:25 mark of the second period; and when Wes Pederson, on another screened shot, after getting a pass from George Roberts, scored at 3:25, the visitors held a 3-1 lead. Bedard, with John Olson setting up the play, beat Warroad's Poole with a shot from the left of the net, and scored at the 4:00 mark. A pair of goals by George Ganyo, one at the 6:30 mark and a rebound shot at the 7:25 mark, gave coach John Hopkins squad a 5 to 2 lead.

In the third period, at the 5:02 mark, John Roberts took a long pass from Huerd, and skated in to score from just off the goal-mouth. And at 5:55 Dave Hallett, recovering a puck that was deflected off a Prowler player's skate, nudged the south nets to give Warroad a deserved 7 to 2 win.

A Choice Menu

Athletic fans in northwestern Minnesota have a choice menu from which to choose their "diet" for the weekend. Local fans, who do not wish to follow the cagers to Grand Rapids on Friday night, or the hockey players to Baudette on Saturday night, can attend the wrestling matches at the high school gymnasium on Saturday night when coach Ed Krystosek's Prowler A squad and coach Dale Folger's B squad will engage the Bemidji Lumberjacks A and B squads.

It will be the next-to-last home appearance for the Prowler wrestlers before they enter District 31 tourney competition at Crookston on Thursday, Feb. 17. And in Meeting the Bemidji Lumberjacks, the Prowlers will be facing the Region Eight's top-ranked squad.

And high school wrestling fans from the Warren, Fertile, Ada and Fosston areas will make the trek to Mahnomen, where on Saturday, the 4th annual Pine-to-Prairie tournament will be held. The Fertile Falcons are the defending champions, but coach Marv Nelson's squad will face strong challenges from the Warren Ponies and the Mahnomen Indians.

It is probable, too, that some of the Prowler hockey fans, who intend to follow the Prowlers to Baudette, will stop off at Roseau on Saturday night and watch the hockey tilt. That game should cram the capacity of the Roseau arena for it will find the defending state champion Broncos, rated the state's number one team, against the Rams, who have been holding down the number two rung in the state hockey polls.

And there will be a contingent of hockey fans at Warroad on Saturday to witness the fourth annual hockey tournament. There will be two classifications, one called the "Tom Thumb" division for boys ten years of age and younger. Participating in this class will be Warroad, Rainy River, Baudette and River Heights from Winnipeg. In the "Bantam" division will be Heights, Rainy River and Thief River Falls. The River Falls Bantams will play the Rainy River Bantams at 4. The championship finals are scheduled for 7 and 8:30 p.m.

Where the Power Is

It appears that much of the state cage "power" is in Region Six this season. A look at the ratings as listed by the St. Paul Pioneer Press, in its weekly poll, reveals that Henning, Brainerd and Moorhead, all from Region Six, are in the state's "top ten". And two of these teams, Henning and Brainerd, boast undefeated records.

Henning, the defending Region Six champion, has a nine wins and no losses record, and Brainerd has a 10 wins and no losses mark. And the Moorhead Spuds are carrying a 10 wins and one loss mark as, on Friday, they entertain Brianerd in one of the state's top-flight games.

According to the Pioneer Press poll, Henning is the state's top-ranked team, with Brainerd in third place and Moorhead in eighth place. And don't forget the Detroit Lakes Lakers, who although they have been plagued by erratic play this season, forced the Moorhead team into a double overtime before losing. The Lakers are the defending District 23 champions.

And Henning and Brainerd have posted their undefeated records against some of the better teams in the state. Henning has scored wins over Ada of District 30 and Bemidji of District 29, two of Region Eight's better clubs, and a win over Minneapolis Roosevelt. The biggest scalp in the Brainerd win streak is a decisive win over Minneapolis Central, rated seventh in the state's rating.

It is simple to predict that the Region Six basketball tournament will be a dramatic affair, and its championship finals could provide state championship thrills.

And speaking of basketball "power", don't forget that coach Jerry Synder's Middle Rier Skippers, with a record of 11 wins and no losses, are among the state's unbeaten cage squads. The Skippers have been moving through their District 32 competition with considerable ease. It is a certainty that the Skippers will enter the east sub-district tournament of District 32 as the favorite.

An Added Attraction

I note that veteran defenseman Bill Juzda has been added to the Warroad Lakers hockey roster. And it is expectd that bashing Bill Juzda, rated as one of the great body-checkers in National Hockey league history, will appear here on Monday night, Feb. 7 when the Lakers meet the Grand Forks Mixers in a Manitoba Senior Hockey league game on the Thief River Falls arena ice.

Juzda, following an eight-year career in the NHL, with the New York Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs (a career that was interrupted by World War II service with the Canadian Air Force), joined the local senior hockey Thieves of the States-Dominion league. He was a colorful performer, and while it is undoubtedly true that age has made its demands on Bill's sturdy physique, he can still delier a crunching body-check.

What a crash there could be here that Monday night of February 7 if Juzda and the Mixers' Don Ross should collide! Ross is the 205-pound playing coach of the Grand Forks club.

DEFENSIVE play still has an important role in basketball today in spite of higher and higher scores recorded by teams on all levels. In the above photo, Tom Cummings of the Prowlers blocks a close-in shot by Kim Krostue of East Grand Forks in a game won by the Prowlers 59 to 46. Although blocking the shot from behind, Cummings averted a foul by avoiding body contact. Other Prowlers in the photo are Bruce Saustad (44) and Mark Stromberg (54).

SCORING two of his six points in a 27-point second quarter for the Prowlers against East Grand Forks is Mark Stromberg, Prowler center. Also shown are Gary Hjelmstad (13) of the Green Wave and Bruce Saustad (44) of the Prowlers. The 27-point quarter provided the local squad with enough of a margin to cruise to a 59-46 win.

Pine-to-Prairie Conference Sets Wrestling Meet

The 4th annual Pine-to-Prairie will be held in the new high school gymnasium at Mahnomen on Saturday, Jan. 29. The defending champion Fertile Falcons will be challenged by squads from Warren, Ada, Fosston and Mahnomen.

Tom Rowlette of Mahnomen, the tournament manager, stated that afternoon and evening sessions are scheduled following the morning weigh-in period. Oral Cancer Detection Clinic Set For Area

An oral cancer detection clinic is scheduled for Wednesday, February 23, in Crookston for residents of nine northwestern Minnesota counties, the Minnesota Division of the American Cancer society has announced.

Clearwater, Kittson, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau counties will be eligible to participate in the clinic and dentists and physicians of these counties will make the examinations.

Dr. Frank R. Jung and Dr. Robert W. Tjossem, Crookston dentists, are co-chairmen of the health educational project.

A total quota of 1,500 has been set, with men and women 45 years and older urged to register. It is in this age group that cancer of the lip, tongue, gums, floor and roof of the mouth is most apt to occur. These areas, as well as the head and neck, will be examined.

Dr. Stanley A. Lovestedt, Rochester, chairman of an oral cancer liaison committee of the Minnesota division of the American Cancer society and the state dental association, said the clinic is a cooperative public and professional educational effort of these two agencies, plus the Minnesota department of health, the cancer committee of the state medical association and dentists and physicians of the nine-county area.

The clinic will be held in Crookston's Bethesda hospital from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Booths will be erected to provide privacy during the examination. At 4 p.m. the preceding day, dentists and physicians who will make the examinations will attend a professional seminar on detection and treatment of oral cancer to be held in St. Francis hospital.

One objective of the educational effort is to save more lives by making the public aware of the importance of early diagnosis and treatment of cancer, the cancer society said. Another is to direct public attention to the role of the dentist in the oral cancer control program.

This is the 10th clinic of its nature held in Minnesota the past few years under auspices of the cancer society. The most recent one, held in June, 1965, in Grand Rapids, examined 1,125 men and women and found 143 abnormalities of the mouth. Twenty-three of these abnormalities were serious enough to require biopsies which were examined by a pathologist. One case of mouth cancer was detected.

Other recent clinics had these results: Fairmont, February, 1965, 1,777 examined, 64 abnormalities found, 33 biopsies made, three cancers diagnosed. Granite Falls, April, 1964, 3,522 examined, 258 abnormalities observed, 35 biopsies taken and four cancers diagnosed.

At each clinic, a person with an abnormality is referred immediately to his own dentist or physician for further diagnostic procedures and treatment.

100,000 Acres Field Inspected By MCIA in 1965

A record 100,000 acres were field inspected in 1965 by members of the Minnesota Crop Improvement association as part of the association's seed certification program.

Bennett L. Aarestad, Halstad, reelected as president at the association's 62nd annual meeting, January 12, says the 100,000 acres for 1965 nearly doubles the acreage inspected in 1963.

The state's official seed certification agency, M.C.I.A. promotes improved crop production, especially through production and distribution of certified seed varieties.

Other officers re-elected for 1966 include Robert E. Thiel, Wendell, vice president; Bert G. Enestvedt, Sacred Heart, treasurer; and Harley Otto, St. Paul, secretary. R. S. Rice, Roseau, was a newly elected director. Enestvedt and Aarestad were re-elected as directors for three-year terms.

At present, the association has 1,626 members throughout Minnesota participating in the seed certification program. Aarestad says the program is designed to increase the supply of quality field crop seed and make certified seed available to more farmers.

The association's field inspections and accurate records also maintain the varietal purity and good germination qualities of field crop seeds.

The Minnesota association is also a member of the International Crop Improvement Association, which is composed of seed certifying agencies from the United States and Canada. Harley Otto, extension agronomist at the university, is the state's representative on the international association's board of directors.

The seed certification program strives for high quality seeds which are basic to good crop production. New crop varieties grown in 1965 include: Chris wheat; Traverse, A-100 and Chippewa 64 soybeans; Tippecanoe oats and Dixon barley.

For a list of growers supplying certified seed, read the association's "Seed Directory for 1966 Planting." The publication is available from county agents or Ward Marshall, Minnesota Crop Improvement Association, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn. 55101.

Plan Year-Around Use of Swimming Pool in Baudette

Severn instructional swimming pool in Baudette, which was enclosed last fall, will be ready for year-around use by next summer following recent school board action approving the immediate insulation of the pool shelter, according to School Suuperintendent Earl Anderson.

Cost of the insulating project will be approximately $2,800. Next spring a heated walk-way from the pool to the school will be built, and lights installed over the pool.

Present plans are to conduct swimming instruction as part of the physical education curriculm on a nearly 12-month basis. Winter swimming classes for adults may also be held, if there is sufficient demand.

C. E. Moen at $1,185 was the successful bidder for installing pool insulation and will begin work immediately. Dodds Lumuber was the successful bidder for materials at $1,680.

NFO Grain Board Members Attend Fargo Meeting

George Horachek, chairman, and Oldrich Hoffman of the Pennington County NFO grain board attended a meeting held in Fargo recently. The meeting was conducted by Connie Rutten, Hickson, N. D., coordinator of seven zones in Minnesota and North Dakota.

NFO grain board members in these zones are asked to contact NFO grain producers for the purposes of signing marketing agreements for the third and fourth quarters of 1966. March 7 is the final day to sign up for the third quarter and May 11 is the last day for fourth quarter sign-up.

The NFO has launched a saturation organizational membership drive over a 25-state area, according to Mrs. Edward Stucy, Goodridge, publicity chairman for the Pennington county organization. Non-members in this county will soon be contacted by NFO members and the progress of the organization will be explained.

Each county in the NFO organization has two captains and two co-captains to lead the campaign. Members are assisting these captains in contacting non-members.

"During the past few months the NFO has gained substantial success in the field of bargaining with processors," stated Daniel Johnson, Pennington County "getting new members has never been as great as it is right now."

Johnson also claimed that NFO has been a major factor in bringing about substantial price increases to farmers on hogs and the increased prices on cattle. "This has been brought about through meat marketing arrangements," Johnson said.

Johnson urged county NFO members to list their livestock to Wold Truck Lines at Thief River Falls for delivery to the collection point at Winger every Tuesday.

"This hen is determinism: to learn to understand the causes of evil, so that we may induce the causes of reform. Not to be a fatalist, or a slave, a slave of oneself, or a slave of one's surroundings. Understand Economics?

So you think you have a pretty fair understanding of economics? Well, quite frankly, we get confused once in a while when we hear economists talk on various phases of the economy. Government economists confuse us with their assurances that we can spend ourselves rich and that deficit spending is the only way to keep from going in debt.

But if economics doesn't confuse you, you are sure to understand the following explanation. It was said to be printed on a card handed to Burdette L. Fisher, general manager of the Kyana Milk Producers, Inc., Louisville, after he addressed a group of professors and students of agriculture on the economics situation of the dairy industry in Kentucky.

"The department reports with some glee that sales and income figures show an easing up of the rate at which business is easing off, which is taken as proof of the contention that there is a slow but noticeable slowing up of the slow down. In order to clairfy the cautious terminology of the economist, it should be noted that a slowing up of the slow down is not as good as an upturn in the down curve. But it is a good deal better than either a speed up of a slow down or a deepening of the down curve. And it does suggest that the climate is right for an adjustment to the readjustment.

"Turning to unemployment, we find a definite decrease in the rate of increase, which clearly shows that there is a letting up of the let down. Of course, if the slow down should speed up, the decrease in the rate of increase of unemployment would turn to an increase of the decrease of employment. In other words, the deceleration would be accelerated.

"But the indicator suggests rather a leveling off, referred to on Wall Street as 'bumping along a rock bottom.' This will be followed by a general pick up, then a faster pick up, a slow down of the pick up and finally a leveling off again. It is hard to tell before the slow down is completed whether a particular pick up is going to be fast. At any rate, the climate is right for a pick up this season, especially if you are about 25, unmarried and driving a red convertible."

Pause for Reflection

We received this week from the U. S. Department of Labor, in its weekly news service, a copy of the President's "State of the Union" address to Congress at the opening of the current session. It makes for interesting reading. For example, Pesident Johnson said:

"Because our economic policies have produced rising revenues, if you approve every program that I recommend tonight, our total budget deficit will be one of the lowest in many years. It will be only 1.8 billion dollars next year. Total spending in the administrative budget will be 112.8 billion dollars. Revenues next year will be 111 billion dollars.

"On a cash basis, which is the way that you and I keep our family budget, the federal budget next year will actually show a surplus. That is to say, if we include all the money that your government will take in and all the money that your government will spend, your government next year will collect one-half billion dollars more than it will spend in the year 1967."

Sounds like things are moving in the right direction, doesn't it? Finally collecting more money than it will spend is something for the government to do that hasn't been done for some time. We doubt it will be done next year. Just a little later in his speech, the President said:

"I believe it desirable, because of increased military expenditures, that you temporarily restore the automobile and certain telephone excise tax reductions made effective only 12 days ago."

Alas, again we read of the "temporary" tax. The excise tax reductions of which the President speaks were introduced "temporarily" during World War II more than 20 years ago. Now, before partial reductions have been in effect for two weeks, the administration wants them "temporarily" reinstated. This in spite of the prediction that the government will collect one-half billion dollars more than it will spend in the year 1967.

Take heart taxpayers! The President knows you worked for the taxes you so generously contributed to the federal coffers, and he will protect you. "We will ruthlessly attack waste and inefficiency," he said. "We will make sure that every dollar is spent with the thrift and with the common sense which recognizes how hard the taxpayer worked in order to earn it."

It will be rather difficult for the President—even with the assistance of all the members of Congress—to make sure that "every dollar" of the 112.8 billion dollars to be spent is actually spent with the "thrift and with the common sense" which the President promised. There are bound to be a few million dollars here and there which are a little lacking in supervision.

Nor was the farmer forgotten in this "State of the Union" message. "To improve the life of our rural Americans and our farm population, we will plan for the future through the establishment of several new Community Development districts, improved education through the use of Teacher Corps teams, and better health measures, physical examinations, and adequate and available medical resources," said LBJ.

Something apparently got lost in the translation when the problem of the farmer was explained in the language of the government. What the farmer wants is not having the government "plan for the future" through the programs mentioned, but an opportunity to get an equitable return for his crops, livestock and labor so that he has the financial ability to plan for himself.

Ye who labor are also to be found along the President's road to justice. "For those who labor, I propose to improve unemployment insurance, to expand minimum wage benefits, and—by repeal of Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley act—to make the labor laws in all our states equal to the laws of the 31 states which do not have tonight right-to-work measures."

Hear also these words from the same speech: "And as our economy surges toward new heights, we must increase our vigilance against the inflation which raises the cost of living and lowers the savings of every family in this land. It is essential, to prevent inflation, that we ask both labor and business to exercise price and wage restraint, and I do so again tonight."

Then there is Viet Nam; but that's a different story.

Holdout for Freedom

There is a lot said, and sometimes doubted, about the freedom of the American press. But the freest press in our land today is the small independent weekly newspaper. It is free because it is one of the last survivors of an age of individualists. It is too small to be noticed a great deal by the mighty powers that mold public opinions.

It exists only by the grace of the Almighty and the good will of its advertisers. Its owners and publishers are usually too stubborn to be bought, and it doesn't give the mighty newspaper empires enough competition to earn their enmity.

Editorially it preaches "trade at home," "support your local chamber of commerce", and "go to church on Sunday." But it can and does jump on crooked politicians and corrupt government and it can wax eloquent over the questions of patriotism and motherhood. Now and then it castigates the mayor or governor of the state, and the President and the Supreme Court of the United States when it feels they deserve censure. Its personnel work long hours, more or less cheerfully accepting torrents of abuse from disgruntled readers.

But it is free. Perhaps it is that kind of freedom that comes when you no longer have anything more to lose. But it is the most real journalistic freedom left in the world. Too insignificant for the pressure groups to bother with, it wields a cumulative power that is one of the tremendous forces in our nation today.

But like many of our blessings, it is taken for granted. People tolerate it like they do an eccentric aging relative. The weekly paper has been around so long that the citizenry rarely pauses to consider it. But, comes a dictatorship or military occupation, the newspaper is the first thing that must be controlled.

Culture Center?

There is talk around the community these days about Thief River Falls becoming the cultural center of the area. This may be an ambitious thought, but there are many people who would like to see such talk become reality. The step from a community with virtually no clutural activity to a cultural center is quite a large one.

The seeds have been planted, however, and it would appear that they are sprouting in fertile soil. Sunday night's concert by the Concordia college choir was presented before a full house at Lincoln senior high school auditorium—in spite of the fact that temperatures lurked around the minus 35 degree mark. That concert was sponsored by the senior choir at Trinity Lutheran church. A vigorous advance ticket sale and a number of people from outside of Thief River Falls attending contributed to the sell-out crowd.

This should provide encouragement to the Thief River Falls Concert association which has been recently formed to bring talented artists to Thief River Falls. The first concert is scheduled for Wednesday, February 16, when the Consolo Piano Quartet from Minneapolis will be presented in concert in this city. A number of area music-lovers are looking forward to the performance.

Concert associations have proved quite successful in a number of communities where they have been blessed with aggressive leadership. Quite conversely, they have failed in a number of communities where established associations have become complacent, neglected publicity, failed to promote ticket sales and stimulate the interest of the public. While it is difficult to start such an association, there are also problems involved in maintaining it once it has been organized.

The February 16 concert may be considered as a concert to "feel the public pluse" in this area and determine how much life is coursing through its cultural veins. We hope that attendance will be good, for we expect the co[illegible] to be entertaining and enjoyable. Quality of the musicians is high and the type of performance should be something out of the ordinary.

While television brings talented artists directly into the home, there is something lacking that only actual concert attendance can give. Plan to attend.

Peter Wikstrom

Our community was deeply saddened by the recent death of Peter Wikstrom of Melfort, Sask, Canada, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wikstrom Sr. of Strandquist. Peter Wikstrom was born in Nelson Park township, Marshall county, Minnesota July 13, 1894. In 1898 he moved with his folks to East Park township, a farm east of Strandquist, where he was raised to manhood with 13 other brothers and sisters.

In 1918 he went to war and served 1½ years with the Infantry Battalion, was gassed while fighting the battle of the Argon and remained in a French Base hospital for 6 months.

In 1920 with his brother John, he left for Beatty Sask., Canada where the two brothers farmed together for many years before each got married. In 1922 Peter married Margaret Sjodin of Beatty and they had 9 children of which two died while very young, a girl 2 years old and a boy of only a few months. Mrs. Wikstrom passed away 19 years ago, which left Peter rearing of 7 children.

Four years ago Peter sold his farm and bought a house in Melfort to retire as his health became poorly. His children now grown, some married, some working elsewhere.

He was preceded in death by his parents, 3 brothers, 2 sisters, his wife Margaret and 2 children, he is survived by 1 daughter (Yvonne) Mrs. Lloyd Hill of Kinistino, 6 sons, Peter Jr. of B.C., Lyle Gordon of Vancouver, Floyd of Estevan, Alroy and Darrel of Edmonton and Leroy of Beatty, 5 brothers, all in Minnesota, Arvid of Holt, Vernon of Grygla, Carl and Willie of Strandquist, George of Karlstad, 3 sisters (Ruth) Mrs. Al Harper of Cleeland, Ohio, (Inga) Mrs. Oscar Johnson and (Mabel) Mrs. Clarence Borsvold of Strandquist. Handicapped Youngsters Active at Camp Courage

Enter Camp Courage on a sunny day when even nature shows her best face. The sun outlines the red wood buildings against their green setting. The scene is quiet and peaceful. But, this is a camp and, like all camps, its campers are busy. Several Thief River Falls residents have attended the camp.

By the docks the waterfront director is just lifting a dwarfed, crippled little girl out of her canoe. Across from him, four older girls are giggling desperately over their futile attempts to dock their rowboat.

Up the shore a bit, two 10-year-old girls are crunched up in the their latest plans. Not about what they can't do with braces on their legs, but about what they are going to do, "no matter what!"

But the waterfront is not the only scene of activity. The archery field is packed with boys, crutches and wheel chairs. It takes a lot of balance to get that arrow whizzing to the right spot when you're standing with the aid of crutches.

A wheelchair-packed trailer goes by. Here's bubbling, too, as the young fellows anticipate a drive woods to learn some of its secrets on the nature trails.

Inside in the craft shop there's a blind girl feeling and questioning the left she's going to print of course, the rest of the sound in and "wty's" and attempts to "get that one there right" even with artificial hands.

A bell rings and everybody heads for the dining hall. Meal starts and ends with a lively prayer-song. A crippled leg or the lack of sight is no hindrance to singing. During the meal, there's lots of clatter and chatter. In between his own bites, a husky counselor bends over a ten-year-old lad to feed him, since the lad's own arms just won't do what he wants them to.

One cabin doesn't come to the dining hall for supper. They're having a cookout. And cookouts are always a good substitute for a sitting-att-table meal. There's a fire to get warm by, and dreams to plan with your pal, and a chance to hobble over to a couselor and offer him the gift of a nice sticky marshmallow you've cooked by yourself. (It's good to be independent, even in roasting a marshmallow, when usually you're leaning on a crutch, a brace or somebody's arm.)

Evening comes and you may see a ball game—yes, despite crutches see a group loading up for an overnight camping trip—sure, anybody can camp out. Or you might see—well, anything.

There's no limit to the noise and activity at Camp Courage. It's a camp, and campers are meant for action, whether speeded up by a helping hand or slowed down by a crutch and dragging feet.

Camp Courage is one of the programs supported by contributions to the Crippled Children's Appeal, held January 23-February 9 in areas where the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults (MISCCA) is not a member of the United Fund. MISCCA also provides rehabilitation services, day camping, sheltered employment, research and education for Minnesota's handicapped.

PUBLIC OPINION

To the Editor:

Shortly before the end of last year I sent in renewal of subscription to the Times and didn't then get off some lines, which I had in mind to write, for I wanted an expression to accompany the order.

I appreciate receiving the Times and scanning columns for news. Although, soon, its nine years since I left your city, I find in your paper many articles and other items of value in way of information. You publish a larger semi-weekly. . .you print a lot of news more than one hundred times a year. The Times, really, costs me not quite a nickel a copy. I notice, too, your paper's layout.

Especially do I value your strong editorial page. Somehow, editorials reflect a publication. On the whole, I'm in agreement with conservative views you express on subjects which are of vital concern. We need conservatism these days. I've been thankful many times that you, an editor have convictions and that you express them. I'm moved by the love for country reflected in your writings.

The old fashioned note of patriotism was well sounded in the editorial, "The Deeper Roots," issue of January 10. Contents expressed and quoted are of real warning in a day when principles which have been an undergirding force now are being undermined. In a time of declension of true patriotism, we appreciate the reminders to be thankful for our national heritage and to pray for those to whom government is entrusted.

I take notice, of course, of your generous allotment of space for readers' expression, even when such views are not the editor's. It was of interest recently to read the article by Attorney H. O. Berve. I've read with much appreciation many items in the column of Observer W. E. Dahlquist. May I hereby, too, 'for old times' sake,' salute N. A. Holen.

We are amid restless and unstable times. "Change and decay in all around I see; O Thou, who changeth not, abide with me." I rejoice in the truth: Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and today, and forever (Hebrews 13:8; and in the assurance: For yet a little while, and he that shall come will come, and will not tarry (Hebrews 10:37). With the Coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, peace comes on this earth. . .but not till then. How important to be saved today and to be ready for the unending hereafter, eternity!!

With thanks, Sincerely, in God's Grace.

Deer in Some Areas Hampered by Snow

Heavy and persistent snow cover averaging two feet in depth is causing severe problems for deer in Cook, Lake, Koochiching and in northern St. Louis counties, the Minnespta Conservation department reported today. Department game officials say some fawn losses can be expected in these areas if present conditions continue.

Conditions in the Brainerd, Aitkin, Grand Rapids and Cloquet areas in the central counties and in the northwestern part of the state are much better and no significant losses are expected in this area unless conditions become worse.

Crews of Neighborhood Youth corps workers are being put to work in selected deer yards to cut browse and the federal job corps camp at Isabella in Lake county is setting up deer browse projects under the supervision of the U. S. Forest service.

All work crews under the supervision of the Iron Range Resources and Rehabilitation commission which are in a position to cut browse are being asked to assist in the operation.

Conservation department field men report they have been unable to recruit sufficient numbers of eligible NYC workers to form crews at Grand Rapids, Finland, Grand Marais or Virginia and that it is doubtful if they will be able to maintain crews at capacity in other areas.

Ted Shields, game and fish director, reports that eight snow vehicles have been purchased in order to reach areas of deer concentrations.

He said that every conceivable effort will be made to keep deer losses to a minimum, but because of the vastness of the area and the difficulty of access it is not possible to reach every deer threatened with starvation.

He asked sportsmen in the problem area who wish to be of assistance to contact their local game manager or game warden.

The department recently distributed a special publication on winter care of deer in order to coordinate activities between the department and private groups and individuals. Copies of this publication are available by writing the Division of Game and Fish, Centennial Building, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Shields again urged sportsmens groups and individuals who wish to undertake deer feeding activities to cut natural browse for the animals rather than feed hay, alfalfa or similar "artificial" foods. "Manpower and facilities available should be expended where they can do the greatest amount of good and not be wasted on ineffective methods," he said.

A DIFFERENT DRUMMER

The world is filled with the sound of many drums. Drums of militarism stir man to war and conquest. Drums of conformity invite him to keep step with low standards and false values. Drums of greed lure him into the killing pace of selfish getting and gaining.

But a different drum sounds, too. It beats in the rhythm of law and love, and rings with the sound of eternal truths. It beckons man to integrity and true self-fulfillment; it calls him to the path of duty and to the way of service. The different drum is God's.

A man must choose which drum he will listen for and follow. Many years ago, Henry David Thoreau wrote: "If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer."

God's house is one place where you will hear the "Different Drummer." Worship there this Sunday with your family.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL, ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—My son is a Navy veteran and the father of six children. He is unable to acquire insurance due to disabilities. It is my understanding that the policy he once held while in the Navy is still open to him until May, 1966.

A—He should contact the nearest Veterans administrational regional office for information and pamphlets on the new insurance being sold to veterans who have a service-connected disability. This insurance will be sold until May 2, 1966.

Q—I am single and receiving a nonservice-connected pension from the VA of $78.75 per month. I would like to know how much I am allowed to earn per year by the Veterans administration. This pension is under the "old pension law."

A—A veteran without dependants receiving a non-service connected pension under the old law may not have an income which exceeds $1,400 per year.

Q—I was a private in the army in World War I. I had a GI insurance policy of $10,000 and $6.70 was taken from my check every month. I have recently been told that GIs in World War I did not have to pay for their government insurance. Is this correct?

A—Servicemen in World War I had to pay the premiums on their government life insurance policies.

Q—My neighbor, a disabled veteran receiving montly disability payments, received an income questionnaire from VA; his payments would be stopped if he did not report his annual income. I am receiving disability compensation payments but have never received the questionnaire. Should I file a report of income anyway?

A—Your neighbor evidently receives monthly "pension" payments for a nonservice-connected disability. You are receiving "compensation" payments for a service-connected disability which is not affected by your other income. You do not have to file a report.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

Before you schuss down that hill or zoom across that snowy field in your snowmobile, give a thought to some preparations you should make to contend with the weather. Even though the temperature may feel mild at first, lengthy exposure may spoil the fun if you're not prepared. The Minnesota State Medical association has some suggestions to make your participation in winter sports more healthful.

Your clothing is very important. Several layers of loose, light weight clothing will give you better protection and more warmth than one very heavy garmnt. Tight clothing will cut down your blood circulation, and you will get cold much more quickly. The extra layers of clothing will help retain warmth. Be sure all your clothes fit properly. A wrinkle in a sock can quickly cause a blister.

A wooly jacket may be stylish, but snow will adhere to it. Tightly woven, water repellent clothing gives the best protection against wind and snow.

Your skin will probably need extra protection against the wind and cold. There is a wide variety of preparations on the market to prevent dryness and chapping. Prevention of these conditions is easier than trying to cure them.

On bright, sunny days dark sun glasses should be worn to protect your eyes. Especially in the early spring and at high altitudes, it is wise to guard against snow blindness. A word of caution—glass lenses may shatter and harm your eyes in event of an accidental fall.

Have fun in the snow, says the association. The exercise you get in participating in winter sports can be very healthfu, but be prepared for the weather.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture

Soil surveys that have been so useful for agricultural production are finding a new role in metropolitan areas. In the Hennepin county park reserve district, soil surveys are being made for Hyland park in Bloomington. Survey information will provide the physical guide for planning various kinds of land use.

The U.S. Soil Conservation service reports that this trend toward other uses for the surveys is continuing. Government agencies, planning boards and professional planning consultants find these surveys a real asset for planning and filling of areas for future development.

Soil survey maps specify soil type, slope of the land and the amount of top soil remaining. Other information includes texture of the soil—whether it's gravel, sand, silt, clay or something else—water table, drainage, effect from frost action, water holding capacity and other features. There is even specific information of r septic tanks and drain fields.

Selecting a place for picnic tables, camping grounds in other areas may seem simple. But with the heavy foot use given these places, their selection can be quite complicated unless you know quite a bit about the soil in the proposed location.

Intensive play areas require a vigorous grass. Some areas must avoid flooding hazards, or water saturation.

The report furnished to the Hennepin Park district will include a tree planting guide for the various soils, slopes and exposures.

The soil surveys and accompanying interpretations have been made by the SCS in cooperation with the University of Minnesota agricultural experiment station and the Hennepin Soil and Water Conservation district. The work was cost shared with the Hennepin County Park Reserve district.

Guide Published For Emergency Feeding of Deer

Minnesota Conservation department has issued a guide for the emergency winter feeding of deer and for improving browse conditions in deer yards.

The 18-page manual is intended for use by state game wardens, game managers, foresters, other department personnel and sportsmen if emergency feeding of deer becomes necessary in areas where deep snows prevent deer from ing yards in search of additional food supplies.

Since deer eat a variety of woody plants there is usually a sufficient quantity of food in the deer yard or in the surrounding area if it can be made available to the deer. The manual explains that in some years this browse may be buried under deep snows. In some areas browse plants may have grown out of reach of the deer.

Deer eat the twigs and sprouts of the plants and shrubs and during the winters of deep snow these may be unavailable. The guide points out how the branches of the shrubs, bushes and trees that deer feed on can be cut down so that deer can use them, and how such cutting will improve future browse conditions by causing the plants to resprout the following year.

It explains why the cutting of natural browse is much preferred to artificial feeding of hay and why the department does not recommend the feeding of these foods to deer.

Persons interested in assisting in this program can get copies of the guide from local game managers and game wardens and from the Minnesota Conservation Department, Game and Fish Division, Centennial Building, St. Paul.

SPEAKERS on the grass and legume institute program of the Pennington County Seed and Feed show to be held Friday in Thief River Falls are William F. Hueg, Jr., left, and Harley J. Otto of the University of Minnesota institute of agriculture. Hueg is professor and assistant director of the agriculture experiment station and Otto has been an extension agronomist since early in 1958. The institute will begin at 10 a.m. in the Thief River Falls city auditorium and continue into the afternoon following a recess for noon lunch. Latest information on production of grasses and legumes will be presented at the institute and two general discussion periods are planned in the day's agenda.

Grass, Legume Institute To Be Held Here Friday

Farmers in the area won't want to miss the grass and legume institute Friday at the Thief River Falls city auditorium starting at 10 a.m., according to Charles Will, Pennington county assistant agricultural agent. All farmers who are interested in the production of grasses and legumes will find this institute very educational, interesting, and beneficial to their own farming program, Will said.

University of Minnesota extension personnel will report on the latest research in the field of grass and legume seed production and will present the most recent ideas and techniques in the profitable production of grasses and legumes.

The program has been proposed as follows:

10 a.m. — "Developing Varieties of Grasses and Clover", Dr. H. L. Thomas; 10:45 — "Income Potential in Grass and Legume Seed Production", W. N. Provance; 11:15 — "Soil Fertility Needs for Seed Production"; 11:45 — Discussion; 12 noon — Lunch; 1:00 p.m. — "Weed Control in Grasses", Harley J. Otto; 2:00 — Insect Studies on Clover and Grasses", A. G. Pe- Grass and Legume Seed Research' W. F. Hueg Jr.; 2:45 — Discussion; 3:00 — Adjourn.

This year the grass and legume institute will be held in conjunction with the Pennington County Seed and Feed show. A great number and variety of grain, hay and silage exhibits will be displayed by the farmers of the Thief River Falls area.

An interesting afternoon program has been planned for the ladies in connection with the event. Miss Beverly Tvelto, Pennington county home agent, will present a program on "How to Incorporate Dairy Foods into the Daily Diet." This year the feed and seed show will stress the use of grain and dairy products.

Red Lake Indians To Restore Marsh

Restoration of traditional hunting and trapping grounds of the Chippewa Indians in northwest Minnesota by the U. S. Corps of Engineers will bring long-term benefits to both the Indians and the state's sportsmen, the Department of the Interior announced today.

Contracts for restoration of 3,300 acres of wildlife marshes at the Red Lake outlet, amounting to $176,000, have been awarded to the Hurley Construction company of St. Paul by the Corps of Engineers, St. Paul district office.

The restored marshes will border the Red Lake river channel and will be flooded by diverting waters directly from the Red Lake into two diked-off areas. Construction work is to be completed this year.

In 1965, Interior's Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife and Bureau of Indian Affairs completed a 5,000-acre marsh restoration project, also in the reservation area, diverting water from the Clearwater river to recreate the marshes bordering this stream. This project, costing $380,000 in Accelerated Public Works funds, also included improvement of an additional 2,000 acres of marshland for wildlife by creation of hundreds of waterfowl ponds and nesting islands.

New industry and new dollars will be brought to the Red Lake Chippewa Indians by both marsh restoration and development projects. An estimated 150,000 pounds of wild rice will be harvested on the areas annually in the future.

Anticipated wildlife production and harvest from the Red Lake and Clearwater marshes include 10,000 waterfowl, 11,000 muskrat and 150 mink annually.

In addition to the income occuring from wild rice and furbearer harvests, the Chippewas expect to manage the restored marsh areas for hunting by non-Indians and will obtain revenues through li-

Langen Assured P.O. Will Study Rural Problems

Congressman Odin Langen said today he has received assurances from the post office department in Washington that rural America will receive attention in the announced study of the postal system that is getting underway. "I promised that the department, after studying the situation, intends to improve mail service across the entire nation, including rural areas," said Langen after conferring with a representative of the department in the Congressman's office.

Langen discussed the most recent complaints of deteriorated mail service that have reached his office. "This was one of a series of meetings I have had with postal officials here in Washington over the past couple of years," Langen said, "and was only the latest batch of complaints that have been called to the department's attention.

"At last they seem to be getting the message that mail service is going from bad to worse. While it is encouraging to receive a promise of action, we will be watching carefully for signs of actual improvement."

Tax Delinquency Here Is Lowest Since 1959

READING the official temperature registered by the maximum and minimum thermometers housed in this U.S. Weather Bureau instrument shelter at the Thief River Falls municipal airport is Lowell Vraa, North Central Airlines station manager. The upper photo is a closeup of the thermometers taken Friday morning. The upper thermometer is the minimum one, registering a Friday morning low of -41 degrees as shown by the minimum temperature marker. Located inside the thermometer tube, the marker, called "dumbbell" by weathermen because of its shape, rides down with the alcohol column and stays at the lowest point reached by the column. This thermometer is reset by turning it up on end, so that the dumbbell falls to the end of the alcohol column. The maximum thermometer below, reads -29 degrees, which was the temperature at the 6 p.m. reading Thursday. This instrument is mounted on a locking swivel. The mercury is forced through a tiny aperture which will not permit its return into the bulb until the thermometer is whirled vigorously.

Tax delinquency in Pennington county for the past year was the lowest since 1959 when the historical low was recorded, according to Ellsworth Jorgenson, Pennington county treasurer. Delinquency this year totaled 2.53 per cent, compared with 2.75 per cent last year and the historical low of 1.80 per cent in 1959.

The city of Thief River Falls has delinquency of 1.63 per cent or $13,824 on a total levy of $844,193. St. Hilaire had delinquency of 9.88 per cent and the village of Goodridge had a delinquency rate of 4.83 per cent.

Total delinquency in the county was $38,265 on a total levy of $1,512,874, the treasurer said. Taxes paid totaled $1,471,468 with cancelations and abatements totaling $4,059.

In 1959, when the lowest percentage of delinquency was recorded, there was $25,508 delinquent on a total levy of $1,170,633. Highest delinquency on record was in 1938 when $48,893 was delinquent on a total levy of $326,078 for 15 per cent.

Tickets on Sale For Charity Ball

Tickets are now on sale for the Mrs. Jaycees fifth annual Charity Ball to be held Saturday, February 19, at 9 p.m. in the Elks club rooms in Thief River Falls. They may be obtained at the Junior Shop, Falls Jewelry or from members of the Mrs. Jaycees chapter.

"An Evening in the Orient" is the theme for the event this year and decorations are being planned around the oriental theme. The Jim Solsten orchestra will play for evening dancing and a special floor show is planned for 10:30 p.m.

In a letter to the Times, Mrs. Oscar W. Johnson, president of the Pennington-Red Lake ARC, commented on the annual benefit. Her letter is as follows:

"The Mrs. Jaycees have helped our local association for retarded children in many ways. Their interest, efforts, financial support and kindness have been very much appreciated.

"Again as the time approaches for their annual ball to help retarded children in our own local area, I would like to tell you what their help, along with help from other local organizations, church groups, private parties and friends mean to us of the Pennington-Red Lake ARC and to parents of retarded children.

"Without the help from the Mrs. Jaycees and interested local groups and individuals, we could not keep our local activity center open. We can not thank them enough for their kindness, offers of help and financial support.

"The Mrs. Jaycees have been real 'friends in need'—always willing to help when needed most, in any way they can, but it is through this spring charity ball they are able to give most of their financial help to the retarded. They work hard planning a pleasant evening, choosing an interesting theme and do all they can to make the ball a success. The rest is up to the public and their attendance.

"The money taken in, after expenses are paid, is given to our local ARC group. We in turn use this money to help keep our activity center open. There is equipment to buy, teachers wages and odds and ends of expense. It costs about a thousand dollars for just essentials to keep the center open for one year.

"We have so greatly appreciated

1966 Feed Grain Program Signup Period Announced

Farmers in Pennington county who plan to take part in the 1966 feed grain program will find that signup procedure and general program requirements this year are similar to those followed for last year's feed grain program, according to Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

For example, the first step in taking part in the program is to fill out an intention-to-participate form and leave it with the ASCS office, Knutson said. This can be done at any time during the sign-up period, which runs from January 31 through April 15 in Pennington county.

After a producer has signed-up, he is responsible for (1) diverting acreage from corn, grain sorghum and-or barley to the extent he has agreed upon; (2) designating the acreage of land to be diverted and establishing approved conservation use on that land; (3) maintaining the conserving base acreage on his farm; and (4) not exceeding the feed grain base acreage on any other farm in which he has an interest, Knutson explained.

Farmers who request it will be eligible to receive 50 per cent of any diversion payment they may expect to earn under the 1966 program at the time they sign up. Farmers who request it may receive this payment at the time they sign up for the program.

Concert Ass'n. Plans First Program Feb. 16

First concert of the Thief River Falls Concert association will be held Wednesday, February 16, at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls. The concert will be presented by the Console Piano Quartet from Minneapolis

Tickets for the concert are priced at $2 for adults and $1 for students and will be offered for sale on a door-to-door residential basis during the period from February 3-6. Tickets will also be on sale Thursday night at Northern and Union State banks, First Federal Savings and Loan association, Penney's and Woolworth's.

The association will meet again this evening (Monday) to discuss the initial concert and to make plans for a series during the coming season. This meeting will be open to any persons interested in a concert series and will be held at 8 p.m. in the basement meeting room of the Pennington county courthouse.

The Console Piano Quartet is one of the newer musical organizations in the upper Midwest. It is the result of an idea conceived by Theodore Bergman, concert pianist and teacher, as he crossed a busy intersection in Minneapolis in 1954.

Initially the quartet included Bergman, his team partner James Allen, and another piano-duo, Elsie Wolf-Campbell and Helen Grotte Keidel. Bergman explained the quartet's determination to avoid over-arranging of its music which might ". . .distort the music's intent and batter the listener's ears with a plethora of sounds identical in timbre, bombastic in volume and lost in frenetic acceleration."

James Allen was commissioned, as the group's musical director, to prepare arrangements that would maintain the integrity of the original compositions, yield variety in ensemble performance and yet have a clarity that would allow complete definition of sound no matter how swift the pace or full the chord.

Many experiments failed, but at last the group invited James S. Lombard, director of the University of Minnesota department of concerts and lectures to hear them play. He was impressed, and the quartet has gone on to play many concerts and was signed to be assisting artists with the Apollo Club at its 1955 fall concert.

Since finding four concert grand pianos is different in many communities and transporting such pianos would be even greater problem. The group solved this problem by performing on small, console pianos, bringing a new sound to the concert stage.

Today the quartet has changed personnel for a variety of reasons. Appearing in Thief River Falls will be Ottolee Davis, Gary Sipes, James S. Allen and Theodore Bergman. The music is said to be intelligently arranged, excitingly played and attractively staged.

Murach And Kroening Speak Marriage Vows

Floral arrangements and candelabra graced the altar at the First Lutheran church at McIntosh for the recent wedding of Miss Mary Jane Murach and Richard Carl Kroening. The Rev. Emmanuel Blomquist officiated at the double ring ceremony and Mrs. Roy Anderson provided a program of nuptial music and accompanied her daughter, Sharon, as she sang, "O Master Let Me Walk with Thee" and "O Perfect Love".

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Murach of Fosston and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kroening, also of Fosston.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown designed with a Chantilly lace bodice featuring long tapered sleeves and a scalloped neckline. Wide bands of matching lace edged the sheer nylon tiers of the bouffant skirt. A crown of seed pearls held her veil of silk illusion and her only jewelry was a dainty entwined double heart pendant on a slender chain. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and pink and white carnations.

Vonnie Murach attended her sister as maid of honor and Karen Kroening, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. They wore identical floor length sleeveless gowns of pink crepe and lace with matching pink shoes. Flowergirl, Terri Bakken was dressed similar to the other attendants.

The groom chose Benny Myhre of Lengby as best man and Robert Giese of Milaca as groomsman. Gary Kroening, brother of the groom served as ring bearer and the ushers were Doug Kroening, Fosston, cousin of the groom and Ronald Macho of East Grand Forks.

The mothers wore blue suits with corsages of white carnations and pink roses.

A reception in the church parlors followed. Mrs. Norman Thoreson and Mrs. Joel Vennes cut and served the wedding cake while Phyllis Amberson and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Nystrom poured. Janis Amberson registered the guests and the gifts were displayed by Norma Thoreson, Judy Kroening and Mary Ann Thoreson.

The bride and groom are graduates of the Fosston high school. The groom is also a graduate of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school, welding department and is presently attending classes in the Mechanics department. He is also employed at Wennberg's Welding shop.

Remind Veterans To Sign Reports On Annual Income

Veterans and dependents of deceased veterans throughout Minnesota who receive monthly pension payments and are now reporting their annual income to the Veterans Administration are urged to remember to sign the reports.

John R. Murphy, manager of the VA center in St. Paul, said every year hundreds of income reports are received unsigned and have to be returned.

The law requires that pensions be paid only to persons whose annual income is less than stipulated amounts. For this reason, an annual income report must be made to determine eligibility, Murphy said.

Hans Hanson, 90, Of Grygla Has 157 Living Decendants

When Hans Hanson of Grygla observed his 90th birthday December 15, it was noted that he had 157 living decendents. Of these, eight are his children, 44 his grandchildren and 105 his great-grandchildren.

Born in Norway in 1857, he immigrated to the United States at the age of 16 years. He married Hannah Schock at Amery, Wis., in 1890 and to this union 11 children were born, eight of whom are still living.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. GUST TORGRIMSON

Those who visited France at the annual homemakers party were treated to slices of this French bread made by Mrs. Gust Torgrimson, a member of the Merry Sunshine Homemakers club.

The homemaker who is just beginning to cook and bake is often hesitant at trying a bread recipe using yeast. Although this recipe requires several additional steps, except for the time element, yeast recipes are no longer complicated. In baking bread there is a certain satisfaction in seeing loaves of golden bread brown just out of the oven and what aroma can surpass that of freshly baked bread?

FRENCH BREAD

1 tablespoon shortening
1 tablespoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
2 cups water
1 package or cake of yeast
6 cups sifted flour (about)

Method: Mix shortening, sugar and salt in mixing bowl. Add one cup boiling water, cool by adding cup cold water. Soften Yeast in remaining cup lukewarm water and add to mixture when dissolved. Add flour,—a third at a time. Mix thoroughly, until dough begins to leave sides of the bowl. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until dough is smooth and elastic and does not stick to board. Place in a greased bowl, cover and let rise in warm place until doubled. Punch down and let rise again until almost double. Make into two long loaves and place diagonally on greased cookie sheet lightly sprinkled with cornmeal. Let rise until double. Then brush tops with cold water. Across tops of the loaves cut with scissors or knife one or two lengthwise cuts or several ½ inch diagonal cuts.

Bake 15 minutes in a 400 degree oven containing a pan of boiling water. Remove from oven and brush again with water. Reduce temperature to 350 degrees and bake 25 or 30 minutes longer. Again remove from oven and brush with cold water. Sprinkle with poppy seeds and bake another 10 minutes.

To serve: Cut in slices almost through the loaf, spread with a garlic flavored spread, wrap in foil and heat in moderate oven for about 10 minutes.

During the winter months Mrs. Torgrimson enjoys sewing and knitting in her spare time. Her summer hours are filled with helping her husband on the farm and by running errands for repairs and supplies needed for grain and grass seed farming and raising beef cattle.

The Torgrimsons have one daughter, Mrs. George (Beverly) Multyr of Grand Forks, N. D., and four grandchildren, Mark, Paul, Douglas and Tracey Dawn, ranging in age from two to 10 years.

A member of the Merry Sunshine Girls homemakers club and currently serving as its president, Mrs. Torgrimson is also a member of the St. Petri Ladies aid and together with her husband, attends St. Petri Lutheran church in rural Grygla.

Marshall ASC Activities For 1965 Are Reviewed

Following is a report of the activities of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service office for 1965, as prepared by A. E. Strandquist, office manager.

Local administration of the agricultural program involves applications for participation, maintenance of records related to participating farms, execution of loan agreements and loan repayments, determination of individual farm allotments, measuring crop acreages, inspecting grain and storage structures and many other matters.

The county ASCS office is under the general supervision of an elected committee of three farmers. Members of the committee include Marcel Dahl, Stephen; Francis Hauck, Grygla; and Arthur Vansickle, Warren. Procedure for the election of the county committe was changed in 1965. One member was elected for three years, one member—two years, and one member—one year. In subsequent years the election will pertain to the member whose term expires that year.

ACP Program

The Agricultural Conservation Program is the means through which all people, including farmers, share the costs of conserving essential national resources.

Our total allocation was $145,700 and of this amount, $7,405 was set aside for the Soil Conservation service and the Forestry service for their services. Permanent vegetative coverage for soil protection of 6,426.5 acres was established on 254 farms. Establishment of additional acreages of vegetative cover in crop rotation to retard erosion and improve soil structure permeability, or water holding capacity was carried out on 3,121 acres on 115 farms. There were 43,225 trees planted and cultivated and 2,207 acres were benefited because of it. Improvement of an established vegetative cover for soil, or watershed protection was carried out on 72.8 acres on pastures or permanent hay fields.

Nine farms have completed pits for the benefit of livestock or wildlife that will help to protect vegetative cover. Ditching totaling 335,273 cubic yards has been carried out to help drain water off fields on 64 farms, benefiting 3,022 acres. One hundred seventy-five farmers established a winter cover crop for protection from erosion on 31,073 acres.

This year a new practice was added to our county handbook and was called, a listing practice. It was to help retard erosion on summer fallowed land or land from which row crops are removed too late in the fall to establish an adequate cover before the end of the growing season. Several farmers signed up for this practice but due to the bad weather were not able to carry it out. Only 647 acres were completed. We have five farms that carried out the establishment of vegetative cover providing wildlife food and cover on 25 acres.

SUNSHINE is supposed to be native to Arizona, but the track was muddy as Tagdonnell won the Ole Saint Nick Purse on December 24 at Turf Paradise in Phoenix. Owned by A. F. Holzknecht of Thief River Falls, the five-year-old chestnut gelding has won two firsts, two seconds and a third in five starts at Phoenix, running mostly in the mud. The plaque is being presented by Santa to Mr. and Mrs. Holzknecht in the above photo. Tagdonnell turned in a time of 1:15.4 over the muddy six furlongs.

The total cost-share payments and small increases in Marshall county for the 1965 ACP program came to $104,077.49 paid out to the farmers. This is less than 50 per cent of the cost to the farmer so the farmer's contribution is much more than the cost-share received, Strandquist said.

Due to the unfavorable weather we had in 1965, the farmers had a hard time trying to carry out ACP practices or seeding.

We have the responsibility of establishing feed grain bases, wheat acreage allotments, conserving base acres, yield and payment rates for each individual farm in the county. We send out notices containing this information to the producers. On farming units that have wheat allotments, feed grain bases and conservation reserve contracts it is necessary that we have the acreages checked and compliance determined. Twenty-nine reporters were assigned areas throughout the county to measure the acreages on the participating farms.

Diversion Program

Under the 1965 wheat diversion program there were 1,540 farms eligible for payment by voluntarily reducing their wheat acreage and retiring acres to off-set reduction in wheat allotments and receiving certificates for 80 per cent of their normal allocation for wheat. The participating farms set aside 12,080 acres and received diversion payments of $48,376 on 3,096 acres. Participating producers received total certificate payments of $1,001,411 on a total of 1,806,513 bushels. The total amount of diversion and certificate payments earned was $1,049,787.

Farmers in Marshall county increased their income as well as enriched their soil by reducing their feed grain acreage and converting the diverted acres to a conserving use in 1965. It has also accomplished its purpose by lowering feed grain stocks on hand. The cost to the taxpayer has also been reduced by eliminating many storage costs for grain under loan.

The 1,363 farms which participated in the program had 34,174 acres diverted from their barley and corn base acres and earned a diversion payment of $364,989. A price support payment of $235,499 was made for seeding 47,886 acres of corn and barley under the feed grain program. A total payment of $600,488 was earned under the feed grain program. Participation in the feed grain program also made a producer eligible for a commodity loan on barley.

Under the 1964 wool program on which payments were made in the 1965 year, a total of 755 applications were filed. Payments made to producers, to supplement their income and to promote increase in sheep production, under the shorn wool and unshorn lambs programs totaled $16,830.87. A deduction of one cent per pound was set aside under shorn wool and five cents per hundredweight liveweight under unshorn lambs for promotion fund deductions.

SCS Participation

The Soil Conservation service has the technical service responsibility for the ditching, pit and tree practices. After the farmer has requested the practice and it is approved by the county committee, the request is sent to the SCS technician and they service the referral to see if it is needed, check the performance and the completion.

The SCS office was sent a total of 369 referrals. 33 were cancelled out by the farmers before the technicians serviced them. Forty-one were disapproved by the SCS office in that there was not need for the practice on the farm. Two hundred ninety-four were checked by the SCS office and need shown, 123 were cancelled out by the farmer after the need was determined as it was to wet or to late to do the work. One hundred seventy-one were carried to completion.

Price Support Program

Under the Price Suport Loan program, we have a total of 3,032,904.33 bushels under CCC loan amounting to $2,737,822.84, which covers the present reseal program and also the extensions under the reseal program on approximately 552 loans amounting to 1,531,533.70 bushels. The storage payment on 1964 wheat and barley is $0.1314 per bushel per year and 1964 oats is $0.0855 per bushel per year; 1963 and prior wheat and barley is $0.12045 per bushel per year; and 1963 and prior oats is $0.076 per bushel per year.

At the present time our 1965 loan program covers 1,501,370.63 bushels of grain amounting to $1,559,910.52. There have been approximately 730 applications for farm-stored loans. We have loans on 495,934.00 bushels of 1965 wheat in the amount of $787,649.47; 189,453.50 bushels of 1965 barley in the amount of $144,942.62; 682,992.50 bushels of 1965 oats in the amount of $344,591.25; 31,920.90 bushels of 1965 flax in the amount of $87,085.43; and 24,885.00 bushels of 1965 rye in the amount of $25,631.54, 720 bushels pinto beans in the amount of $3,650.40. The balance of 1965 loans are warehouse stored wheat on 15,432.60 bushels in the amount of $16,624.47 and flax on 60,031.93 bushels in the amount of $147,732.34.

We have 86 active farm storage facility loans at the present time. We have made 872 loans since the program began on structures for farm storage. In 1965 we made 33 loans amounting to $45,935.29.

Many Bins Sold

We have four binsites in the county with a total capacity of 637,950 bushels. At the present time we have approximately 58,334.21 bushels of wheat and 57,144.06 bushels of oats stored in our binsites.

On April 8, 1965, we sold 30 steel bins from the Newfolden binsite, 30 steel bins from the Middle River binsite, and four quonsets from the Argyle binsite reducing our storage capacity by 359,640 bushels. These bins were sold on an auction sale and the average selling price for the steel bins was $437.68 and the average selling price for the quonsets were $1,292.50. In the spring of 1966 additional bins will be sold as the storage capacity at the present time in the binsites is more than is needed in Marshall county as the warehouses can handle most of the delivery of grain.

Conservation Reserve

We have 571 farms in the Conservation Reserve program. These farmers signed a contract with the Department of Agriculture to keep land out of production as there is a surplus of commodities. Out of this number of farms, 124 are part farms, which are permitted to seed part of their acreage, and 457 farms that have their total acreage in conservation reserve. We have a combined acreage of 88,811.4 taken out of production and kept in the conservation reserve program. The total amount paid out to farmers in 1965 was $893,675.46. Due to the shortage of pasture for grazing last spring, 69 farms requested permission to graze conservation reserve land.

Applications totaling 398 were filed on 153,878 pounds of shorn wool. The amount of payment was $13,333.93 and the amount of promotion fund deductions was $1,338.78. Under unshorn lambs, 357 applications were filed and payment was made on 1,165,648 pounds liveweight The amount of payments was $3,496.94 and the amount of promotion fund deductions was $582.83.

Marshall county was declared an emergency livestock feed county due to poor harvest conditions because of the very wet season. Livestock feed could be purchased at 75 per cent of current suport price. We had 315 applications for emergency livestock feed. Several applicants made more than one application during the program, and we sold a total of 89,783.22 bushels of oats. The total sales amounted to $36,819.47 which includes both primary and secondary sales.

In 1965 we had proportionate shares on sugar beets and a notice was sent to each sugar beet grower notifying him of the permitted acreage. The acres planted to sugar beets were measured to check compliance. Sugar beet acreage abandoned, due to flood, storm, freeze, disease, drought or insects, was measured.

We had 192 growers—this includes 53 national reserve growers who are new growers receiving sugarbeet acreage from the new Drayton sugarbet plant. The growers planted a total of 14,301.3 acres of sugar beets receiving a payment of $309,045. Payments are being made at the present time.

Voluntary Wheat Program the Same As 1965 Offer

Many provisions of the 1966 voluntary wheat program are the same as they were last year, according to Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

Farmers who participate in the wheat program agree to plant within all allotments and bases on the participating farm and within the wheat allotment on any other farm in which they have an interest, Knutson said.

Those who sign up for the wheat program and the feed grain program and use the substitution provisions of the 1966 program agree to the same provisions, and in addition, agree to plant within the feed grain base on any other farm in which they have an interest.

Details of the 1966 wheat program may be obtained from the county ASCS office, Knutson said the period for signing up in the program extends from January 31 through April 15.

Arctic Weather Moves; Moderate Reading Expected

The immense arctic high-pressure ridge which brought extremely low temperatures to Minnesota and the Dakotas last week has moved southeastward, bringing the most severe winter storms in many years to the southern and middle Atlantic states. The area from upstate New York to Virginia has been crippled by heavy snowstorms, and the south has experienced the coldest and snowiest weather of this century.

Last week, Minnesota was among 24 states gripped by the subzero cold. For the second time this month, the mercury plummeted to -41 degrees at the Thief River Falls municipal airport Friday morning. Even lower temperatures were observed in nearby areas. Fuel oil congealed in outdoor storage tanks, and propane gas, which liquifies at -44 degrees failed to feed gas into furnaces.

For the first time since January 20, the mercury may rise above the zero mark today in Thief River Falls. Forecast calls for variable cloudiness today, tonight and tomorrow with a few snow flurries today. Temperatures will slowly moderate today and tonight with little temperature change expected tomorrow. Highs today will range from 5 to 15 degrees; lows tonight from 0 to -10. Winds will be light and variable today and tonight.

Temperatures recorded at the airport are as follows: 0, -19 and a trace of snow on Wednesday; -14 and -33 on Thursday; -29 and -41 on Friday; -15 and -34 on Saturday; -1, -23 and a trace on Sunday; and a low this morning of -8.

Judge Kjos Notes 25 Years' Service

Many men rely on memory in their careers. Such is not the case with Herman A. Kjos, judge of probate court in Pennington County since Jan. 1, 1941.

Judge Kjos spent the first few weeks of 1966 compiling an exact report spanning his entire 25 years as probate judge. That inventory includes 2,242 probate cases and 1,736 juvenile hearings over which he has presided.

Vast Sum Involved

The inventory and appraisal of funds and property involved in 25 years of probate cases tops $15 million, according to Kjos. The land transactions involved in the cases total 135,884 acres—more than one-third of Pennington county's acreage.

More than just a technical record of the operation of Kjos' court, the figures mirror changes in the times and changes in the court's duties.

Re-Elected 6 Times

Judge Kjos was first elected judge of probate in 1940. Since then, he has been re-elected six times without opposition. His present six-year term expires Jan. 1, 1969.

"I have the length of service needed for a pension," said the 64-year old Kjos. I'm still in good health and I may continue and serve out my entire term."

Kjos was born at Kenyon, Minnesota, Oct. 24, 191. He moved to rural Thief River Falls with his parents in 1916 and has lived in the county since that time. He is married and has four grown children.

Unlimited Jurisdiction

The court, in its original probate function, has unlimited original jurisdiction in law and equity for the administration of estates and in guardianship and incompetency proceedings.

The probate courts in counties under 100,000 population also serve as juvenile courts and have original and exclusive jurisdiction in all cases concerning juveniles alleged to be neglected and dependent.

Since 1960 probate courts have also served as municipal courts in counties of less than 30,000 population.

Many Cases Handled

The 2,242 probate court cases handled by Kjos in the past 25 years are divided into six categories. The numbers of each type of case were: regular probate proceedings, 1,263; special administration, 105; miscellaneous cases, 130; of minors 174.

The inventory and appraisal of case value totaled $15,409,687. Total values of four categories were real estate, $5,039,565; personal property, $5,997,792; joint tenancy, $3,452,906; and guardianships, $919,424.

"The highest total for all cases for one year was in 1960 with a total value of $1,681,479" said Kjos. "The smallest was 1941 with $249,422. That certainly reflects the economic conditions of those times. There wasn't a single case of joint tenancy during my first three years in office."

1,075 Final Decrees

The 1,075 final decrees executed by Kjos total over $5.5 million in cash, over 82,000 acres of farmland and 846 city lots. The 431 sales of real estate confirmed by the court totaled more than $1.3 million for 765 city lots and 40,498 acres of farmland.

Decrees of conveyance and decrees of descent processed in the court brought the property handled to 135,884 acres and 1,698 city lots.

In municipal court activities, he presided at 525 cases, most of which involved sentencing and the levying of fines.

New Juvenile Code

"The juvenile court has probably seen the biggest change," said Kjos. "The institution of the new juvenile code and probation service in 1959 has really given us tools to work with. Over the years, law enforcement authorities have grown greatly in their understanding of this phase of law enforcement."

Of the 1,376 juvenile hearings Kjos has conducted in 25 years, 414 concerned juvenile traffic offences. In all but a very few of those cases, juveniles were given driver's license suspensions ranging from 10 days to the time remaining prior to their 18th birthday.

"During those years," Kjos said, "98 children have been committed to the state training schools or the present Youth Conservation Commission. I think it is a tribute to the new code and probation service that only 20 youths have had to be committed since 1959."

Get Foster Homes

Other cases in juvenile court involved children alleged to be delinquent and neglected or dependent and neglected. Sixty-five were found dependent and neglected and many of that number were placed in foster homes.

Kjos said the increased use of the automobile by minors has resulted in many problems. He also said that many of the smoking and drinking violations now covered by the juvenile code were dealt with outside the court during the early years of his tenure.

"I do not believe that the children of today are any more inclined to be delinquent than they were 25 years ago," said Kjos, "but the temptations are more numerous and it is now much easier to become involved. Each little act is brought to public attention more now than it previously was."

Kjos stresses a good home life a Christian upbringing, and the best education possible as being methods of preventing juvenile problems.

All told, the Chippewas expect an additional income of $100,000 a year as a direct result of the marsh restoration. Other major sources of income to the Red Lake Band of Chippewas are their commercial fishing industry and their modern sawmill operation.

Cooperating in the marsh restoration project are the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, responsible for the engineering and construction of the Red Lake river marsh restoration project; the Bureau of Indian Affairs, which provides overall liaison; and the Red Lake Tribal council, representing the Chippewa Indians.

All lands involved in the present projects are within the boundaries of the Red Lake Indian reservation.

Apprentice Training Offered Under MDTA

Young men in Minnesota, high school graduates and other qualified youths over 18, are going to have a golden opportunity offered to them this month when the Twin City Tool, Die, and Precision Machining association, comprised of 60 area firms, initiates its new, on-the-job apprentice training program. This is the report of the Minnesota Department of Employment Security.

With the assistance of both federal and state governments, and with partial support of federal funds, the association will enroll 60 apprentice craftsmen in the project. Forty will ultimately work in Minneapolis shops, 20 in St. Paul.

According to John Koolker, association president, this is the job for the young man who wants more education and has a yen to do something uniquely different, learn a valuable future-insuring skill and get well paid in the process. Koolker said that trainees will have opportunities to work directly on such projects as building equipment for the United States Apollo moon project, intricate missile guidance systems or ultra-sophisticated computers.

Trainees will be enrolled in an initial 12-week school period, during which they will be eligible for training allowances under the Manpower Development and Training act. Following this, apprentices will start on-the-job training at $1.50 hourly with automatic increases every six months. At the completion of their apprenticeship programs, they can look forward to becoming journeymen at the prevailing wage which is among the highest hourly rates in industry.

Main reason behind this new program is the critical shortage of machining craftsmen in the Twin Cities and dim prospects for an increased future supply. Koolker pointed out that Minneapolis and St. Paul comprise one of the country's largest and most advanced tool, die, and machining centers. The flow of new trainees into the shops has failed to keep pace with the industry's growth.

The initial, first year phase of the project, partially financed by funds from the Manpower Development and Training act, will consist of schooling under supervision of instructors who will later become on-the-job coaches, and 40 weeks in the shop. Students successfully completing this first year will move on into various apprentice programs that run an additional three, four or five years.

Applicants for the program need not have had previous shop experience. The should, however, possess good mechanical aptitude, plus a basic knowledge of mathematics.

Interested young men are urged to apply as soon as possible at any office of the Minnesota State Employment service. The employment service will handle initial screening and testing of applicants, with follow-up testing conducted by the National Tool, Die and Precision Machining association.

Men successfully completing this program will receive journeymen certificates from both the state of minnesota and the Twin City association. Most important, their training will give them the earning power and security equivalent to that of many college graduates. Koolker pointed out that a number of top industrial executives started as apprentices.

Waage, public relations, Investors Diversified Services, Inc., of Minnetonka, was among 315 persons from throughout the United States who were recently accredited as professional public relations practitioners by the Public Relations Society of America in the first nation-wide accreditation program undertaken in the communications field. Waage is a former Thief River Falls resident and a graduate of Lincoln high school.

Accreditation is granted on the basis of at least 18 years of experience or on the basis of seven years of experience plus a six-hour written and a two-hour oral examination covering the dynamics of public opinion, the methodology of effective communications and their laws, regulations, history and ethics affecting public relations, according to Quentin L. Harvell, New York, executive vice president, Public Relations Society of America.

Public Opinion

Dear Sir:

In your editorial, "In Quest of Power", January 24th, I was particularly interested in the part concerning the NFO, as I am a member.

You stated weaknesses which are too big to be overlooked, among these:

1. Initial Union financial support-I can't see that this would be so bad if it is true. I wonder if you can tell me which union and about how much they gave so I can send them a Thank You card.

2. Top to bottom control in spite of county and state decisions-I have been laboring under the impression that I have my fair share of say in the doings of the organization—one vote per member and I have never seen a more serious and level headed group of people. Are you sure you don't have us mixed up with some other outfit—maybe the Federal government? As a farmer I am wasting time when I vote there.

3. Exhorbitant percentage fee to the NFO—1 per cent to NFO with a 2 per cent surplus disposal claus if the members vote it necessary. It costs me more than that now and I have no surplus protection but I sure need it.

4. Reckless willingness to be led on the part of the member—I believe if this was true we wouldn't be on the bottom as we are now. No, I'm afraid the American farmer is the most independent, hardest to lead, efficient, hard working individual alive.

So it would seem that I disagree with just about everything you wrote about the NFO except the first sentence where you stated there may be merit in parts of the NFO program.

A Farmer,
The Mainstay of Thief River Falls.

District Economy Advances, Says Reserve Bank

Solid advances were registered by most Ninth district economic indicators during 1965 as compared with 1964, the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis reported today in its monthly economic review.

Total nonagricultural employment achieved close to a three per cent rate of growth, with joblessness at or near record lows. Spending, as measured by retail sales and bank debits, increased substantially.

Industrial production, estimated by the industrial use of electric power, averaged about seven per cent higher in the Ninth Federal Reserve district than in 1964. Production of iron ore, copper and crude oil all showed significant increases over the previous year, as did total district crop output.

The only major area of decline during the year was in the construction industry where total dollar valuation of construction contracts awarded through the first three quarters of 1965 showed a 19 per cent decline from a similar period of 1964. Employment in construction work, however, through October was larger than in the like period in 1964.

The Ninth Federal Reserve district consists of the states of Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, and South Dakota, as well as Upper Michigan and northwestern Wisconsin.

Library Receives Books To Be Used In Local Program

Carnegie Public library in Thief River Falls has received 12 books which are supplied by the library division of the Minnesota department of education as supplemental material for the course in "Parents Role in a Democratic Society" now being offered in the city.

"You are the first to have one of these collections, and I hope you will keep me informed as to how people like this service," wrote Emily L. Mayne, supervisor of extension in the library division, in a letter to Miss Bertha Hustad, local librarian.

Books received include "The Nature of Prejudice", "What to tell Your Child", "Prejudice and Your Child", "Childhood and Society", "The Modern Family Guide to Education", "The Sane Society", "Human Development and Education", "These Are Your Children", "Childhood and Adolescence," "An Introduction to Child Study," and "Values and Ideals of American

Another group of books on the same general subject will also be sent here by the state library division as soon as they become available, Miss Mayne said.

(Records of Roy Langevin, Thief River Falls building inspector, indicated that the 1965 permit total was $1,335,250.)

Throughout the ninth district, the total valuation of building permits issued during December of 1965 in 295 permit issuing centers was $57,454,429 for 2,460 permits. In December of 1964 there were 1,509 permits issued with a valuation of $30,355,635. The report also stated that the cumulative total for the year showed an increase from $700,206,293 for 49,457 permits in 1964 to $717,688,475 for 51,025 permits in 1965.

Editorials . . .

"No one ever feels helpless by the side of the self-helper; whilst the self-sacrificer is always a drag, a responsibility, a reproach, an everlasting and unnatural trouble with whom no really strong soul can live. Only those who have helped themselves know how to help others, and to respect their right to help themselves."

—George Bernard Shaw

Inconsistencies

There is much truth in the following editorial from the Murray County "Herald" at Slayton:

Sen. Warren Magnuson, Washington Democrat, is being critical of the U. S. department of agriculture because it is developing propaganda programs encouraging cigarette smoking while the congress, at the same time, is discouraging the use of "weeds" at home. The senator shouldn't be miffed. This is just the latest in a long line of inconsistencies the republic has produced.

Cigarette smoking is no doubt a problem, both at home and abroad, but inconsistencies are commonplace. For years we have been reclaiming non-productive land in the west while retiring productive acres in the midwest and east. We have seen government financed power cooperatives duplicate the transmission facilities of private utilities firms. We have, in nearly every country in the nation, one federally-financed agency encouraging producers to take land out of production and at the same time and place another government agency trying to teach them how to produce more on the land remaining in production.

In the event of all-out war, these present day inconsistencies would prove of immeasurable value. If that is their purpose, charge the costs to the defense department, not agriculture.

If not, we suggest the senator take a long look at some of the real inconsistencies of our federal government and spend less time worrying about cigarette consumption of South Africa.

Food Costs Rising?

Trienah Meyers, deputy assistant secretary of agriculture, recently had something important to say about the food business.

She pointed out that today's supermarkets offer some 6,000 to 8,000 or even more items from which to choose—and 40 per cent of them have reached the shelf since 1958, and 60 per cent are new since World War II. Moreover, in the old days a shopper had to make a long series of stops on her buying rounds—at the butcher's, the bakery, the drug store, and so on. Now everything is on hand and on display at the supermarket. Mrs. Meyers adds, "And everything includes all the things that get added to the grocery bill that aren't foods at all—laundry soap, floor wax, children's socks, even Hi-fi records and encyclopedias. About 20 per cent of the average grocery bill—the bill we tend to think of as the family food bill—is made up of items to wear or read or listen to or clean house with. We certainly don't eat them."

Conveniences and ease of shoping do not end at this point, as Mrs. Meyers makes clear. Now foods are offered in a processed manner which tremendously reduces the time and effort the housewife must devote to readying them for the table. And some of these convenience foods are actually cheaper than in the fresh or unprocessed form.

What about prices? That's a vitally important part of the food business from the consumer's angle. Mrs. Meyers says this: ". . .I have the preliminary figures for 1964 for eight large retail food chains. And the figures show that their net profits as a per cent of sales haven't changed at all since 1957—each year they've run about 1.2 per cent. . .We eat better than we use to. We pay a little more for the privilege. But since our incomes have gone up faster than food costs, we're spending a smaller share of what we earn for better meals."

How About the Groom?

Although an integral part of every wedding party, the groom is virtually ignored in the conventional newspaper wedding story. In fact, he is socially ignored publicly from the engagement through the wedding and paternity, finding a niche of his own only when the coffin lid closes on his final rest.

So it is that R. H. Thompson of Pardeeville, Wis., saw fit to put the groom in proper perspective in a wedding write-up. The result may seem a little extreme, but only because of the standards which have been developed in favor of brides over the years. The description is as follows:

"Satorially correct in white jacket, dark trousers and shoes, black tie, his part in the ceremony was flawlessly performed. But getting back to his appearance, which is so often neglected in the usual wedding write-up.

"His white jacket was fashioned with soft drape shoulders and long graceful lapels cleverly held together across the waist in turn were sewn in place with delicate white thread, in a criss-cross manner. The sleeves of the jacket were slightly more full-fashioned at the wrist. A tiny slit at the sleeve end was given accent by two pearl buttons matching those on the front of the jacket. In the left lapel the groom wore a pure white carnation, held neatly in place with a straight pin, a gift of the florist. (The pin was a gift, not the flower.)

"His sharply pressed trousers fell to the top of his shiny black shoes. The trousers hung by a series of little loops around a black leather belt or circlet. Along each side of the trouser legs, a satin inset gave an air of dignity and polish to the ensemble. More than 10,000 stitches were required to hold these satin stripes in place. Undiscernible, yet an important part of the trousers, was the 7-inch zipper closing the front.

"Fashioned of pure leather, his black shoes echoed popular fashion. Held securely in place with black cotton laces threaded in criss-cross manner through parallel eyelets the length of the instep, each shoe was the exact duplicate of the other. A resilient rubber heel cushioned his troubled steps as he was led to the altar by the presiding minister.

"Completing the groom's ensemble were hose of black, held calf-high by a pair of scarlet garters. Unseen, but of interest all the same, were the multi-colored boxer shorts topped by a cotton mesh undershirt, chosen at the last minute when the weather turned warm.

"Traditional, also, was the colored handkerchief nonchalantly tucked into the brest pocket of the white jacket already described in detail."

Straight Talk

David Lawrence was talking straight tall when he wrote the following in the New York Herald-Tribune:

"The issue is not personal. It isn't just an eccentric or demagogic personality like that of Michael Quill which deserves criticism but the subervient attitude of the members of his labor union who are ordered to go on strike and fail to take into account the possible consequences of their action.

"This is the problem that the United States is plagued with today as strike after strike is called which arbitrairly causes the loss of many millions of dollars a day to innocent bystanders.

"Congress has been negligent in dealing with union autocracies as well as union monopolies. Many an industry has its costs fixed by extremists like Quill. There is no mechanism which insures fairness or a conciliatory process which takes into account all the equities in a dispute.

"What is called 'collective bargaining' is a farce. It is 'collective' only in the sense that the united power of the workers is utilized to blackjack employers into submission. The 'bargaining' often fails to recognize that there are limits to the payments which can be made by management.

"Again and again an ultimatum is issued by a union leader, and the employer finds himself comparing the huge cost of a strike with the expense of granting the wage demands. Many a manager has taken the risk of agreeing to high wage scales that he can't afford, only to find himself later forced out of business.

"The annual cost of strikes reaches fantastic figures, especially when public facilities are involved that cause damage to citizens in every walk of life. But the costs of the wage increases themselves, applied to large and small companies alike in many industries, are even greater. They lead to the abolition of marginal competitors. Mergers are frequently the result of the ill effects of excessive demands made by labor unions. Individual companies grow larger as the free-enterprise system is eroded.

"Congress has ignored the destructive influence of the extremists in labor-union leadership. The labor unions themselves have gone deeply into politics and have collected millions of dollars to help elect members of Congress—primarily the candidates of the Democratic party. This is a form of bribery that has gone unrebuked in America, though sooner or later the corrupt influence of campaign contributions must inevitably be recognized as against the public interest.

"During the last 18 years virtually no important amendments to existing laws have been enacted to cut down the abuses in the conduct of labor relation."

On Buying Friends

It seems that the price of friendship is going up every year and that a dollar won't buy as good a friend as it once did. Evidence of this is provided in a list prepared by Sen. Karl Mundt of South Dakota. The list shows a number of countries which have received considerable amounts of U. S. foreign aid and then had lapses of memory when voting in the United Nations.

The soft palm is apparently no substitute for the big stick and fear is stronger than friendship in the world family. Somewhere along the line the strategy has failed.

It might be compared to the Russians dangling a carrot on a sring in front of a reluctant beast of burden to direct its course while the United States feeds its animal a bushel of carrots, climbs on the wagon and tries to give hand signals.

Algeria	94.6	8	9
Burma	117.7	4	8
Cambodia	366.4	4	8
Ethiopia	201.6	5	8
Ghana	159.2	6	8

Fox Fur Market Profitable for State's Trappers

Minnesota fox hunters and trappers are continuing to enjoy a high return this winter on their investment in time and equipment, the state game and fish division reported today.

Latest reports from the fur market indicate that fur buyers are paying up to $7.50 and $8.00 for fox—and this for animals not even skinned out.

Last year and during many preceding years trappers usually had to be content with the average of $3 they received in bounty money.

Game wardens from western Minnesota report that hunters with airplanes are flying into North and South Dakota to hunt fox and are bagging 15 to 20 on a good day. With present fur prices, the airplane hunters are able to pay their expenses and still show a nice profit for their efforts.

Reason for the sudden increase in the demand for fox fur is a new style in women's clothing. The fox fur is used to trim hats and coats. Japan is buying large quantities of fox fur at the present time, apparently for the same purpose.

Earlier Ted Shields, state game and fish director, remarked that if the price received for a dead fox had anything to do with controlling their numbers, there should be a substantial reduction in the fox population this year.

CONSERVATION News & Notes

Concern has been expressed by sportsmen and sportsmen clubs on the winter condition of the Minnesota deer herd and the effect of the snow on the movements of the deer to adequate food supplies. Game management, warden service and forestry personnel are presently engaged in their seasonal checking and collecting data on snow depth and snow crust strength throughout the forested areas of the state (If the snow is deep and the crust on the snow is not strong enough to support deer, they may have trouble moving to available food supply).

These personnel are also maintaining a surveillance on the deer herd through the use of aerial transects and ground examination of their areas in order to determine deer mobility, browse utilization and the general physical condition of the deer.

In addition to the taking of the weekly readings on snow depth and crusting conditions, an aerial transect of 124 miles has been established to observe deer movements within this area. The transect covers parts of Marshall, Roseau and Kittson counties.

The transect was flown on January 11, 1½ days after about one inch of new snow and heavy drifting on January 9. Within this 1½ day period, numerous deer trails were etched in the snow indicating that the deer in the vicinity were not snow bound. The 115 deer that were observed along the 124 miles transect moved with ease through the snow. Along the same transect on two to four-week intervals depending upon the additional snow accumulations and weather conditions.

At the time of flight, the deer in this area were able to move quite freely and appeared to be in excellent physical condition. In the event that the snow depths become too great for adequate deer movements, attempts will be made to assemble browse-cutting crews for work in the troubled areas. The work of these crews bring naural food into reach of the deer for immediate use and it also stimulates sprouting from the stumps improving food conditions for future years.

Elect Desrocher As President of Archery Group

William Desrocher was elected president of the Thief River Falls archery club at its first meeting of the year held Wednesday in the city auditorium. He succeeded Paul Halverson. Other officers elected were Teny Noel, vice-president and Marjorie Dunham, secretary-treasurer.

Committees were organized to handle work details and matters pertaining to the club's range located near the airport. Plans for an indoor range were tabled until after the summer season. Tentative plans discussed included two or three invitational tournaments for the coming year, which will be decided on at the next meeting, to be held in March. Members will be notified as to the meeting date.

Following the meeting Desrocher showed a film and lunch was served. The club is endeavoring to increase its membership this year and anyone interested is urged to contact James Foley, city recreation director, or any of the club officers.

Pruess Is Named State Chairman Of Wildlife Week

National Wildlife Week in Minnesota will be directed by Roger Pruess of Minneapolis, who has been named state chairman. Announcement of the appointment was made by the Minnesota Conservation federation, which is joining the national Wildlife federation in sponsoring this annual conservation project during the week, March 20-26, and during the balance of 1966.

National Wildlife Week is held each year during the week in which the first day of spring occurs. National Wildlife Week first was proclaimed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1938. Since that time, it has served to focus public attention on the importance of natural resource conservation and highlights specific conservation issues.

Protection of natural beauty will be the theme for the 1966 observance. Members of civic, fraternal and women's groups, as well as conservation and farm organizations, will join teachers and school administrators, affiliates of local, state and federal governmental agencies and individuals in taking steps to preserve the state's natural beauty.

LHS Tops Crookston, Loses on Baudette Ice

It was a win and loss for the hockey Prowlers during the weekend, with coach George Schlieff's squad defeating the Crookston Pirates, 4 to 0, in a game played here on Friday night. And on Saturday night, on the Baudette Ice, the Prowlers dropped a 4 to 1 decision to the Bears. Both games were Region Eight conference games.

On Tuesday evening the Prowlers travel to Grand Forks for a game against the East Grand Forks Green Wave and which will be played in the UND winter sports building. On Saturday night, February 5, the Roseau Rams will play the Prowlers on the arena ice here. And on Tuesday, February 8, the Prowlers will conclude their pre-tournament play by meeting the Warriors at Warroad.

In preliminary games during the weekend, the Prowler B squad marked up a pair of wins. Dane Stromberg, Arlen Overbey and Terry Stelmaschuk scored for the Prowlers as coach Jerry Westby's team defeated the Crookston Central B team, 3 to 1. On Saturday night, with Stromberg and Gary LaValley scoring, the B's defeated the Baudette B team, 2 to 1.

Against the Crookston Central team on Friday night the Prowlers were held to 1 to 0 score entering the third and final period. Billy Olson's goal, at the 5:45 mark of the opening frame, had given the Prowlers the lead. But in the third period, Chuck Bedard, Wayne Smith and Rich Holmes rapped in goals to give the locals their 4 to 0 win.

Playing at Baudette on Saturday night the Prowlers gained an early, but short-lived, lead when Billy Dicken scored an unassisted goal at the 3:12 mark of the opening period. Bill Sindelir knotted the game at 1-all at the 6:36 mark, and Joel Hanson's tally at the 10:01 mark gave the Bears the lead.

After a scoreless second period, Baudette, on goals by Frank Sindelir and Fritz Stanley, at the 3:17 and 5:49 marks of the third period, added some "insurance" tallies.

LHS Grapplers Decked by Bemidji Here on Saturday

Winning the final four matches on the 12-match wrestling program, the Bemidji Lumberjacks edged out the Prowlers 24-19 in a dual-match high school wrestling competition here Saturday night. With a season's mark of six wins and two losses, will meet the Ada Vikings here on Wednesday night, February 2. They will conclude their pre-tournament schedule with a match against Crookston Central at Crookston on Saturday, February 12. CLOSE-IN shot by Warroad's George Ganyo (4) in the second period of hockey action here Tuesday night was kicked out by the Prowlers' goalie Jeff Noel. The Warriors handed the Prowlers their first defeat in Region Eight conference play, winning by a 7 to 2 score.

IT'S A GOAL for Warroad's George Ganyo (out of the picture to the right) as his rebound shot nestles in the Prowler cage at the 7:25 mark of the second period, giving the Warriors a 5 to 2 lead. Merle Sampson (2) attempts to give Prowler goalie Jeff Noel assistance, as Warroad's George Roberts, who made the first try, tumbles over the Prowler netminder. Warroad won the game, 7 to 2.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Worthy of Mention

Worthy of mention, and a lead-off position in this column, is the comments I have heard about the splendid behavior and gentlemanly actions of the Anoka high school hockey squad, during their overnight stay here the other week. Coach Joey Poole, the former Prowler all-state choice and later an All-American player at North Dakota, is the coach of the Tornados, and the team, enroute to a two-game series at Warroad and Baudette, made a one-night stand here.

Mrs. Joe (Editha) Holter, the wife of the proprietor of the Pennington Hotel here, stated that Joey's squad was the "finest group of boys that the hotel had ever had as guests". And she added that the hotel patrons, who were in the lobby as the boys would make their entrances and departure, commented on the poise and cultured actions of the squad.

Ordinarily, hotels aren't too anxious about having athletic teams on their premises, and for good reason. These boys are full of action and life and spirit, and sometimes they become a bit too exuberant in their behavior. But not in the case of the Anoka Tornados.

So Joey, you and your Anoka high school hockey suad will be always welcome at the Pennington. Andy by the way, perhaps it would be fine if a series between the Prowlers and the Tornados could be arranged?

All Set for the 10th Annual

Plans are just about completed for the tenth annual States-Dominion bonspiel that will be held at the fairgrounds curling arena on February 18, 19, and 20. And if you don't think that there is a great amount of paper work, and other details to be tended to get the 'spiel to function smoothly, you just haven't been around Curtis and Roger and Evvy and the other "boys" who have duties to perform.

The States-Dominion bonspiel, in the ten years that it has been in operation, has developed a number of sturdy fans. A number of the top-flight curlers in Winnipge, are devoted friends of the 'spiel down here. It has been a factor in creating good will and friendships.

This year another trophy will be up for contention, and it will be named the Charlie Wood Memorial trophy. Members of the Granite club are donating this trophy as a memorial to Charlie Woods who died this past year. Woods had a rink in the States-Dominion 'spiel for any years, and the three remaining members of his rink (and I believe the rink won the third event honors last season) will be here.

The trophy, which will be kept at the local club, will be contested for on an international basis. The results of the first seven matches between Canadian and American rinks will determine that season's winner of the trophy. And the Charlie Woods Memorial trophy will bear the inscription of that winner. It is things like this that develop a loyalty towards the States-Dominion 'spiel.

"What's This?" Dep't

And it's true, after checking with the scoreboard at the curling club, that the Dr. Earl Dagg rink defeated the Len Skaar rink the other night. This Earl Dagg squad is the foursome that was making all tose early-season threat. It is the rink of Earl Dagg, Dr. Herb Achenbach, Dr. Ed Nelson and Dick Bjorkman.

But the win the other night was all to the credit of skip Dagg, who came through with a pair of clutch shots in the final end to give to give his rink the victory. Whenever Dick's curling ability is under discussion I always try and give him some assistance by telling the boys about the fine jump shot he had in high school basketball!

What's this I hear about that ever-winning rink of Ken Ose, Harold Nabben, Hans Newman and Shorty O'Hara. It doesn't seem to make any difference under whose name they curl, for they have been winners as the Ose Rink, as the Nabben rink and the Newman rink. They have apparantly drawn the line about being called the O'Hara rink, though.

Grand Rapids Is Prowler Victim

A strong second half of play, during which the Prowlers scored 42 points, enabled coach Whitey Olson's basketball squad to scalp the Indians of Grand Rapids 69-60 in an inter-regional game played at Grand Rapids on Friday night.

This weekend will find the Prowler cagers meeting a pair of traditional rivals. On Friday night on the Lincoln high school court, the Prowlers will meet the Crookston Central Pirates in a "crucial" District 31 conference game. And on Saturday night, with the tipoff slated for 7:30 p.m., the Prowlers will play coach Marv Skaar's highly-ranked Grand Forks Central Redskins at Grand Forks.

In Friday night's game at Grand Rapids, coach Jim Hall's Indians gained a 16 to 15 first period lead. The Prowlers' Tommy Cummings, who turned in a 29-point game for the locals, looped in four field goals in the period to keep the Prowlers in contention.

Grand Rapids held a one-point periods in the second half to give the locals their nine-point win. Cummings, who tallied three field goals in the second period, added a pair of fielders and two free throws in the third perid, and finished off with four two-pointers and free throw in the fourth period.

Frank Hecomevich, at center, and forward Paul Sandstrom, each with 16 points, were runners-up in the individual scoring. The Prowlers' Karl Poppenhagen had 14 points, and it was the second successive game in which the junior forward has tallied 14 points, als having 14 in the losing effort at Ada last week.

Wardens Arrest 3,891 Persons on 1965 Violations

Minnesota game wardens arrested 3,891 persons during 1965 for violations of the state game and fish laws, the conservation department announced today.

In addition, 266 juveniles were arrested for such infractions, but are not included in the arrest total for the year. Game wardens also confiscated over 4,000 items of hunting and fishing equipment and perishables, primarily illegally taken game animals and fish.

There were 1,638 arrests made for fishing violations during 1965. The most commonly noted offense was fishing with more than one line and 610 arrests were made for this violation.

Fishing without a license resulted in the arrest of 432 persons, and 115 fishermen were found with over-the-limit catches.

Wardens arrested 219 for violations of the big game laws, including 79 for hunting during a closed season and 33 for "shining".

There were 93 arrests for violating the small game hunting laws and 493 for migratory waterfowl hunting offenses. The most frequently violated waterfowl regulations noted by game wardens were for hunting during closed hours, in closed season or for having more than three shells in the gun.

Wardens made 807 arrests for violations involving the transportation of firearms or illegally taken game in a motor vehicle. Most of the violations were for transporting loaded or uncased firearms in a motor vehicle or motorboat.

Forty-one persons were arrested for trapping infractions and 173 for wild rice violations.

Game wardens arrested 222 persons for violation of the shelter and darkhouse regulations including 150 ice fishermen who failed to remove their shelter by the February 28 deadline.

There were 75 arrests for violations which took place inside the boundaries of parks and refuges and 15 persons were arrested for depositing litter in public waters.

The number of arrests has been averaging around 4,000 over the past three years, the department's report said.

Police Accident Report Shows Increase Over 1964

Traffic accidents in Thief River Falls increased during 1965 to 258 as compared with 237 in 1963 and 1964, according to the annual accident summary prepared by Patrolman Irving Swanson of the local police department. Property damage increased by about $13,000 over 1964 to $50,812 and two persons were killed as a result of one accident during 1965. The last previous traffic fatality had been in 1960 when a pedestrian died as a result of injuries received when struck by a car.

Analysis of the records by Patrolman Swanson caused him to make the following conclusion on the report: "Don't drive when it is daylight, on a dry street, especially on Saturday afternoon in the uptown area of the city in a passenger car, particularly if you are a male between 25 and 34 years of age and are sober. Some darn fool is likely to get in your road."

That the record analysis is accurate may be attested to by the following statistics from the 1965 summary:

Injuries were up in 1965 in spite of the fact that the type of accidents usually resulting in injury were down. There was only one pedestrian accident, against 10 in 1964. There was one bicycle accident and one with a railroad train, against five and four respectively in 1964. These are the accidents that almost surely result in injury to at least one person per accident. During this past year 60 persons were injured in 34 accidents. In 1964 there were 43 persons injured in 35 accidents, and five years ago (1960) 32 persons were injured in 22 accidents.

The same number of drivers (11) again ran off the road to hit signs, poles, trees and various other objects which are found off the road to hit. This group does not include the accidents where one or both cars ran off the road after being involved in some other classification of accident.

100 accidents were on dry streets, 16 of these resulting in injury and one in death. There were 34 accidents on wet streets with six resulting in injury, and 112 accidents on snowy or icy streets with 12 resulting in injury. "Just in case someone adds this and finds it is short of the reported number of accidents, three reports did not contain this informaton (somebody goofed)," Patrolman Swanson notes.

From 2 a.m. to 5 a.m. turned out to be a "safe" period for obvious reasons. Traffic is light at these times. Do not count on this to protect you when driving, however, as the times do not stand up on a year-to-year basis.

Saturday came to the front as the one with the most accidents. There were 50. Most of these were in the afternoon, up until 10 p.m. In 1964 Friday came out on top with 50 accidents. Monday, which was high in 1961, has dropped to

Local Debaters Defend Region 8 Title Saturday

Lincoln high school debate team from Thief River Falls will be defending its 1965 Region 8 title at Crookston on Saturday. The tourney will be a three-round affair with approximately 15 regonal schools participating.

The Prowler team will be seeking its third straight regional title in four years of coaching by Everett Marshall.

In previous tournaments this year, the Prowlers have finished near the top in four out of five outings: At St. Cloud the team was seventh in a field of 28 schools. The debaters finished second in a field 23 at Detroit Lakes, sixth out of 23 at Brainerd, and fifth out of 21 at Ada.

Varsity debaters this year are Emily Hoel, Linda Reeve, Susan Isaacson and Rosemary Dahlen and are backed up by Jodi Martin, Sherry Adamson, Chris Prichard and Donna Sjulson as "B" team debaters.

If the defense of their title at Crookston is successful, the debate team will enter the state tournament in Minneapolis on February 18 and 19.

Elect Lund As New President of TRF Foundation

Many Classes Begin in TRF Adult Program

Response by the public to course offerings under the adult evening program of the Thief River Falls area vocational - technical school has resulted in a number of courses being started in the winter session, according to Arne Aune, director of the school.

Two classes are offered for initial enrollment tonight. These include cake decorating, taught by Mrs. Gil Sannes, which will meet at 7 p.m. in Room 112 of the high school, and personal typing, taught by Melvin Engelstad, which will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Room 115 of the high school. Fee will be $5 for the cake decorating course and $8 for the personal typing course.

By far the largest turn-out of students was noted at the Monday session of the class in car operation and care. Offered to women only, this class drew more than 40 interested women. It covers demonstrations and question and answer periods on basics of car operation and is sponsored jointly by the vocational-technical school and Maves Standard service. No further members will be accepted in this course.

All other classes which have started can handle additional class members, Aune said. The automotive class which met Tuesday needs several more members in order to begin. This class meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Room 129 of the vocational school with Raymond Olson and Vernon Horter, as instructors.

Other classes which have started include welding, Monday, 7:30 p.m., Wennberg building; intermediate clothing, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Room 112 of the high school; Knitting, beginners Tuesday and advanced Thursday, 7:30 p.m. in Room 124 of the vocational school; advanced conversational Norwegian, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Room 118 of the vocational school;

9th Seed and Feed Show To Be Held Here Friday

Farmers and homemakers in the Thief River Falls area are invited to participate in the 9th annual Pennington County Seed and Feed show to be held Friday at the city auditorium in Thief River Falls. Premiums are offered in all classes of seed and feed exhibits and food exhibits in the home division.

Of major interest to farmers will be the grass and legume institute scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. Topics will include "Developing Varieties of Grasses and Clover", "Income Potential in Grass and Legume Seed Production", "Soil Fertility Needs for Seed Production", "Weed Control in Grasses", "Insect Studies on Clover and Grasses", and "Grass and Legume Seed Research".

Speakers will include Dr. H. L. Thomas, William Provance, Harley J. Otto, A. G. Peterson and W. F. Hueg. Dicussion periods will take place prior to dismissal for the noon lunch and again prior to adjournment scheduled for 3 p.m.

In additino to exhibits in the home economics division, women will be interested in a program to be held at 2 p.m. in the auditorium. Miss Beverly Tvelto, Pennington County home agent, will discuss "How to Incorporate Dairy Foods Into the Daily Diet". Among items discussed will be various types of cheese and how to identity them. Following the program, homemakers will be invited to test their newly-acquired knowledge by judging samples of cheese on display.

In tradition of recent years, emphasis of the seed and feed show is placed on a particular phase of agriculture each year. The 1966 show is directed toward the dairy industry. Since grass and legume production for forage is an important economic factor in dairying, dairymen should take a particular interest in the program.

Area farmers are also advised that information of importance to them could well be provided at the session, since the Northwest Pellet association expects to have its alfalfa pelleting plant in operation early this year. The plant will be buying sun-cured, baled alfalfa hay with quality and tonnage both necessary for best prices.

All entries in the seed and feed and homemaker divisions must be turned in at the city auditor-

St. John Church Elects Fuller Council Chairman

St. John Lutheran church in Thief River Falls held its annual meeting of the voters' assembly at the church recently. Due to exceptionally heavy losses of membership by transfers during 1965, St. John's membership stood at 322 communing members and 478 baptized members as of Jan. 1, 1966, the report of Pastor Paul R. Biegner revealed.

The treasurer's report and analysis of the congregation's stewardship were given by Les Borning and Kenneth Onken. Total giving of St. John reached $27,107 during 1965, or better than $84 per communing member. Offerings for the world mission program of the parish climbed to $3,900 for an average of $18.08 per communing member. Debt retirement was $7,140. In addition, the organ fund of the congregation rose to $3,402 through requests and memorial gifts.

Elected to the church council were Tom Fuller chairman; Leonard Melin, vice-chairman; Albert Koop, secretary; Les Borning, treasurer; Kenneth Kohler, financial secretary; Curtis Brandt, assistant financial secretary; board members, Elmer Andersen and Donald Pream; head ushers, Leo Goulet and Dennis Olson; and Elder Kenneth Onken.

Only the office of elder is for three years; all other officers were elected for one year terms. Appointed Sunday school superintendent was Mrs. Ted Belawenger. Mrs. Sherman Idso and Mrs. Max Jensen were re-appointed as the parish organists.

At the February meeting of the church council, working committees in the areas of evangelism, education, stewardship and welfare will be appointed.

A HOLE in the ground is all that remains of the Clifford Larson farm home located about five miles northeast of Holt after it was razed by fire early Sunday morning. Mrs. Larson reported that she awoke at about 1:30 a.m. and noticed smoke. The family's four children were aroused and hustled out of the smouldering building. About eight neighbors and firemen from Middle River apeared shortly, but the house soon burst into flames. Nothing could be done to save the house or more than a small part of its contents. Cause of the fire is undetermined. The family is living in a borrowed trailer house temporarily.

OPEN THURSDAYS 'TIL 9 P.M.

DAIRY emphasis will be placed on the 9th annual Seed and Feed show to be held Friday at the Thief River Falls city auditorium, including the women's program to be held at 2 p.m. Miss Beverly Tvelto, Pennington county home agent, will speak on "How to Incorporate Dairy Foods into the Daily Diet."

ium by 10 a.m. Friday. Seed and feed samples may be left at the county extension office in the courthouse prior to the show if the exhibitor is unable to make the entry Friday morning, according the Charles Will, Pennington county agricultural agent.

Farmers planning to enter the cleaned seed division are reminded that the sample consists of two quarts of cleaned grain. These may include Portage, Minhafer, Goodfield, Garland, Lodi, Tippecanoe or other oats; spring, durum or winter wheat; Parkland, Larker, Trophy or other barley; B5128, Redwood, Bolley, Windom, Summit or other flax; and all varieties of rye, soybeans and sunflowers. One-quart samples of legumes, grasses and millet will be accepted.

Certified seed (accompanied by tag) must be entered in bushel lots and two quart lots for grasses and legumes. The same quantities apply to bin run entries. Other exhibits consist of 10 ears of corn, 20 potatoes, one gallon of silage in plastic or enclosed container, and either one-eighth bale or one-eighth bushel of hay.

Homemakers are invited to enter bread (one loaf), cake (four-inch square), cookies (four) or candy (four pieces) made with recipes using oats, wheat, rye, sunflowers, corn or potatoes. Recipes must be submitted with each entry. Judging the women's division exhibits will be Glenice Rugland, Kittson county home agent.

"Anyone interested in either of the programs or viewing the exhibits is invited to attend," stated Silas Hanson, president of the Pennington County Crop Improvement association, sponsor of the show with the Pennington county commissioners and the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce. There is no admission charge.

All entries in the crops division must have been grown by the exhibitor in 1965. Dressing of exhibits is permitted in some classes. All entries must be labeled as to variety and any farmer, 4-H club or Future Farmers of America member may enter. There is no entry fee and exhibitors' prizes are awarded by the crop improvement association.

Accident Report Shows Increase In City Mishaps

fifth place with 32, topping only Tuesday (27) and Sunday (22).

That car you thought you had left properly parked is still taking a beating. In 71 accidents one car was parked. In 35 more one of the cars was stopped in traffic. In an additional 24 one car was entering or leaving a parked position. There were seven rear-end collisions where one car slowed for a turn or other change. This accounts for well over half of all accidents, a definite proportional increase over 1964 when it was a little less than half.

In 69 accidents cars were entering an intersection at an angle. These are the ones that usually involve the most property damage and the highest incidence of personal injury.

Drivers in the 25-34 age group were involved in the most accidents and these reulted in the most injuries. There were 330 males involved in accidents and 96 females. The increase in female drivers numerically only results in a continued constant proportion from 1964. 295 drivers were reportd as local residents; 20 were non-resident or from outside of the state of Minnesota.

Failure to yield the right-of-way was agin the leading contributing factor and resulted in 84 accidents. Improper overtaking and following too close accounted for 37 accidents. In 22 accidents one driver had been drinking. "Other improper driving" acounted for 76. This is a catch-all grouping where someone made some mistake or error to cause an accident that may not be too obvious.

The "uptown" area continues to have the most accidents as this is where the high concentraton of traffic is; 140 accidents occurred uptown with nine resulting in injury and one in death. There were 107 accidents in the residential area with 20 of these resulting in injury. The higher injury ratio in the residential area would result from an increase in speed as traffic thinned out. There were 11 accidents on the approaches into town that are relatively open, resulting in injuries in five of these.

There were 425 passenger cars, one car and trailer, 38 trucks, five trucks with semi-trailer, one farm machine and six motorcycles involved in accidents. The only significant number here is the one on motorcycles. They averaged about one accident a year in previous years.

Two-thirds of the accidents happened during daylight hours, with only four at the traditional difficult times of dawn or dusk. Our short section of divided highway came in for a share of five accidents after having had 11 in 1964.

Prowlers Lose 3 to 2 At East Grand Forks

Dan Stauss' goal in the opening minute of play in the third period, breaking a 2-all tie and giving East Grand Forks a 3 to 2 lead, and some expert goal-tending by the Green Wave's Verdell Olson gave the East Siders a Region Eight hockey conference win over the Prowlers on Tuesday night. The game was played in the Winter Sports building on the UND campus.

It marked the first time in the hockey rivalry between East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls, and which began in the 1960-61 season with a 2-all tie; that the Green Wave had defeated the Prowlers. Following that tie game the Prowlers had won seven games.

The Prowlers will close out their pre-tournament schedule this week when, on Saturday night, on the arena ice here, they meet the Roseau Rams, the defending Region Eight champions. On Tuesday night, February 8, the Prowlers will play their schedule-ending game when they meet the Warroad Warriors at Warroad.

East Grand Forks took a 1 to 0 lead at the 5:11 mark of the first period when Bob Nelson, on an assist from Lee Hearn, drove the puck into the east net. The Prowlers, with 43 seconds to play in the period, knotted the game on Wayne Smith's shot from close in, scoring at the 11:17 mark.

The game rocketed along in a 1-all deadlock until the 11:49 mark of the second period when Arlen Overbye, just up to the varsity from Jerry Westby's B squad punched in a shot frm just off the goal crease. But the Green Wave, on Nelson's 20-foot shot just at the buzzer, evened the game at 2-all.

Newfolden Splits In Games Played Late Last Week

Newfolden Nordics split two games last week and had the third game with Williams postponed. The Nordics lost to Middle River 60-39 and defeated Gonvick 60-50 on Saturday night. For the season the Nordics have a 5 and 6 record. In conference play they are 2 and 4 with five conferences games left to play.

The Middle River Skippers, who are undefeated in this season's play, jumped off to a 19-all first quarter lead, and had no trouble the rest of the way. Kirk Holmes of the Skippers led all scorers with 24 points with Eldon Sparby and Steve Holmes hitting 14 and 12 respectively. The Nordics had three men in double figures; Leon Elseth netted 13, John Rokke had six field goals for 12 and Lyle Hagenbeck pushed in 11.

Traveling to Gonvick in 30 below zero weather didn't freeze the Nordics as they led at all stops. They had a 15-14 first quarter lead and increased it to 28-23 at halftime. The third quarter was the hot one for the Nordics as they pulled away to a 48-34 lead.

The Nordics Lyle Hagenbeck topped all scorers with 17 points. John Rokke and Leon Elseth were also in double figures with 14 and 13 respectively. Dennis Odegaard led Gonvick with 11 points.

The Nordics entertain Middle River on February 4 and will finish with Argyle, Baudette, Williams, Badger and Greenbush in that order before sub-district tournament play begins.

WEARING a special face mask to protect a broken nose, Keith Johanneson of Bemidji is shown in action against an apparently headless Rod Collver of Thief River Falls in Saturday's dual match between the two teams. Collver won a 6-3 decision in the 133-pound match, but the Lumberjacks beat the Prowlers 24-19.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

The Week of Decision

As far as regular season's play is concerned, this week can be termed the "week of decision" for the Prowler basketball and hockey squads. It's the "moment of truth", or the "time to fish or cut bait", or words to this effect.

On Friday night, on the Lincoln high school court, coach Whitey Olson's Prowlers will meet the Crookston Central Pirates in an important District 31 basketball game. The Prowler cagers are unbeaten in district competition, and a win on Friday night would clinch at least a first place tie in the district standings. Following the Crookston game, the Prowlers have but three district contests on the schedule, playing at East Grand Forks on February 18, playing Climax here on February 26, and meeting Warren at Warren on March 4.

If the Prowlers should win on Friday night, and the locals will require an all-out effort to beat the improved Crookston squad, coach Olson's team would be given a favorable position in the district tournament seeding. But it must be recalled that in the first game played this season between the Prowlers and the Pirates, at Crookston on Dec. 17, it was a last-second basket that gave the blue-and-gold a 38 to 37 win. Another game like that could be in store for the fans on Friday night.

And the hockey Prowlers have a much rougher row than the cagers. If the Prowlers can defeat the Roseau Rams here on Saturday night, February 5, and then defeat the Warroad Warriers at Warroad on Tuesday, February 8, and if the Baudette Bears can defeat Roseau at Baudette on Tuesday night, February 8, coach George Schlieff's Prowlers would gain a berth into the Region Eight tourney. The Prowlers would by-pass the sub-regional.

But the best laid plans of mice and men oft go agley, and it's probable that when the final recap is made on Tuesday night, and the points and the percentages are extended to furthest decimal point, that the Prowlers will have to gain the regional tourney by going through the sub-regional at Crookston.

But hockey being the game that it is, with week-to-week play and game-to-game play being unpredictable, anything can happen. For instance, the Warroad Warriors fresh from their 7 to 2 and 4 to 3 wins over the Prowlers and the Rams, respectively, traveled to Fort Frances on Saturday night and received a 7 to 0 lacing. That loss, though, can be attributed to a natural "letdown" following the Warriors all-out efforts against the Prowlers and Rams.

There should be plenty of excitement here on Friday night, for the cagers, and Saturday night for the icemen.

Losing Some Good Ones

The Prowler wrestling squad will close out its home schedule tonight, Wednesday, with a dual match against the Ada Vikings. And this match will mark the final appearance before the local fans of several great and good Prowler wrestlers.

A check with Athletic Director Ralph Skay revealed that the following boys will be bowing out of wrestling competition on the local high school gymnasium mat: Myles Olson, 103 pounds; Steve Furuseth, 112-pounds; Gary Olson, 145-pounds; Luke Kaushagen, 154 pounds; Don Hanson, 175-pounds; and Bruce Parnham, heavyweight. In addition Tom Miller, a 165-pound reserve, and Dick Brown, who has been sideline by a shoulder injury, are seniors.

Of this group, Myles Olson and Steve Furuseth have been Region Eight winners, and the two boys will be favored to win District 31 titles in the tournament to be held at Crookston on Thursday, Feb. 18.

While these losses through graduation will undoubtedly be a handicap for coach Ed Krystosek when he organizes the Prowlers for the 1966-67 wrestling, the coach does know that he will have such boys as Billy Besch, Rocky Wilson, Rod Collver (perhaps the most underrated wrestler on the present squad), Les Nordhagen, Dick Ryan, Dan Kaushagen and several other boys from this season's varsity squad returning. And, too, coach Dale Folger's Prowler B squad will provide next year's varsity squad with some promising boys.

Incidentally, the schedule-ending match, against the Crookston Central Pirates at Crookston on February 12, has been given a starting time of 2 p.m. This match was originally slated for that evening, but the match was moved up to the afternoon to avoid conflict with the sub-regional hockey finals scheduled for that night at Crookston.

Cancel Women's Volleyball Here

Cancellation of the women's volleyball session at the Thief River Falls city auditorium Thursday evening has been announced by James Foley, city director of parks and recreation. The session has been canceled because booths will be erected that evening for the annual Seed and Feed show on Friday. Volleyball will be played on the following Thursday, February 10.

2 Cars Damaged In Crash East Of City Friday

One accident was inadvertantly omitted from Monday's police report. On Friday at 12:05 p.m. a car driven by Elmer J. Erickson, rt. 4, Bagley, was traveling north west on highway 59 and was struck from the rear by one driven by Cyrus O. Peterson, city, just west of the A & W drive-in. Damage was estimated at $300 to the Erickson car and $385 to the Peterson vehicle. Peterson was charged with driving with unsafe equipment.

It was erroneously reported to the Times that Lester Borning had reported to police that a coat had been stolen from his car. The theft was actually reported by A. J. Borry. Hockey equipment reported stolen last week was taken by mistake by the Canadian hockey team which played here Saturday and Sunday and has been returned.

Mixers, Warroad To Tangle Here In Hockey Tilt

Senior hockey will return to the arena rink here on Monday night, February 7, when, at 8 p.m. the Red River Mixers of Grand Forks will meet the league-leading Warroad Lakers. The game, which is an official Manitoba Senior Hockey League game, was orginally slated to have been played here early in December, but lack of ice at that time forced the postponement of the game.

Coach Don Ross, the former Roseau Rams all-state player, and later an All-America defenseman with the North Dakota Sioux, will direct the play of the Red River Mixers. The Grand Forks club is well-supplied with former North Dakota U players. In addition a pair of former Thief River Falls Thieves players are on the Mixers roster in the persons of Dale Wennberg and Jerry Westby. The Mixers will also feature one of the league's top scorers in rangy Dave Mazur.

The Warroad Lakers, coached by Dayton Grafstrom, are in first place in the league standings, but are feeling the pressure of the Winnipeg Maroons. The Maroons edged out the Lakers, 3 to 2, in a league game last week. The Lakers, too, feel the loss of veteran Roger Christian, who is out of action for the season because of a broken leg. Roger, at the time of his injury, in an exhibition game, was making a strong bid to take over the league's scoring honors.

It is hoped that Bill Juzda and Murray Balagus, players who were local favorites when they performed with the senior hockey Thieves here some years ago, will appear with the Lakers on Monday night. Balagus has been a star center for Warroad for a number of years, and Juzda, who has been playing with the Maroons in recent years, just recently joined the Lakers.

Minnesota ADA Meets And Elects Officers

Minnesota's dairy industry has been assured that the next major building project on the Minnesota state fairgrounds will be a new dairy building.

Fair manager John Libby, appearing at the annual business meeting of American Dairy Association of Minnesota (ADA) January 25, told directors of the state-wide dairy promotion organization that a new dairy building is "the number one project" on the state fair's priority list.

He said, however, start of the project would have to await accumulation of funds which will be derived, principally, from profits realized by the fair during the next year or two.

Libby asked the industry to express its preference of three available locations for the new building—all on the south end of the fairgrounds which would put the dairy industrial exhibits in closer proximity to the fair's livestock show areas. The present dairy building is located east of Machinery Hill.

Walter A Larson, Lake Elmo dairy farmer, was re-elected to a fifth one-year term as president of the state ADA unit. Also re-elected were Vice President J. O Lund, Zumbrota dairy farmer, vice president; and Dr. S. T. Coulter, head of the University of Minnesota's department of dairy industries, secretary. Herman Peschken, Winsted dairy plant owner, was named treasurer, succeeding John Holm of Minneapolis. The remaining two executive committee seats were filled by re-election of Dan Holtz, Hawick dairy farmer, and George Rydzen, Stillwater dairy farmer.

Reseated as a producer-delegate was Sheldon Erickson, Badger, Region 1.

The board approval was granted to Manager Cliff Markuson, St. Paul, to hold a series of special meetings with dairy leaders in various areas of the state for the purpose of intensifying producer participation and plant cooperation and plant cooperation in ADA programs.

ADA in Minnesota is financed by the voluntary investment of dairy farmers at the rate of two cents per hundredweight of milk as they market their product to their respective plants. The promotion investment is forwarded by plant owners and managers of finance ADA's state and national programs of advertising, merchandising, research and public relations on behalf of dairy products.

USDA Withdraws Diversion Option On Spring Wheat

Department of agriculture was withdrawn the option for spring wheat producers to divert more than the minimum acreage for eligibility for price support loans and marketing certificates, according to Ben Wichterman, chairman of the Minnesota state ASC committee.

Sign-up for the 1966 wheat program by spring and winter wheat producers is beginning this month and will continue through April 15.

The 1966 wheat program is voluntary. Any producer who elects to participate may do so by planting within his allotment, devoting 15 per cent of it to soil conserving crops and maintaining conserving crops on his conserving base acreage.

Winter wheat producers may divert for payment more than the minimum 15 per cent of allotment if they choose. At planting time last year the department said producers could divert more than the minimum for payment, and some may have planted their winter wheat crops with this feature in mind. However, during the program sign-up period, winter wheat farmers will be urged to divert only the 15 per cent minimum.

Participants have several options under the 1966 program:

They may substitute wheat for feed grains or feed grains for wheat if they take part in both programs.

They may make advance arrangements to overplant allotments by up to 50 per cent if the excess production will be stored for later sale under specified conditions.

They may underplant allotments up to 55 per cent without affecting eligibility for marketing certificates.

Winter wheat producers may plant designated non-surplus crops on acreages diverted beyond the minimum.

Participants are eligible for price support loans that will average $1.25 a bushel on all the wheat they produce except any excess wheat stored under bond. They are eligible for marketing certificates on as much as 45 per cent of the projected yield of their farm allotments. Value of the certificates will be the difference between the loan level of $1.25 and the parity price of wheat at the beginning of the next marketing year July 1.

The department also announced that producers of acceptable types of malting barley participating in the 1966 feed grain program are authorized to plant up to 110 per cent of their barley bases. This program is open to producers who have history of prior production of malting barley.

Midwest Drivers Express Opinion On Safety Issues

How does John Q. Motorist feel about traffic and safety issues which affect him as a driver in Minnesota? The Minnesota highway patrol and the Minnesota State Automobile association (AAA) teamed up recently to find out.

At the recent Upper Midwest Automobile show in Minneapolis, a special AAA voting machine, staffed by members of the highway patrol, asked drivers for their opinions on five current motoring issues.

When the final vote was tallied, here is how Minnesota drivers voted:

62 per cent of the drivers felt that a jail sentence should be mandatory for anyone caught driving while his driver's license was suspended or revoked.

75 per cent felt that a simple eye check should be required every time a driver renews his driver's license.

63 per cent of all drivers felt that the penalty for driving while intoxicated was not severe enough. (Maximim penalty is a $100 fine or 90 days in jail. . .the same as the penalty for going through a red light.)

65 per cent of the drivers felt that Minnesota should have a good compulsory motor vehicle inspection law.

58 per cent of the divers felt that all new drivers in Minnesota should be required to pass a driver training course before applying for a driver's license.

Adult Agriculture Instructor Hired At Middle River

Fred Fredrickson has been hired by the Middle River school board to start a new community program, according to Superintendent Donald English. In meeting its responsibilities to the community, the school board has added an adult agriculture instructor to assist local farmers in meeting both immediate and long range problems, he said.

Farmers will be assisted in keeping up to date with the emphasis placed on approved practices, a complete farm management course and a mechanized training program.

Fredrickson is a life-long resident of the Red River Valley, having been raised on a livestock farm near Moorhead. He is an agricultural graduate from North Dakota State university and taught vocational agriculture at Ulen.

Fredrickson has also worked as farm and hail supervisor for a crop insurance company, farmed his own farm for three years and served as county 4-H club agent as well as being active in community activities.

Interested farmers may contact Fredrickson at the vocational agriculture department in the Middle River community school. Mr. and Mrs. Fredrickson and [illegible] daughter have moved to Middle River and will reside at the Kiel [illegible]dence.

'Body and Mind. We shall never get straight till we leave off trying to separate these two things. Mond is not a thing at all or, if it is, we know nothing about it. It is a function of body. More Creeping Government

Concern is being expressed by the National Community Television association following disclosure that the New Federal Communications commission regulations will be announced for community antenna television on or about February 7. Concern is warranted, for it stems from anticipated regulatory action by another expanding government body.

It is significant to note that these television interests bring their story to the printed press—recognizing that it is the best method to have their story told to the public. They could, after all, fight their battle in their own medium of television, but they aparently relaize that it would be quite lacking in effect.

Since television is a competitor of the newspaper, why should the nation's editors come to the defense of such competition? Simply because the arbitrary action of a federal commission seems to be morally wrong and a further unnecessary infringement on indivudual rights. This in itself is enough to make the nation's press rise up and prepare once again to do battle.

How serious is the question? This is the evaluation of Charles C. Camillo, president of Amphenol cable division of Amphenol corporation:

"More than six million television viewers across the nation could soon turn on their sets to find their favorite programs blacked out by government order. The new (FCC) rules, unveiled two weeks ago at a closed meeting of the National Community Television association in Washington, will cripple CATV so badly that the government is, in effect, outlawing this public service."

He said the proposed new regulations could "give TV stations the right to refuse permission for a CATV system to carry its signals; prohibit the construction or expansion of CATV systems in areas where UHF channel allocation has been made; force CATV systems to carry local stations whether or not the owner or his subscribers want them; dilute a town's present rights to decide which CATV system applicants are best qualified to serve its citizens; and black out all programs coming over the cable which duplicate those originating in local TV stations, and prohibit their showing for 15 days."

And then Camillo adds, "Telling a CATV operator that he must carry a local station is like telling a Chicagoan that he must buy copies of all local papers before he may buy the New York Times—it's a clear interference between merchant and buyer."

Camillo has, of course, stated only one side of the question. In the light of creeping government regulation, however, we are inclined to believe he is entitled to be concerned. Our nation needs more government like elephants need roller skates. We have more regulation than we need right now.

So You Want To Be Heard?

Do you believe your judgement is better than that of others who are charged with the responsibility of making decisions for you? Do you feel you have qualifications equal to or better than others now holding various offices? Do you want your voice and opinions to be heard where action can result?

No, this isn't an introduction to a self-improvement course. It is a reminder that township elections are coming up soon and that political parties are planning their precinct caucuses.

Public officials, and others as well, consider sideline experts on everything as somewhat of a pain in the ear. We refer to the novice who complains of architecture after a building is built; to the mathematician who, with stub pencil and empty grocery sack, can out-figure the engineer with a slide-rule in doing a job cheaper; the stay-at-home who criticizes party nomines and his party's "inactivity"; the man who "can't understand" why something is necessary because he doesn't bother to become informed on the problem.

Well, if you want your voice to be heard, now is the time to come forward and be numbered among the policy-makers. Seek a township office, join in your party's precinct caucuses, campaign for election as a county delegate, nominate your favorite candidates and support them. Get in on the ground floor and show by action that what you have to offer is more than after-thoughts.

Or—as the traditional wedding ceremony is purported to state—forever hold your peace.

They Didn't Mean It

People sometimes get a little confused and don't say quite what they intend to say. This is the case with a number of letters received by the director of a welfare office. The director released excerpts from some of these, and the excerpts have been making the rounds of area papers. We make no claim as to their factual foundation, but they are worthy of repeating:

"My check was so late that my husband had to go back to work."

"I cannot get sick pay. I have six children. Can you tell me why?"

"This is my eighth child. What are you going to do about it?"

"I am forwarding my marriage certificate and six children. I have seven but one died which was baptized on a half sheet of paper."

"Sires: I am glad to say that my husband who was reported missing is now dead".

"I am forwarding my marriage certificate and my three children, one of which was a mistake."

"I am writing to say that my baby was born two years ago. When do I get the money?"

"I am very much annoyed to find that you have branded my child illiterate. This is a dirty lie as I was married to his father a week before he was born."

"In answer to your letter, I have given birth to a boy, weighing 10 pounds. I hope that this is satisfactory."

"Unless I get my husband's money very soon, I will be forced to lead an immortal life."

"You have changed my little boy to a girl. Will this make a difference?"

"In accordance with your instructions, I have given birth to twins in the enclosed envelope."

And all of these bring to mind a picture caption which appeared some time ago in the Kittson County Enterprise at Hallock. It was a case of good intention but unfortunate wording. Commenting on a family of 19 children, the Enterprise said, "The above picture is proof that we also have some mighty fine families here, this one being an exception."

Cold Enough for You?

One of the most commonly-asked questions in this area during the past couple of weeks has been, "Cold enough for you?" Liberally translated, this means 'Are you as disgusted with this miserable weather as I am?" And the weather was indeed cold enough to prompt some disgruntled replies to the question.

It's not that 41 degrees below zero is totally unexpected in marvelous Minnesota, nor that it is particularly uncomfortable when a person can be suitably attired to withstand the raveges of the elements.

But when the usually faithful car won't start, the fuel line to the house has frozen, the kids are chilled and sweet repose is interrupted at 3 a.m. by a balky furnace, and when the fuel finally does start flowing it moves with the rapidity of water over Niagara Falls, and ears are frost-bitten during a short walk that seemed to take longer than it should—then the question "Cold enough for you" takes on sinister significance.

So it is that the multiple frustrations confined within the weary body of meager man combine to create a seething resentment that swells up near the surface of the mind. This creates what psychiatrists refer to as "inherent homicidal tendencies" and a motivated drive to give the very next person who asks that "cold enough for you" question a punch in the nose.

And when that next person stands six feet four and weighs 230 pounds and discretion suddenly seems infinitely wiser than spontaneous action (whether motivated and premeditated or not), the frustrations are suppressed, man is humbled and the mere act of kicking a small block of ice provides extreme satisfaction. This is the time when man begins to take cold weather with a more philosophical attitude.

So, we ask ourselves:

Would we rather live in Minnesota where the cold weather is expected and we are somewhat ready for it, or live in the southern states where the cold front caused severe discomfort and damage?

Would we trade our wonderful summers —short as they may be—for the hurricane country, the arid west, or the crowded west coast?

Would we be content in a place where there is the monotony of perpetual summer and no awakening of nature in the spring, no panorama of color in the fall and no white Christmas?

And we answer that such a land is not for us. We like it here—cold or not. We file these comforting thoughts in front of the frustrations, and the next time someone asks, "Cold enough for you?"—we can truthfully answer, "It's just great!"

Answer Questions on Federal Income Tax

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal Revenue, St. Paul.

Q—Every time I receive my wages, there is an amount withheld for income tax. May I deduct as taxes paid for 1965?

A—The amount of income tax withheld from your salary should be claimed as a credit against your 1965 federal income tax as computed on your return. It should be entered on line 9 of Form 1040A or line 17a of Form 140. This tax withholding is not a deduction to be claimed under "taxes" on page 2 of Form 1040, if you itemize your allowable deductions.

Q—What is the retirement income credit, and who can benefit by it?

A—If you are retired or are 65 years of age or older, you may be entitled to a credit against your tax up to 15 per cent of your retirement income. Taxpayers under 65 years can consider only pensions or annuities from a public retirement system as retirement income. If you are 65 or older, retirement income includes all your taxable income from pensions, annuities, interest, dividends, and rents. The credit is limited to 15 per cent of the retirement income you received in 1965, or $1,524 minus certain adjustments. Among these adjustments is a reduction for Social Security benefit payments and earned income in excess of $900. More specific information can be secured by requesting Document No. 5018 from your local revenue

Q—If a son purchases a used tractor, owned by his father, at a public auction sale, where he had to outbid other purchasers, can he claim the investment credit on this purchase?

A—No. "Used Section 38 property" does not include property purchased from a direct ancestor or lineal descendent, whether purchased at auction or otherwise.

Q—Are social security or railroad retirement benefit payments taxable?

A—No. Social security or railroad retirement benefits received monthly, or in a lump sum are not income, whether you receive them because you are of qualified age, disabled or the dependent of a qualified worker.

Q—The street I live on was improved last year, and I was assessed my share of the cost. Can the amount I paid be deducted as a real estate property tax?

A—No. Assessments for local benefits which serve to increase the value of your property are generally not deductible. These include such improvements as construction or paving of streets, sidewalks and water and sewer systems. However, "local benefit taxes" assessed for the purpose of maintenance and repair, or to meet interest charges on such benefits, are deductible. You must be able to show the amount of such assessments for maintenance, repair or interest to claim this deduction.

Q—Can our child, who is a student, be claimed as a dependent on our return?

A—If your child had no income, and you provided over one-half of the total support, you may claim the exemption. If the child worked part-time, and you still furnished over one-half of the support required, you may claim the dependency exemption, even if the child files a separate tax return and claims his or her own exemption on that return.

State Taxpayers Share Heavily In Federal Tax

Minnesota taxpayers will be required to pay out approximately $1,754,000,000 as their "share" of the $111 billion total of estimated federal net budget receipts in the fiscal year which begins next July, according to Charles P. Stone, executive director of the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

"This $1,754,000,000 estimate, compiled from figures prepared by Tax Foundation, Inc., is based upon the premise that Minnesotans in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1967, will pay 1.58 per cent of the federal tax burden," Stone stated. "Reduced to a per capita figure, this means that the share of every man, woman and child in the State of Minnesota would be $493.47 (using the latest estimated population figure of 3,554,000), or $1,727 for an average family of 3.5 individuals.

"This is a huge burden upon the taxpayers of the state, particularly when piled on top of ever-increasing state and local taxes," Stone declared. "Congress, the administration and citizens should be alert to possibilities for reducing it."

The fiscal 1967 budget estima[illegible] expenditures at $112.8 billion and receipts at $111 billion with a resulting deficit of $1.8 billion.

STAR ☆ BRIGHT

When Millie goes to bed she stops by the stairway window to say good night to her favorite star. It twinkles in the frosty evening sky, and to me it seems remote and cold. But to Millie, the star is a warm and glowing friend. It's just a matter of viewpoint. A grown-up sees through the eyes of experience. The child gazes through the eyes of innocence. And as we all know, it isn't easy to exchange our experience for innocence again.

Yet, this is exactly what many of us need to do. Many of us need a new approach, a new look at the old things, the old truths. We need to open our eyes, and let ourselves see; to open our ears, and let ourselves hear.

There is no better place to discover this new approach than in your church. In church next Sunday you will wind a new point of view. Let yourself see, let yourself hear. You will be surprised at the results.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Our LAND

Appearing in cooperation of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture

Even without that snow covering most of Minnesota, our soils are moist enough to withstand at least a mild drought this spring—without hurting 1966 crops.

That's the soil moisture outlook from D. G. Baker, soil climatologist at the University of Minnesota. By areas of the state, it breaks down to: Extreme northeast and extreme southwest—average; East central—probably excessive; and everywhere else—somewhat above average.

These conclusions are based on the fall, 1965, soil moisture survey taken around the state at more than 30 different locations.

At almost every site, reserves of moisture are higher than a year ago. The September rains, above norman themselves, brouth the reserves up, that added to the fact that season precipitation as a whole around the state, was also above normal.

Would heavy rains cause problems this spring, since reserves are now generally good? Probably in the east-central and extreme southeast parts of the state. However, if the rains coincide with the spring snow melting before soils have thawed a serious situation could result.

In making the survey, Baker calculated the amount of water used by whatever crop was being raised in each field sampled. He concluded that the use averages about 20 inches for the crop year, and this level didn't vary much according to the kind of crop.

He adds, however, that his moisture use figures same for equal periods of time and at a time when there was planty of soil moisture. In drouth periods, for example, it might not hold true due to differing rooting habits of the various crops.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

A visit to a doctor or dentist can be a traumatic experience for a child. The doctor's office or clinic is unfamiliar. The white uniforms are strange and may be frightening.

Parents can do a great deal to help ease an uncomfortable situation by preparing their children for a visit to the doctor suggests the Minnesota State Medical association. Tell the child where he is going and what will hapen there. Above all don't lie to him. Eventually he will discover that you have not told him the truth and if he can't trust the people he lives how can he be expected to trust other people?

The attitudes of adults are very important. If you really believe that the visit to the doctor is good and the right thing to do so will your child. On the other hand a casual negative comment about an experience in a doctor's office can stimulate a child's imagination.

When your child asks questions answer them. Young children do not understand illness or the measures taken to prevent illness. When a child is hurt or when he must go to a doctor for a vaccination the experience can be very frightening if he does not know what to expect.

Occasionally one hears a parent threaten to take a child to a doctor as a kind of punishment. If it becomes necessary for the child to actually see a doctor in a sense the threat is carried out. Of course the child is frightened. He will think he has done something wrong, and he won't know what he is being "punished" for.

If the child is unprepared for his visit to the doctor, if he does not know why he is there, if he is frightened, it will be much more difficult for the doctor to gain his confidence. In the opinion of doctors, your child's attitude toward the doctor and toward what is happening to him can have a definite effect on how beneficial the visit is. You can help both your child and the doctor by preparing your child for the visit.

Malting Barley Exemption Again Granted by USDA

United States Department of Agriculture announced on January 25 that the malting barley exemption has been granted for 1966 plantings. This means that a historical producer of malting barley who plants a malting variety in 1966 can plant 110 per cent of his 1959-60 base acres and retain eligibility for price support. Granting the malting barley exemption gives the grower an additional choice to increase his acreage of a commodity which is in good demand and commands premium prices.

In announcing the malting barley exemption, the U.S.D.A. based the decision on the fact that much of the 1965 crop of malting barley failed to meet the quality requirements because of prolonged rains at harvest. Both domestic and export requirements have increased and granting the exemption will help insure supplies to meet the requirements.

Because of the favorable dollar returns over acre from malting barley in 1965 and the expected continuing good demand for malting barley because of increasing needs by industry, Malting Barley Improvement association urges barley growers to take advantage of the malting barley exemption as a means of increasing their income in 1966.

Public Opinion

Dear Sir:

Little has been said about the defeat of the swimming pool proposal last November. I was never optimistic about the outcome, but I was certainly discouraged by the results. In trying to understand why this measure was defeated so badly, I still see a definite concern and interest by over one-third of the voting public for safe and healthy swimming in summer recreation.

The issue of indoor to outdoor pools alone probably would have defeated this issue and this is why I was never optimistic. However, this was not the argument that dealt the killing blow. The opposition did not and could not support an argument against the need for better swimming facilities. Instead, they proposed something bigger and better for Thief River Falls, a Sports Complex. Of course, it wouldn't cost much because Uncle Sam would certainly lend a hand.

As I stated bfore, this is what dealt the killing blow to the swimming pool issue. I would guess that the same killing blow would have been dealt in the school bond election if the opposition had assured the voters that the federal government would build the school in 3-4 years. Most of us are happy that we didn't have to waite for the federal government to build our new school. I know there are 596 voters that do not want to wait for the federal government to build a safe and healthy swimming pool.

The swimming pool committee could not answer the proposal of a sports complex because the whole idea was not well defined. The swimming pool committee never opposed and will not oppose an arena or sports complex.

This is the time of year we should be thinking about an arena. Thief River Falls certainly can take no pride in the facilities we now have. I understand there are teams that now refuse to play in town, but travel to Roseau and play in their fine facilities. Our arena is not only undersized for proper hockey play, but to ask a spectator to stand during the entire game is not only detrimental to local interst, but an afront to those who visit Thief River Falls following their teams.

At times I can't help but think that the Chamber of Commerce is losing the ball in building a better Thief River Falls. Their recommendation to the city council was to consider a complex rather than an individual swimming pool issue. I am sure a new sports complex would not hurt the business climate if hockey and basketball tournaments could be held here. I know families from Strandquist, Newfolden and other areas between Thief River Falls and Warren will be doing their shopping in Warren while their children are enjoying Warren's new pool. Many families also have and will be enjoying Roseau's new pool.

Maybe a sports complex is just a dream. Perhaps the idea was never offered with sincere motives. If this is what the community wants and should have why isn't something being done about it? If federal money is available for this type of project, are we doing all we can ot obtain a grant? Has study been done on such a project? What if federal money is not available, do we settle for second rate facilities? What is the health and safety of our children really worth?

The proposal made by the swimming pool committee was not intended to be the only answer to our swimming problems, but through study of other communities and pools we felt this was the best answer to our immediate need. That is, a safe and healthy place to swim. I felt the need was immediate and did all I could to persuade others. I only hope that time will prove wrong and we will enjoy the comfort and safety of an indoor-outoor sports complex before we have another tragic drowning in the river.

I'm for a better Thief River Falls, but let's not wait until 1989.

If planning holds up progress, maybe the plan should be changed.

Sincerely,
Donald R. Goodrich, D.D.S.

Forestry Division Says Several Tree Species Available

Minnesota division of forestry announced today that orders received to date have exhausted the supply of deciduous (broadleaf) trees and shrubs available from state nurseries for planting next

In addition supplies of a number of coniferous (evergreen) species have also been depleted. Still available, however, are Norway pine, jack pine, ponderosa pine, Colorado spruce and white cedar.

Forestry officials said anyone intending to purchase seedling stock from the state should limit their tree order to the above named species in order to be assured of obtaining planting stock. It is expected that the remaining supply of trees will be rapidly depleted within the next month or sooner.

Tree seedlings may be purchased from the state for any conservation practice or purpose by land owners within the state. Orders must be for a minimum of 500 trees.

Price lists and application forms are available at all division of forestry offices, county agent's offices, S.C.S. and A.S.C.S. offices, or they can be obtained by writing directly to the Director of Forestry, Centennial Bldg., St. Paul, Minn.

January Coldest Month Since Winter of 1936

by Jim Wills
Times Reporter

Northern Minnesota, along with most of the nation, was hit by the coldest weather in 30 years during January of 1966. Thief River Falls chalked up a real mean mean temperature of -10.3 degrees, or 10 degrees below normal, making January of 1966 the coldest month on Times records. The record shows that only one day during the month failed to register a subzero low, and highs of zero or below was recorded on 15 days.

Permanently filed weather records kept by the Times date back to 1955. Newspaper files, however, show that the historic winter of 1936 greatly overshadows the present winter, not so much in intensity of the cold as in the great length of a period of extreme cold. Be that as it may, the record of the month just past should serve as a silencer for members of older generations who delight in boasting that "You young whippersnappers don't know what winter is. In the old days we really had winter."

A detailed account of the winter of 1936 will appear in the next issue of the Times for the sake of comparison with its 30th anniversary. Even more legendary is the savage winter of 1886-87, in which about 90 per cent of the cattle on Montana's winter ranges froze to death. Thermometers and newspapers were scarce in this area in those days, however, so no accurate review of that winter is possible.

Below-normal temperatures ruled the weather world throughout the month of January. The coldest period of the month began January 21 when an immense arctic high-pressure ridge descended on the area behind a one-inch snowfall. Temperatures began to sink steadily, reaching a low on the 24th of -41 degrees. The mercury rose only slightly before another cold front pushed through the area. The temperature was back down to -41 by the 28th. No relief from the intense cold came until the arrival of February. Highest temperature recorded during the month was a not-so-high 18 degrees January 2 and 12. Average high for the month was an even zero; average low was -20.5.

Even though modern technology has made winter easier to endure, Minnesotans faced a fair number of hardships during the cold snap. On January 27, when 30-below-zero temperatures combined with a brisk norther to bring the wind chill temperature down to 70 below, frostbite was a common occurrence. During the same per-

Dividend checks in the amount of $1,135 will be distributed at the meeting. Speakers, musical entertainment, free registration prizes and lunch will also be attractions for the meeting.

Farmers in Marshall county who plan to take part in the 1966 feed grain program will find that signup procedure and general program requirements this year are similar to those followed for last year's feed grain program, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

The first step in taking part in the program is to fill out an intention - to - participate form and leave it with the ASCS county office. This can be done at any time during the signup period, which runs from January 31, through April 15 in Marshall county.

After a producer has signed up, he is responsible for (1) diverting acreage from corn, and-or barley to the extent he has agreed upon; (2) designating the acreage of land to be diverted and establishing approved conservation use on that land; (3) maintaining the conserving base acreage on his farm; and (4) not exceeding the feed grain base on any other farm in which he has an interest, Dahl explained.

There is a malting barley provision again this year where a grower of designated malting barley varieties may elect to overplant his acreage by 10 per cent. It will be necessary for him to file an application in the county office. He would then be eligible for county loan rate on his barley plus 12.5 cents at delivery, but he would not be eligible for barley diversion or price support payment.

Legion Hospital Association Will Sponsor Benefit

American Legion Hospital Association benefit will be held at the club rooms in Thief River Falls on Thursday, February 17, at 9 p.m. Last year's benefit night, the second held by the local post, resulted in $545 being contributed to the association. Purpose of the association is to render friendly assistance, and financial aid when necessary, to veterans of World Wars I and II and the Korean Conflict, and their dependants, who go to the Mayo clinic at Rochester to obtain specialized medical or surgical care for serious disabilities.

The association is a corporation organized by the members of the Minnesota department in 1922. Revenue for carrying on the work consists of post and unit dues and donations.

Patients in Rochester are assisted with hotel, clinic, and hospital arrangements through the association's hospital representative. This reprentative also calls on patients in the hospitals and assists them in any way he can. Those who can pay their own expenses are entitled to the friendly service but are not eligible for financial aid.

Every patient is expected to pay as much of his expenses as he can. The association pays whatever part of a patient's hospital, nursing, medical supply and hotel bill which he is able to pay. The association does not pay Mayo clinic bills because the clinic charges for professional services according to what it believes the patient can or will pay or will be able to pay within a reasonable length of time.

Large Attendance Noted At Seed and Feed Show

Although the reduced number of crop show entries reflected the poor harvest season last year, the Ninth Annual Pennington County Seed and Feed show held in Thief River Falls Friday was considered a success by sponsors of the event. Attendance was the largest in many years at the information programs and a large number of people viewed the exhibits and stopped at booths on the auditorium floor.

Capacity crowds greeted speakers at the grass and legume institute both morning and afternoon in the auditorium basement. Five specialists from the University of Minnesota presented the program on production of grass and legume seed, weed control, harvesting and other factors. These specialists commented on the attentiveness of the listeners and the number of intelligent questions asked during discussion, according to Silas Hanson, president of the sponsoring Pennington County Crop Improvement association.

Clifford Lenhart of Warren was the top premium winner at the show as he claimed awards in six divisions, including a championship in the barley division with a sample of Larker. He also had a first place in oats, second in durum wheat and canary grass and third in spring wheat and flax. A total of 107 entries received $191 in premium money at the crop show.

Two members of the Thief River Falls Future Farmers of America crops judging team ranked in the top three among 34 contestants in that event. Donald Rondorf tied for first place with Bob Murray of Kennedy, both boys registering perfect scores. Bruce Steiger of the local chapter placed third in the event. Teams were entered from Middle River, Plummer, Hallock, Fisher and Kennedy in addition to Thief River Falls.

Women's Division

A large number of entries were made in the women's divsion of the show which included, bread, cake, cookies and candy with use of oats, wheat, rye, sunflowers, corn and potatoes.

Peace Corps Test Offered in City

Thief River Falls area residents interested in joining the Peace Corps are invited to take the Peace Corps placement test at 9 a.m. Saturday at the post office. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, and is used to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test requires no preparation and is noncompetitive; an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

The application form, not the placement test, is the most important factor in the selection of volunteers. Persons interested in serving in the Peace Corps must fill out an application, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before taking the test. Applications may be obtained from the post office or from the Peace Corps, Washington, D. C. 20525.

The placement test takes about an hour and a half. An optional achievement test for applicants who have studied French or Spanish requires an additional hour.

YOUNGEST champion in the women's division of the Pennington county Seed and Feed show Friday was Linnae Hanson, Thief River Falls. Her sunflower cookies ranked first among 11 entries in the sunflower division, winning over bread, cake and candy in that class. Among those she defeated was her mother, Mrs. Silas Hanson.

New Directories Being Mailed to Telephone Users

A new telephone directory is being mailed to all telephone users in this area, according to T. R. Perrier, Northwestern Bell Telephone company local manager.

In addition to Thief River Falls, the directory contains listings for Crookston, Badger, Baudette, Euclid, Middle River, Roseau and Warroad in the alphabetical and classified sections; and Beltrami Holt, Newfolden, Roosevelt, Viking, Williams and Rainy River, Ontario, Canada, in the alphabetical section only.

"The instruction pages of the new directory have been completely revised," Perrier said. "They now include a table of contents for easy reference and examples of typical long distance rates to some major cities."

The inside front cover of the new directory contains a list of emergency numbers—fire, police and other agencies. Perrier urged all customers to list the number for their community in the appropriate space for easy reference.

Because some telephone numbers have been changed and many new listings added, it is advisable to destroy the old directory as soon as the new one is received, he said.

Kathryn Qualey Becomes Bride of C. W. Hoehne

First Lutheran Church of Middle River was the scene of the marriage of Kathryn Diane Qualey and Carlton W. Hoehne, both of Neenah, Wis., on January 29 in a candlelight ceremony. Pastor Duane Nelson performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of 130 friends and relatives. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gust Qualey of Middle River and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hoehne of Neenah, Wis.

Friend of the bride, Linda Larson, was at the organ for the pre-nuptial music, the wedding march and she accompanied Loren Wasley, soloist, of Hartland, Wis., as he sang "Today O'Lord" and "Wedding Prayer".

Spiral candelabra and bouquets of white and blue tinted mums decorated the altar while blue mums and green leaves marked the pews.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of white slipper satin with an empire waistline and short train. The gown featured three quarter length sleeves with bell shaped pearl beaded cuffs of chantilly lace and a scoop neckline. Her elbow length veil fell from a satin flower headpiece enhanced with pearls and she carried a crescent bouquet of white rosebuds and mums.

Gayle Qualey, sister of the bride was maid of honor, and Mrs. Lorraine Herman, sister of the groom, was bridesmatron. They were dressed identically in royal blue velvet streeth length dresses featuring long fitted sleeves and scoop necklines. They carried bouquets of blue mum crescents on white muffs.

Roger Woulf, Appleton, Wis. brother-in-law of the groom was best man and Sheldon Qualey, brother of the bride, was groomsman. Robert Herman and Iver Jesme were ushers. The men of the wedding party wore dark suits with white carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Qualey wore a powder blue suit with black accessories. The mother of the groom was attired in a red and black flowered dress with black accessories. Their corsages were of red rose buds and white mums.

The reception, given by the bride's parents, was held in the church parlors following the ceremony for 130 guests. The three tiered square wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Violet Archibald and Joyce Qualey, cousins of the bride. It was topped by a miniature lighted church with a bride and groom in the doorway. Mrs. Lawrence Haugen and Mrs. John Qualey, aunts of the groom, poured and Linda Qualey, Audrey Counter and Linda Ettenne served the punch. Registering the guests was Janet Qualey while Mrs. Roger Woulf and Mrs. Iver Jesme arranged the gifts. Waitresses were Susan and Sandra Sourdiff, Nora Qualey and Linda Toren, Mrs. Joe Biskup, Mrs. Bennie Hanson, Mrs. Albert Hanson, Mrs. Ruth Gresley, and Mrs. Melvin Toren were kitche helpers.

The couple will be at home in Neenah, Wis., after a short wedding trip.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

MRS. MILFORD HANSON

In a community that is predominately one nationality, the foods served are generally those native to that county. Good as those foods may be, there comes a time when everyone wants a change. Maybe one of the reasons the Homemakers annual party was such a huge success, was because of the vast variety of unusual foods served.

Mrs. Milford Hanson, who is counselor of the Merry Sunshine Girls homemakers club, stated that when her club was requested to serve breads from France and Italy at the party, she attempted making Fugaccio or Italian Onion bread. Much to her surprise, she found the bread to be very delicious and thinks it would be very good served with hamburgers.

To the Italians, Fugaccio is as much a treat as lefsa and flat breads are in demand by the Scandinavian people of this community. In writing this, the question crossed my mind, are there any Italians in this area?

2 teaspoons paprika

Method: Dissolve yeast in warm water; add sugar, one teaspoon salt and two cups flour. Mix well and add half a cup of flour reserving the last half cup of flour for kneading. Knead until smooth and satiny, adding remaining flour as needed. Place in a greased bowl, cover and let rise until doubled. Punch down, divide in half and let rise five minutes. Also during the summer months, the grandchildren take turns staying with them.

The Hansons have two children and six grandchildren. Their daughter, Mrs. Wayne Olson, who lives at Bemidji, has five children, Sheryl, 7; Pamela, 6; Sandra, 4; David, 3, and one-month old Steven. Their son, Donald, who is married to the former Ardith Nelson lives at East Grand Forks and has one child, Joni Dawn, who is 13 months old.

Mixers, Lakers To Play League Game Here Today

Hockey fans in the area will have an opportunity to watch senior hockey action on the Thief River Falls arena ice tonight when the Warroad Lakers and Red River Mixers of Grand Forks tangle in a Manitoba Senior Hockey league game. Starting time for the game is set for 8 p.m.

Don Ross, former all-state player at Roseau high school and All-America defenseman with the University of North Dakota, coaches the Mixers. Also on the Grand Forks roster are Jerry Westby and Dale Wennberg of Thief River Falls.

Dayton Grafstrom coaches the Warroad team which is holding first place in the league. It is expected that Murray Balagus and Bill Juzda, both former players with the senior hockey Thieves here some years ago, will be on the ice with the Warroad squad.

MR Quint Holds Unbeaten Mark

Coach Jerry Snyder's unbeaten Middle River Skippers, rated as pre-tournament favorite in District 32, defeated the Newfolden Nordics, 62 to 47, in a Border Conference game played at Newfolden on Friday. Eldon Sparby's 25-point effort was high for coach Snyder's squad, and for the game.

Middle River will play the Greenbush Tigers at Greenbush on Tuesday, and will play Baudette at Baudette on Saturday night, February 12. The Newfolden Nordics will play at Argyle on Tuesday night and then host the Baudette Bears at Newfolden on Friday night.

Cage Prowlers Retain Unbeaten Dist. String

The Prowlers continued their unbeaten string in District 31 basketball conference play when on Friday night, on the local court, coach Whitey Olson's squad edged out coach Craig Johnson's Crookston Central Pirates, 52 to 51. It marked the second one-point win over Crookston this season, as in an earlier game, played at Crookston, the Prowlers squeezed out a 38 to 37 victory.

The Prowlers will meet the Bemidji Lumberjacks in an inter-district game at Bemidji on Friday night, February 11.

In the game against Crookston Central, the Prowlers were forced to make a pair of strong rallies to overcome substantial leads gained by the visitors.

In the first period the Pirates, showing strong rebounding and fine outside marksmanship, moved into an 18 to 8 lead. Guard Ron Mutcher tallied three field goals and a free throw in the period. The Prowlers scored but eight points, and center Mark Stromberg, with three field goals and a gift shot, accounted for seven of these points.

In the second period the Prowlers' Tommy Cummings, who had been held scoreless in the first period, erupted for six field goals and a free throw as the Prowlers pared the Crookston lead to five points, 31 to 26, at the intermission.

Cummings opened the second half scoring by taking a pass from Karl Poppenhagen following the center jump and drove in for layup shot into the east basket. The Prowlers pecked away at the Crookston lead, and Poppenhagen's field goal, with 4:43 to play in the third period knotted the game at 37-all. Norm Newell broke that deadlock with a Crookston free throw. And then the Pirates rapped in three quick field goals by Doug Sorenson, Keith Peterson and Mutcher. The visitors held a 46 to 43 lead entering the final period.

Cummings' jump shot sliced the Crookston lead to one point, 46 to 45. Newell drove in to score from close in; but Poppenhagen, with 5:50 to play, scored on a layup, and when Bob Brodin's drive-in resulted in a shot that rolled over the rim and into the basket, the Prowlers had a 49 to 48 lead with 4:07 to play. Scott McFarlin, recovering a rebound, scored for Crookston with 2:08 to play.

Poppenhagen added a pair of free throws with 1:51 to play, and when Cummings, with 37 seconds to play, looped in a free throw, the Prowlers had a 52 to 50 lead. With six seconds to play, McFarlin made a free throw point, but missed his bonus attempt. And with two seconds remaining, the Prowlers Mark Stromberg, committing his fifth personal, fouled Crookston's Sorenson. Sorenson's free throw try bounced off the rim, but the ball was recovered by Crookston, and a try at the basket rolled off to the left as the Prowlers had their one-point win, 52 to 51.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Basketball Byplay

The Prowlers' Karl Poppenhagen and the Crookston Pirates' Bruce Campbell are close personal friends. Except on the basketball court or baseball diamond, that is.

One of the interesting sidelights of the basketball game here on Friday night, which found the Prowlers squeaking out a 52 to 51 win, was the personal duel between Poppenhagen and Campbell.

The game's officials, Derby Emerson and Russ Burfening, were wondering why they were getting so much assistance in officiating from the two players. When the friendship angle was explained, Derby and Russ then understood why the Prowlers' Poppenhagen was warning the referees to watch Crookston's number 23, Campbell, and that he was holding and elbowing and committing various infractions. And Campbell was briefing Emerson and Burfening about the Prowlers' number 42, Poppenhagen, and that he was setting up illegal blocks, using his knees, etc. etc.

And the two coaches, the Prowlers' Whitey Olson and the Pirates' Craig Johnson, inadvertently abetted the rivalry, for in their defensive assignments they pitted the two boys against each other.

Knowing the competitiveness of the two boys, and their personal friendship, it was interesting to watch the duel.

Incidentally, the Bemidji Lumberjacks' coaching staff—Bun Fortier, Jack Luoma and Phil Buhn—were in attendance at Friday night's game. And they were taking copious notes. The Prowlers play at Bemidji this week, and next week the Crookston Pirates play at Bemidji.

Doesn't Happen Very Often

It isn't very often that coach Frank Macloch's Roseau Rams B squad team loses a hockey game, but Saturday night was one of these occasions as coach Jerry Westby's Prowler B squad registered a 3 to 2 win over the Rams.

Roseau gained a 1 to 0 lead in the opening minute of play, but midway in the period Dana Stromberg, with a backhanded shot, evened the score at 1-all, and then Rich Holmes gave the local B's a 2 to 1 lead with a close in shot.

Roseau knotted the game at 2-all in the second period, and the game moved into the late minutes of the third period with that 2-all score on the board. Terry Stelmaschuk, recovering a rebound in front of the Roseau goal, flipped in the game-winning tally.

It's a fact, that given normal development in thier skating and stick-handling ability, the Prowler B squad should provide coach George Schlieff's varsity with a number of fine hockey players. Among some of the boys who will be performing with the varsity in the next year or so are goalie Jerry Owen, defensemen Chuck Olson, Ron Runger and Mark Haugen, and forwards Dana Stromberg, John Womack, Gary LaValley, Bob Kleinvachter, Rich Holmes, Jim Gibson, Gary Oen, Allen Rugland and Terry Stelmaschuk. And it must be remembered that such sophomores as Jerry Droppo, Billy Olson, Kent LeMoine and Arlen Overbye are on the varsity squad.

Senior Hockey Tonight

I know that the rabid hockey fans have this date, Monday, Feb. 7 on their sports calendar. Tonight, at 8 p.m. on the arena ice here, the Warroad Lakers will play the Red River Mixers in a Manitoba Senior Hockey league game.

The game will find coach Dayton Grafstrom's league-leading Warroad Lakers, with a veteran lineup, meeting a newcomer to Manitoba senior hockey, Red River Mixers coached by former All-America defensemen Don Ross. The Lakers will be favored to win the game.

Appearing with the Mixers will be local players Dale Wennberg and Jerry Westby.

And speaking of hockey, Brad Teal, a former Prowler and Thieves player now with the Rochester Mustangs, has been named to the United States hockey squad that will participate in the world's amateur hockey tournament in Yugoslavia in March. It is probable that several of the players appearing here tonight will also join the United States squad. Roger and Billy Christian were certain to have been named, but Roger's injury, breaking a leg bone, perhaps broke up this combination. Billy may not be able to find time to make the trip.

Rams Whip Prowlers 4 to 1 at Local Arena

Coach Oscar Almquist's defending Region Eight hockey champion Roseau Rams, held to 0 to 0 score at the end of the first period, tallied a pair of goals in the second period, and added two more tallies in the third period to defeat the Prowlers, 4 to 1, before a capacity crowd in the local Arena on Saturday night. The loss dropped the Prowlers below the .500 mark for the season, with the blue-and-gold having eight wins and nine losses.

The Prowlers will conclude their 1965-66 schedule on Tuesday night, February 8, when they meet the Warroad Warriors at Warroad.

The Prowlers will participate in the south sub-regional tournament to be played in Crookston on February 11, 12, 13. The winner of the sub-regional tournament will gain a berth in the Region Eight tournament to be played at Roseau on February 15 and 16.

In Saturday night's game here, the first period found the scoreboard blanked, and this was due in a large measure to the agile goal tending of the Rams' Jim Nelson and the Prowlers' Jeff Noel. Both goalies registered some spectacular "saves". Noel, in the third period made a glove-hand grab of a potential Roseau score that drew cheers from the jam-packed crowd. And in the second period Roseau's Nelson made a stick save of a shot by Chuck Bedard that had intentions of finding the net.

The Rams tallied early in the second period when Mike Baumgartner slapped the rebound of Bruce Falk's shot into the south net. And at the 5:25 mark a fine combination play by Roseau's Austin Wellestad, Bryan Grand and Baumgartner accounted for a goal. Baumgartner flipped the puck from the Roseau zone up to Grand in center-ice, and the playmaking Grand, after getting a break on the Prowler defense, fed a pass to Wellestad, and from close in the Rams' wing scored.

It was 3 to 0 in the opening seconds of the third period when Jim Lundbohm scored for the Rams. The Prowlers scored their lone goal when Monte LeMoine, after getting a pass from John Olson, beat Nelson with a hard drive that found the upper right-hand corner of the net. Grand's rebound shot, at the 11:00 mark, accounted for the game's final tally, giving the Rams their 4 to 1 win.

The Prowlers were down by four points, 14 to 10, at the end of the first period of play but then coach Whitey Olson's squad, with Karl Poppenhagen scoring three field goals and Mark Stromberg adding a pair of two-pointers and a free throw, marked up 18 points in the second period to gain the three-point half-time edge.

Freeman Comments on Feed, Wheat Programs

(Editor's Note: The following are excerpts from a statement by Orville L. Freeman, U. S. secretary of agriculture, made to the committee and released by the county office.)

"If the promise of this 1965 legislation is to be realized, all of us must do our part in the program sign-up ahead. The response of the individual farmer to the programs you are offering and explaining for feed grain, and wheat is important both to the public interest and to the future of farming.

"In feed grains, the program since 1960 have reduced carryover levels from a record 85 million tons to 55 million ton last fall. This is still about 10 million tons more than we need for an adequate reserve.

"The success of the feed grain program thus far has contributed to conditions which now could threaten to reduce the effectiveness of the program. Reduced supplies and strong grain and livestock prices may tend to cause some producers to look away from participation in the program. You as leaders in your community need to alert farmers to the dangers which lie ahead if feed grain supplies are sharply up from this year's crop.

"We still have a surplus of feed grains. Carryover stocks are not expected to be any lower when harvest begins next fall than they were a year ago. We need a good sign-up in the 1966 feed grain program to get feed grain stocks out of the surplus category for the first time in nearly 15 years.

"The situation in wheat is different. Carry over stocks are down as a result of past programs, and will fall again this year. Our carryover will be near what we consider to be an adequate reserve level.

"Because of this, I am withdrawing for spring wheat producers that part of the program authorizing incentive payments for additional diversion of a part of the 1966 acreage allotment. The program for additional diversion of winter wheat acreage will be continued.

"Thus, we begin 1966 with new legislation and some new factors which influence the design of the program and the response needed from producers to the program for 1966."

Agent of Crime Bureau Speaks at Rotary Meeting

Pat Costello, agent for Minnesota Crime bureau, was guest speaker Monday at the noon meeting of the Thief River Falls Rotary club in the Elks club rooms. Andrew Skaar, program chairman for the month of January, introduced the speaker.

Costello commented on his experiences while serving in California, and compared that highly populated state with the rural areas of Minnesota. While the problems of alcoholism, homosexuality, prostitution, drug addiction and anti-social groups are common to the metropolitan areas, he said, the rural area may expect increasing crime rates, particularly in burglaries.

While burglary increased slightly in 1965 from 1964 to 18,795 reported cases, Costello said, the urban areas had a decrease while rural areas had an increase of 200 cases. The crime bureau agent attributed the increase in rural Minnesota to criminals from the metropolitan areas to make forays into the country to extract loot from small communities. The increase is expected to continue.

Increased effort is being made in the larger cities, he said to keep known criminals under surveillance, watching their movements and generally making it difficult for them to commit crimes without detection. These criminals find it easy to burglarize business places in smaller communities which do not have 24-hour police departments, return to their home communities and have their loot sold before the business owner even discovers that the burglary has taken place.

Costello also commented on the teletype system which will soon link all county sheriff's offices into a network for state-wide communication. He said such systems have been in operation in a number of other states for years, and that the Minnesota program should be of assistance in law enforcement.

Crime has become a major problem throughout the nation, he said, with the crime rate increasing in much greater proportion than the population increase.

Damage Caused By Snowmobiles To Tree Seedlings

Maintenance division of the Minnesota highway department has expressed concern regarding damage caused by snowmobiles to seedlings planted on highway right of this relatively new winter sport is apparently being conducted on the cleared areas adjoining the roadway, much of which is planted with coniferous seedlings.

The indiscriminate use of these vehicles in such areas is proving a hardship to the small trees, many of which are almost covered by snow and are difficult to see.

The snow-going units involved are generally operated by young people and some of the damage appears to be the result of intentional vandalism, while other cases result from apparent thoughtlessness on the part of the operator. In either case, the taxpayer's investment in roadside beauty and the soil conservation benefit of the seedlings are lost. Drivers of snowmobiles may be held liable for damage they cause.

There are no laws prohibiting the operation of properly equipped and licensed snowmobiles on trunk highway right of way. The equipment required by law includes two headlamps, two rear lamps, reflectors, horn, bumpers and adequate brakes, in addition to other safety equipment.

The department urges that snowmobiles be used off of trunk highway right of way for reasons of safety.

Feeling Secure?

Do you feel more secure this year than you did in 1965? If you don't, it's not because you aren't paying for it. Social security taxes have taken a most substantial jump—for the 10th time in the last 16 years. They have rocketed from a modest tax of one per cent on $3,000 for a maximum of $30 in 1949 to 4.2 per cent on $6,600 for a maximum of $277.20 in 1966.

This is only half the story. Employers must match these amounts. This means that the government can extract a maximum of $554.40 per employee under the social security system. Next year the combined rate is scheduled to go to 8.8 per cent of taxable payrolls and will continue to rise under present law until it reaches 11.3 per cent or $745.80. Worse yet, there is no assurance that the present schedule is by any means a limit.

A small pamphlet, apparently included in a pay envelope, was called to our attention the other day. It notes that more and more people are actually paying more social security taxes than they are paying income taxes.

The booklet states, "When we stop to think that the income tax is the main source of the money required to run the entire business of the federal government, including huge outlays for defense and space exploration, while social security taxes are used exclusively to finance one single program, it makes us wonder whether things have not grown a little out of proportion."

The pamphlet also made a comparison of social security taxes paid in 1966 in relation to 1965 payments. These include only the employee's share, and may be doubled for the total figure paid. Look 'em over; they will be different again next year. . . and the year after that. . . and the following year. . .

It's a Big Event

Congratulations are due this week to the Thief River Falls Jaycees for the hosting of the state Outstanding Young Farmer banquet and awards program which will be held Saturday. It is an ambitious project and one which requires a great deal of planning and effort.

There are 45 outstanding young farmers from Minnesota entered in the state award program by sponsoring Jaycee chapters in the state. Nearly all of them will be in Thief River Falls for the awards program and banquet Saturday evening, accompanied by their wives and representatives of the sponsoring chapters.

Area residents will have an opportunity to participate in the state program by attending the banquet and awards ceremony beginning at 7 p.m. Saturday in the National Guard armory in Thief River Falls. Advance tickets are on sale from members of the Jaycee chapter for $2 each. Admission at the door Saturday evening will be $3 per person.

We are sure the Jaycees would appreciate having a large number of area farmers and businessmen in attendance at the banquet and program. Only a limited number of tickets are being offered for sale locally. We are sure the visitors would be suitably impressed with our community if the armory was filled to capacity Saturday night.

The state OYF is the first state-wide meeting which has ever been sponsored by the Thief River Falls Jaycees. The local chapter was awarded the event by virtue of its bid submitted a year ago a a state Jaycee meeting held in Moorhead. It is determined to make the meeting a success, and public support is indeed in order. We hope to see you there Saturday night. It's a big event.

Safety Pays

One thing most Americans have in common is complaining about the high cost of taxes, food, transportation and living in general. However, there is one area where complaining may do some good simply by calling attention to it, and that is the high and unnecessary expense of highway accidents. While it is true that the loss of life and the pain and suffering resulting from highway accidents are a more tangible evidence, the economic cost for those who count dollar values may be at least as impressive.

It is true that loss of life or serious injury is really only important to those affected. However, accident costs are being levied on the driver who does not become involved in an accident as surely as those who are. We are paying for accidents in lost man hours, the cost of insurance and in support of our growing traffic supervisory agencies and their related equipment.

The National Safety council says that the total cost of motor vehicle accidents in the United States during 1964 amounted to a whopping $8.1-billion, killing 47,700 people and maiming 700,000. The 1965 estimates show about 50,000 killed with damages estimated in the neighborhood of $8.2 to $8.3 billion. In Minnesota $150 million was lost in 1964 and $156 million in 1965.

It has become all too obvious to even the most idealistic among us that we will never eliminate death from the highways. However, it is possible and even realistic to say that the number or percentage of deaths can be reduced through better road design, safer vehicles, accident research and efficient safety programs. All of these cost money, but in the long run it will cost less to save people than to kill them.

In the meantime, we all must keep in mind that the most important safety element on our highways is careful, alert, and defensive driving habits by each motorist. There is no substitute for individual caution.

A Nice Customer

You know me. I'm a nice customer. I never complain, no matter what kind of service I get. I'll go into a restaurant and sit and sit while the waitress talks to her boy friend and never bothers to see if my hamburger is ready. Sometimes someone who came in after I did gets my hamburger, but I never say a word. If the soup is cold or the cream for the coffee is sour, I'm nice about it.

When I go to the store to buy something, I'm thoughtful of the other person. If I get a snooty sales person who gets nettled because I want to look at several things before I make up my mind, I'm polite as can be. I don't believe rudeness in return is the answer. You might say I wasn't raised that way. And it's seldom I take anything back to the store. I've found people are just about always disagreeable to me when I do. Life is short. . .too short for indulging in these unpleasant little scrimmages for the sake of a dollar.

I bought a toaster that burned out after two weeks. The store people were so busy telling me I burned it out on purpose, I didn't have a chance to ask them if they knew where I could have it repaired. I never kick. I never critize. I wouldn't dream of making a scene as I've seen people doing in public places. That is foolish.

I'm a nice customer; I'll tell you what else I am. I'm the customer who NEVER COMES BACK! That's my little revenge for getting pushed around. That's why I take whatever they hand out. . .I know I'm not coming back.

It's true that this doesn't relieve my feelings right off, as telling them what I think would, but in the long run, it's far more deadly revenge. In fact, a nice customer like myself, multiplied by others of my kind, can just about ruin a business. And there are a lot of nice people in the world just like me.

When we get pushed far enough, we go down the street to another store. We eat hamburgers in places where they're smart enough to hire help who appreciate nice customers. Together, we do them out of millions a year. He laughs best, they say, who laughs last. I laugh when I see them so frantically spending their money to get me back when they could have held me in the first place with a few kind words and a smile.

Help for the Helped

Life gets a little complicated as the federal government attempts to solve everyone's problems for them. The make-work programs such as the Job Corps and Neighborhood Youth Corps—designed to give school drop-outs a second shot at education—are having problems with enrollees dropping out of the drop-out program.

Now we find that "specialized assistance" in finding "appropriate work" for graduates of the corps is being provided by benevolent Uncle Sam. The labor department has announced that about 300 people are assigned in the federal-state employment system to provide special counseling and job placement and training services for National Youth Corps trainees. Similar assistance will now be offered to Job Corps graduates.

The plan calls for the establishment of 150 new positions, to be financed by the Job Corps, and to be known as Job Corps opportunity specialists, the labor department has announced. These people will be assigned the task of finding jobs for Job Corps graduates which are supposed to have training in fields in which there is a shortage of trained workers.

It would seem that these positions are somewhat unnecessary. If there is a shortage of skilled workers, why should it be difficult for workers with these skills to find employment. Are they so dependent upon assistance that they must be taken by the hand and guided to each decision which must be made in their lives?

We also understand that the local school district's application for a second class in clerk-typist training under the Manpower Development and Training act has been indefinitely postponed. The reason is that not enough of the 19 graduates of the first class have been placed in employment through the state employment service. This may in part be because the graduates are not willing to leave their home areas.

It must be tough to administer a federal program, such as the Job Corps or Neighborhood Youth Corps. Entrants must be recruited into the programs, paid while they are learning a trade or skill, and then led into a position of employment. What a way to teach independence and initiative!

CONSTRUCTION of the alfalfa pelletizing plant being built by Northwest Pellet association now stands as pictured here. Work will be completed this spring with a target date of May 20 set for operation of the plant. The first annual meeting of the association will be held Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in the Thief River Falls city auditorium, at which time a permanent board of seven directors will be elected. The plant will process only sun-cured and baled alfalfa hay, serving an area within a 100-mile radius of Thief River Falls.

Call for Plans on New Vocational Building

Another step in the direction of improvement in facilities for the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school was taken by the local board of education Monday evening. Supt. M. R. Hankerson was instructed to contact the architectural firm of Jyring and Whiteman of Hibbing and request preparation of plans and specifications on a vocational school building.

The Jyring and Whiteman firm was hired by the board at a previous meeting to serve as architects and consultants on the local vocational school situation. Monday night's action is designed to provide positive action on the project so that the board has a basic plan from which to make modifications and adjustment which it believes is in the best interest of the district and its residents.

Administrative staff salaries were set by the board with increases noted in the five major administrative positions in the district. Discussion was held on faculty salaries but no definite action was taken.

Salaries set by the board included the following with the amount of increase listed in parentheses: M. R. Hankerson, superintendent, $15,350 ($850); Francis Hamerlinck, administrative assistant, $11,100 ($600); Arnt Aune, director of the area vocational technical school, $10,700 ($600); Richard Edlund, principal of Lincoln senior high school, $11,000 ($600); and John LaBonte, principal of Franklin junior high school, $10,000 ($1,000). Elementary school principals are paid on the basis of their position on the faculty salary schedule plus $600 per year.

A budget revision of $2,000 was approved by the board to cover several equipment items for the aviation mechanics course at the municipal airport. The building was recently expanded to provide for a second class in the vocational school program and the additional equipment was needed for that class. Fifty per cent of the equipment cost will be reimbursed by the state department of education.

Need for new buses to transport district pupils was discussed and bids will be opened at the April meeting of the board. Discussion was held but no action taken on the heating plant in the old Lincoln building, additional heat for shower rooms at Franklin junior high school, remodeling of the stage at Lincoln senior high school and boiler replacement at Knox elementary school.

Final inspection for the remodeling of office, library, home economics and science rooms at Lincoln school was set for Feburary 10 by the architectural firm of Hammel, Green and Abrahamson. Action on the school calendar for 1966-67 was deferred until the next meeting.

The meeting will be larger than usual this year, as the district has been expanded in size and number of members involved through the combining of two district associations, 14 and 17, which took place on Jan. 1, 1966. Twelve counties in northwestern Minnesota and 50 cooperative associations will be represented at the meeting. Pellet Plant Annual Meet Set Saturday

Permanent Board Will Be Elected; Expect to Be Operating in May

First stockholders meeting of the Northwest Pellet association will be held Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in the Thief River Falls city auditorium, according to Roy Wiseth, secretary of the association. The cooperative is constructing an alfalfa pelletizing plant north of the city which is expected to be in operation in May.

A financial report will be presented at the meeting and a permanent board of directors elected. This board will include three directors for three-year terms, two directors for two-year terms and two directors for one-year terms. Art Stenberg, chairman, will preside at the meeting.

Featured speaker at the annual meeting will be Arthur Hansen, director of the Farmers Home administration in Minnesota. Paul Stelmaschuk of the state extension service, formerly Pennington county agricultural agent who assisted in formation of the cooperative, will also be on the speaking program. Wiseth emphasized that the plant will process only baled alfalfa hay; it can not use green alfalfa directly from the field. It is expected that the plant will purchase hay from farmers in a radius of about 100 miles from Thief River Falls. Year-around operation is planned with 100 tons of hay per day required to operate the plant at full capacity. Location of the plant is one and one-half miles north of Thief River Falls between highway 32 and the Great Northern railroad tracks.

After Jan. 1, 1967, persons under the age of 18 will not be issued a Minnesota driver license unles they have successfully completed an approved course in driver education. The new law will affect only those youths who apply for a driver license after that date.

The course must include both classroom and behind-the-wheel instruction, as approved by the state department of education. The youth who successfully completes the course will be eligible to take the driver license examination and, if he passes, be issued a driver license.

Remember '36? That Was a L-o-n-g Winter

by Jim Wills
Times Reporter

The lengthy and intense cold wave of January, 1966, caused many a long-time resident of northern Minnesota to look back 30 years to the historic and well-remembered winter of 1936, when temperatures ranged from the -20's to the -40's almost continually for 30 days. Information on that legendary period was obtained from the 1936 file of the Times, and speaks well for the survival ability of the Minnesotans of a generation ago.

The Times issue of Thursday, Jan. 16, 1936 reported that eight inches of snow blanketed the area last weekend. The snowstorm disrupted traffic on the Soo's Wheat Line in North Dakota, schedules Monday and Tuesday being confined to points from Thief River Falls to Fordville and from Kenmare to Overly. Normal operations were resumed Wednesday, but windy weather was expected to cause further trouble. Then it began to get cold, and how! The temperature in this city dropped to -25 Wednesday, and this was only the beginning.

The Times issue published a week later, January 23, coldly states that the mercury dropped to the -30 mark every day since Friday, and skidded to -43 on Wednesday, the 22nd. All minimum temperature figures from here on are what the Times termed "semi-official", since maximum and minimum thermometers of the type used in U. S. Weather Bureau recording stations were installed in the local post office January 21. Fred Protz, city mail carrier, undertook the task of maintaining the instruments, making his observations at 7 a.m. each day.

No new records had yet been set by the -43-degree reading, since the Times revealed that a year ago Wednesday a low of -44 had been recorded, and that on Christmas night in 1933 the mercury had slipped to -46. The report further states that International Falls, the perennial competitor of Thief River Falls and Bemidji for the tital of "Icebox of the nation", had recorded a Wednesday morning low of -55.

The story also contained information from a bulletin released by the U. S. Department of Agriculture regarding minimum temperature records around the world. Up to that time, the all-time low recorded in the United States was -66 reported from the Riverside ranger station in Yellowstone National Park Feb. 9, 1933. This report pre-dated the current all-time low, however. The morning of Jan. 20, 1954 dawned a cool 70 below at Rogers Pass, Mont., near the summit of the Continental Divide. The world record at the time was -90 in northern Siberia, and -78 has been experienced in Alaska.

By February 6, the cold wave had ended its fourth week, and the average minimum temperature for the past 17 days had been an even 30 below. The mercury had not risen above zero since January 13. A new low point for several years was reached February 5, when Fred Protz observed a low of -45.

One of the worst blizzards on record hit southern Minnesota, Iowa and eastern South Dakota the weekend of February 8 and 9. This section was missed by all but the tail end of the storm and relatively little inconvenience resulted. Snowdrifts tied up the Wheat Line temporarily, however. The seige of subzero weather continued unabated for its fifth week.

Another weekend blizzard halted all railroad and highway traffic in eastern North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota February 15 and 16. On Saturday, the 15th, the stiff norther pushed the mercury in the post office thermometer down to -46 degrees, setting the official all-time record. At about this time, North Dakota recorded its all-time low with a reading of -60 at Parshall.

By Thursday, February 20, traffic was running on the Wheat Line from Thief River Falls to Fordville, but dispatchers indicated it would be several days before the entire line could be opened up. Local coal dealers reported difficulty in getting deliveries of all varieties and sizes of coal, but were able t otake care of all their patrons so far, making substitutions in some cases. Dealers were advised that the supply of coal in the docks at Duluth was likely to be exhausted by April 1.

Plumbers reported having received as many as 15 to 20 calls a day to thaw out frozen pipes in local homes. Due to the unusually great depth of ground frost, numerous water mains were frozen. On January 20, the Times noted the city's 40th day of subzero temperatures.

With a regularity almost equaling that of Old Faithful, another blizzard, the worst of the winter, struck North Dakota and the prairie sections of Minnesota Wednesday, February 26. A 12-hour snowfall piled into drifts by strong winds blocked all roads in the area, but on the following day the Times stated that harrassed highway maintenance crews expected to have all trunk highways out of the city open today and all state aid roads in this section plowed out by Saturday.

A welcome break in the severe cold was experienced here February 23, when a high of 27 degrees was recorded. This was a jump from -27 recorded as a low on the 21st. The 32-day average low since January 21 was -28.25 degrees. During this period the mercury failed to go below -20 on only six days, and reached the -40's on six days.

Little more was said about weather in the Times until the issue of March 26, when the front page related an early-spring blizzard which once again blocked highways in the area and tied up traffic on Tuesday, March 24. Railway service on the Wheat Line was not disrupted, dispatchers reported. A Wednesday morning low of 8 degrees followed the storm. Daytime temperatures were climbing, however; a high of 45 was reached Sunday. The bright sun was reportedly making heavy inroads on the snow.

The winter's last big storm struck the area April 6, again bringing traffic to a standstill. What is believed to be an all-time low record for the month of April was set the following morning, when observer Protz recorded a low of -13 degrees.

Following this last wintry blast, spring weather arrived, and local events and the New Deal began stealing headlines from the weather. In the February 20 issue of the Times, columnist Norm Holen philosophized in "Topics of the Times" as follows: "Oh, well, think of how much fun it will be 20 years from now to tell the youngsters about the winter of 1936." The same could be said for the summer of the same year, which would prove to be the hottest on record.

The following minimum temperatures were reported to the Times in 1936 by Fred Protz, mail carrier and weather observer.

Alternate Crops On Diverted Acres Listed by ASCS

Alternate nonsurplus crops which may be grown on acreage diverted for payment from 1966 production of wheat or feed grain, have been named by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

According to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, farmers taking part in any of the commodity diversion programs may plant the following crops instead of devoting the acreage to an approved conserving use: Guar, sesame, safflower, sunflower, castor beans, plantage ovato, mustard seed and crambe.

As in 1965, the plantings may be made only on program acreage diverted for payment. Under the 1966 feed grain and wheat programs, no payment is made for minimum diversion except to farmers having small feed grain bases.

Where diverted cropland is used to produce any of the specified alternate crops, the diversion payment will be reduced. Percentages of the individual farm acreage diversion payment rates will be made in 1966 are: Guar, sesame and crambe, 50 per cent; mustard seed, plantago ovato and castor beans, 30 per cent; sunflower, 20 per cent; and safflower, no payment available.

Current legislation provides that acreage diverted from wheat, feed grains and cotton may be used for specified crops when it is determined that (1) production of such crops is needed to provide an adequate supply, (2) it is not likely to increase the cost of price-support programs, and (3) it will not adversely affect farm income.

No "Automatic" Participation in Wheat Program

There is no "automatic" participation in the 1966 wheat program, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

For any farm operator who wishes to qualify for any of the benefits available under the wheat program, the first step is to sign up at the ASCS county office. Benefits of the program include certificates on "domestic-use" wheat, price-support loans and diversion payments.

The signup is necessary because the farmer indicates on the application form exactly what provisions of the program he intends carrying out, and the extent of his intended participation. When checked against his actual performance later in the year, the program benefits for which the operator is eligible can readily be determined, Dahl said.

Signup for the 1966 wheat program began January 31 in the ASCS county office and will continue through April 15.

Navy To Airlift Reservists for Training Program

Free air transportation each month for Navy veterans who wish to maintain their Navy skills is being offered by the Naval Air Station, Twin Cities, which is seeking 60 men from northwestern Minnesota to assist in the air reserve training program.

A transport plane from the station will pick up Bemidji-area reservists the third Friday night of each month, carry them to the station for training and drill during the weekend and return them to Bemidji Sunday night.

Navy veterans who are less than 44 years old and have two years or more of active duty will be signed up for the new airlift program announced this week by the Chief of Naval Air Reserve training.

Rex A. Henderson, representing the air station, will open an office in each of the metropolitan centers in the area to answer questions and inspect papers of veterans who wish to sign up in the new airlift program. His office in Bemidji will be in the VFW club and will open February 16.

Many Eligible for Medicare Without Social Security

A person 65 or older will be eligible for medicare even though he has never worked under social security, according to Clifford Kittelson, district manager for social security. This includes many who have never had social security numbers.

Anyone who is not getting social security benefits and who has not applied should do so now. Those who delay beyond March 31 will not have another opportunity for coverage until July of 1968.

Those who sign up now will have protection starting this July. The $3 monthly premium is not payable until July 1 even though a person applies now, Kittelson said.

Every applicant should furnish proof of his age, preferably a birth or baptismal certificate. A foreign-born person should show his citizenship papers or alien registration card. If neither of these is available, he should try to locate evidence showing his presence in this country before June 30, 1966.

A relative or friend is urged to contact the social security office on behalf of anyone who is unable to do so himself.

Wayne Gilbert In Special Study At Prep School

Wayne Gilbert, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Gilbert of Thief River Falls, is among 14 seniors at St. John's preparatory school, Collegeville, who have been selected to participate in a program of specialized independent study during the second semester.

Starting January 26, the 14 students have been working in a major field of their own choice—English, religion, history, modern language, physics or biology—instead of attending regular classes and taking tests. They will also have to meet requirements in the classes in which they were enrolled during the first semester.

Designed to help students reach for knowledge without emphasis on grades, the program will also allow them to delve more deeply into certain areas of study, said Headmaster Rev. Cuthberg Soukup, OSB. For several the specialized project will mean cutting across subject matter lines and helping students to see a closer relationship between two or more subjects.

Local Delegates Participate in Church Convention

More than 260 pastors and lay delegates converged on Moorhead January 24-27, as the 240 congregations of the Minnesota North district of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod met for their regular biennial convention.

Representing St. John Lutheran church in Thief River Falls and Redeemer Lutheran of Plummer were Rev. Paul R. Biegner, pastor of the parish, and Bruno Beiswenger.

Delegates heard reports from departments of the district's board of directors and approved plans of work for the period of 1966-1968.

Rev. Alfred C. Seltz of Brainerd was reelected full-time district president for a 4 year term on the first ballot. Rev. Seltz served as pastor of St. John church from 1956 until 1963, when he was elected to the post of full-time district president.

Rev. Biegner was reelected on the first ballot to another four-year term as head of the missions department of the district's board of directors. Areas of Rev. Biegner's responsibility include supervision of 36 congregations in 25 parishes receiving some $169,000 of subsidy support. Majority of the subsidized parishes are in northern Ontario, the Iron Range and in rural areas of widely scattered population without an adequate Lutheran witness.

Ken Onken, elder of St. John church, was elected as one of six delegates to the synodical conference meeting in Chicago during this summer. Discontinuing the synodical conference in favor of the Lutheran Council in the USA (LC-USA) may be one of the items before that meeting.

Rev. T. C. Hanson, president of the ALC's Northern Minnesota district, personally extended his greetings to the delegates. The twin ports of Port Arthur and Ft. William, Ontario, will be the site of the 1968 convention of the Missouri Synod's Minnesota North district.

Anticipated Opening Dates Announced for 1966 Hunting Seasons

Minnesota Conservation Commissioner, Wayne Olson, today announced the anticipated opening dates for the 1966 upland game and deer hunting seasons.

Olson emphasized that if game surveys show that closing a season or changing the opening date is necessary to protect a species of game bird or animal from undue depletion, the season will be closed or modified even though an opening date has been announced.

Length of seasons and bag limits will not be determined until late summer or early fall when more complete information is available on population levels of the various species. Winter survival, reproductive success and other factors combine to influence the quantity and distribution of wild birds and animals, Olson explained.

He said the early announcement of the opening dates again this year is in response to numerous requests from sportsmen who must plan their vacations and schedule their hunting trips at the beginning of the year.

The 1966 firearms deer season will open on November 12, which is one day earlier than the 1965 season. Present law provides that the season must be between November 1 and 21, and no longer than nine days. Within this framework the conservaton department sets the season as late as posible and still provide for two full weekends of hunting.

Bow and arrow hunters will note that the first archery deer season Saturday in October, in keeping with the department's policy of opening seasons on Saturday, the late archery deer season will open December 3.

The 1966 opening dates are almost identical to those in 1965 except for pheasants, which will open a week later than last year. The later pheasant opener will allow time for more corn to be picked. Last year only a small percentage of the corn had been picked when the season opened.

Season dates for waterfowl and other migratory birds cannot be set until the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service announces the framework for the 1966 regulations.

1966 Hunting Season Opening Dates:

October 1, Squirrels; October 1, Rabbits; October 1, Deer-Bow and Arrow (October Season); October 8, Ruffed Grouse, Sharptailed Grouse; Oct. 29, Pheasants; October 29, Hungarian Partridge; November 12, Deer-Firearms; December 3, Deer-Bow and Arrow (December Season).

Heart Campaign Volunteers Named

Wesley Johnson, chairman of the 1966 Heart Fund campaign in Pennington county, has named Herman Solum and Mrs. Milton Burstad as co-chairman of the Thief River Falls campaign. Mrs. Erdman Pearson will serve as chairman in St. Hilaire and Mrs. Leo Ellingson as chairman in Goodridge. Lester Gustafson has been named as finance chairman and the Northern State bank as 1966 Heart Fund depository.

Other volunteers in the county include Ed Berg, Leonard Sknar, Roy Rude, J. H. Bjerke, Mrs. Martin Hanson, Jerome Mutnanski, Clifford Lundquist, Mrs. Vernon Anderson, John Bornholdt, James Engelstad, Theo. Beiswenger, Mrs. Archie Wilson, Carl Anderson, Alvin Mandt, Oscar Houske, Donald Mack, Mrs. Lyle Mandt and Clifford Arveson.

The Heart Fund drive will reach its high point during the week of February 14 when volunteers in residential areas will visit neighbors to deliver an educational message on how to reduce the family's risk of heart attack and to receive Heart Fund contributions. The statewide goal is $325,000.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

A recent survey taken by the medicine and religion committee of the Minnesota State Medical association has shown that several of the county medical societies in the state have presented programs which have given physicians an opportunity to discuss areas of health of mutual concern. The purpose of these meetings was to promote cooperation between the two professions in caring for the physically and mentally ill. The joint discussions have aroused considerable interest in increased cooperation in many areas.

Psychiatrists have found that a patient's faith in God or his concept of religion is often a determining factor in his rate of recovery. Fear and feelings of guilt are prevalent among persons who are seriously ill. Clergymen are often instrumental in alleviating these factors which inhibit recovery. The clergyman can be of invaluable help and comfort to the patient with a terminal illness and his family. Many clergymen have found that working in hospitals and mental institutions has given them greater insight and experience for their work in their own congregations.

The problems of alcoholism, drug addiction and illegitimacy were also called to the attention of the doctors and clergymen, according to the State Medical association. The victims of these "social diseases" receive medical attention, but often they do not receive help for moral difficulties. The MSMA considers cooperation between physicians and clergymen to be a first step in solution or prevention of these problems.

Because of the need for more communication between the two professions, the medicine and religion committee is now studying means of further encouraging this dialogue between doctors and clergymen throughout the state. Cooperation has already prove beneficial for doctor, clergyman, and patient, the association reports.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Questions and Answers

by Charles E. Fahlberg

Q—How is Medicare going to be paid for?

A—For people who have worked under social security, the hospital insurance portion of Medicare will be paid for by a payroll tax that began January 1, 1966. Employees, their employers and the self-employed all contribute 0.35 per cent of earnings up to $6,600.00 per year. The cost for people over age 65 now who have not worked under social security will be paid from general funds of the federal government.

The medical insurance portion of Medicare is paid for by a $3 monthly premium from those people who elect this coverage, together with another $3 per month paid by the federal government out of general tax revenues. Premium payments start July 1, 1966.

Q—Will Medicare pay for prescription drugs and medicine that a person takes at home?

A—No. The only drugs that are covered by Medicare are those that are furnished to a patient in a hospital, or that must be administered by a physician.

Q—Is it true that only the hospitals in larger towns like Grand Forks and Duluth will come under the Medicare program?

A—No. It is expected that most, if not all, hospitals in this area will qualify to participate in the Medicare program. The Minnesota State Department of Health is now in the process of certifying the hospital for participation. Further details on this will be made available at a later date.

Hockey Prowlers Lose To Warroad 1-0 Tues.

George Ganyo's goal midway through the first period proved to be the only goal recorded during the game and the Warroad Warriors defeated the Thief River Falls Prowlers by that 1 to 0 score in a Region Eight conference hockey on Tuesday night.

The win gave the Warroad club a point-total of 15 points won and one point lost, and number one position in the regional ratings. The Roseau Rams, winners over Baudette by a 5 to 0 score on Tuesday night, gained second place in the conference standings. Warroad and Roseau are seeded directly into the Region Eight tournament at Roseau on Monday and Tuesday, February 14 and 15. The other two entries in the four-team regional tournament will have to gain their berths by winning sub-regional tournament will have to gain their berths by winning sub-regional tournament finals. The north sub-regional tourney will be played at Warroad, and the south sub-regional tournament will be played at Crookston.

The lone goal in Tuesday night's Prowlers vs. Warroad game came on a typical Warrior long-pass and solo rush. Ganyo, at center ice, picked up a pass from John Roberts, taking the pass after a Prowler defenseman failed to intercept the pass, and skated in on goalie Jeff Noel to score from close in. Ganyo made a nifty maneuver to clear the net, and he flipped the puck into the goal at the 6:15 mark of the opening period.

In the second and third periods the Prowlers were limited to a total of but three shots that were credited as saves by goalie Poole. The Warroad defense, Dede Dumals, Gordy Huerd and John Roberts, gave Poole ample protection.

The Prowlers' Noel was kept very busy by the Warroad attackers, with the senior goalie making nine stops in the second period, and 10 saves in the third period.

They Deserve a Boost

While there are a number of out-of-town sports activities this weekend, with the Prowler basketball team at Bemidji on Friday night, the Prowler hockey team in sub-regional play at Crookston on Friday and Saturday and the Prowler wrestlers also at Crookston on Saturday, there is some basketball action here.

At the Franklin junior high school on Saturday afternoon, the local 9th grade team will be playing the Fosston 9th graders.

But what is worth mentioning to the stay-at-home fans is the junior college basketball games scheduled for the Lincoln high school court on Friday evening and Saturday afternoon. Five teams, including coach Al Adams' local junior college team, will play here. Four games are scheduled.

Friday evening's opener, at 7 p.m., will find the Minneapolis Centennial junior college team meeting the local team. And at 8:30 p. m., the Minneapolis Central junior college squad will play the Mayville State college freshmen. On Saturday afternoon at 1 p. m., Minneapolis Central will play the Thief River Falls junior college; and at 3:30 p.m., the Fergus Falls junior college team will meet the Minneapolis Centennial club. And this game should be a dandy.

The two Minneapolis junior college squads undoubtedly have some talented basketball players on their respective rosters. And some of these boys may go on to play senior college basketball.

Coach Adams' inexperienced local squad will be short-enders in their games against the Minneapolis teams. And, too, the local team suffered a jolt this week when its regular center, and one of the best scorers on the squad, Gary Nowacki of Argyle, was injured in a snow-mobile mishap. He will be on the sidelines.

But why not give the boys a boost if you have the time to see a pair of games?

Such Is Fame

The other day a letter was received at the local post office bearing a South Viet Nam postmark, and carrying this simple address: "Senior Golf Champion, Thief River Falls, Minn." Any problems in delivering this letter to the proper person?

Not in the least. The letter was promptly delivered to Stan Cockrell, who won the local senior golf title in last season's tournament. Stan is quite humble about receiving this letter, which was, incidentally, from Capt. Grover (Blackie) Stephens.

Stan's golfing prowess is well known all long the branches of the Soo Line, but this letter from the South Pacific area indicates that Stan's fame is just about worldwide. Knowing Stan, and his modesty, I'm sure that he will have this letter properly framed and placed in a prominent spot in the Elks Club.

No Complaints

That was a fine crowd that was in the arena on Monday night for the Warroad Lakers vs. Grand Forks Mixers hockey game. It was an official Manitoba Senior Hockey league encounter, and the win for the Lakers, by a 6 to 5, score just about clinched the title for coach Dayton Grafstrom's Warroad squad.

And there were no complaints about the brand of hockey the two teams exhibited. Senior hockey fans in this area, or just plain hockey fans in general, whould prehaps appreciate a couple of Manitoba League games here every season. Such a game as Monday night's, between Grand Forks and Warroad, would always be an attraction. And perhaps a game between the Winnipeg Maroons and the Warroad Lakers, or the Grand Forks Mixers, could be scheduled.

The local Thieves' hockey fans enjoyed watching rangy Murray Balagus, captain and center-ice man for the Lakers, perform. It was about thirteen years ago that Murray, then nineteen or twenty years old, made his first appearance here as a member of the local senior hockey team.

Another nifty performer with the Lakers on Monday night, and all during the season, was center Billy Christian. Whenever coach Dayton Grafstrom needed a penalty killer on the ice he called on Billy, the youngest of the three hockey-playing Christian brothers. It was evident, though, that Billy missed the left-wing play of brother Roger.

And, too, the game proved that the two local boys on the Grand Forks Mixers, center Dale Wennberg and defenseman Jerry Westby, are capable of playing in the Manitoba Senior Hockey League.

Warroad Lakers Edge Grand Forks

An enthusiastic and appreciative crowd watched the Manitoba Senior Hockey League game played on the arena ice here Monday night between the Warroad Lakers and the Red River Mixers of Grand Forks. The league-leading Lakers, by the margin of a third-period goal by Sam Grafstrom, defeated the Mixers, 6 to 5. The Lakers will close out their league schedule on Wednesday night, tonight, when they meet the Grand Forks club at Warroad.

Warroad entered Monday night's game here shorthanded and were forced to skate two lines against the three sets of forwards that the Mixers had available. Roger Christian is sidelined by a broken leg, and the Lakers' Canadian imports Ron Farnfield, Tom Marshall, Bill Juzda and Ray Matthews were unable to make the trip here.

Warroad, on goals by Ed Palmer and Billy Christian, gained a 2 to 0 lead in the first period of play; but the Mixers overcame that deficit in the second perod when Jim Dixon scored a tally and John Lesyshen added a pair for a 3 to 2 lead at the 13:13 mark. Sam Grafstrom, on a fine combination play with Keith Brandt and Christian assisting, evened the game at 13:46 of the second period, and Christian's goal at the 15:20 mark moved the Lakers into a 4-3 lead.

Dale Wennberg and Jerry Westby, the local boys in the Mixers' lineup, combined for a goal at the 3:29 mark of the third period, tying the game at 4-all. Wennberg scored the goal. The Lakers broke that deadlock on goals by Murray Balagus and Sam Grafstrom, with Grafstrom's goal coming at the 9:55 mark. Don Ross of the Mixers closed out the game's scoring by driving a hard shot past goalie Allan Klymkiw at the 11:56 mark.

Surplus Commodities Feed World's Hungry

"Did you know that much of the so-called surplus' agricultural commodities—delivered to the Government under the price-support program or purchased under 'surplus removal' programs—goes to feed millions of hungry children not only in this country but also abroad?" This is the question asked by Patrick W. Culkins, office manager of the Pennington county ASC committee.

In friendly countries financially unable to feed their hungry, it is "donated by the people of the United States of America" under the Food for Peace program for distribution through qualified nonprofit intergovernment and U. S. Welfare agencies.

According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture's foreign agricultural service, the products each year "go to enriching the diets of over 40 million children in more than 100 countries of the world."

Since the start of our donations program in 1950 (Public Law 480 wheat and other grains, nonfat dry milk, vegetable oils, beans, butter, butteroil and other commodities have been donated to 33 voluntary agencies operating in 137 countries and territories around the globe.

And according to Commodity Credit corporation records, foreign donations of such commodities from CCC inventories since 1950 through June 30, 1965, have totaled more than 22 billion pounds, valued in excess of $2.5 billion. Our own needy in this country receive another 10 billion pounds, valued at $1.4 billion.

FAS reports that the largest portion of U. S. food donations "has gone into school lunch programs, which in fiscal 1965 reached 36 million children abroad. But Food for Peace foods also go to children via hospitals and other institutions, maternal and child care programs, summer camps, health centers and projects to help individual families.

"Virtually all of the developing friendly nations are included under these programs, with Asia receiving the greatest amount of U. S. surplus food and populous India the biggest single-country recipient. However, U. S. - assisted child feeding is increaseing fast in Latin America and in Africia. . .

"In keeping with its people - to - people concept, Public Law 480 stipulates that the food be shipped in packages and containers clearly marked as coming from the people of the United States.

"Importance of this country's donations program to the world's children has been pointed up by numerous studies on child development in relation to eating patterns. 'Food Aid and Education', a publication of the United Nations Food and Agriculture organization, reports that feeding trials in numerous countries reveal a decrease in the mortality rate during epidemics, particularly of measles, when malnourished children are given protein-rich foods. In addition, the publication states that the feeding programs have brought increased school attendance, fewer physical collapses during classes, greater capacity for physical and intellectual effort, greater concentration, better scholastic results and higher nutritional standards."

Browse Cutting Continues for State Deer Herd

There were no important changes during the last two weeks in January in the conditions on the northern Minnesota deer range, the conservation department reported today. Cook, Lake, St. Louis and Koochiching counties remain in the severe condition area.

Director of game and fish, Ted Shields, said that 12 browse cutting crews are now active, employing about 50 men. A county Iron Range resources crew is now operating in northern Itasca county. Two additional N.Y.C. crews have been put to work in the Ely and Two Harbors areas.

Supervisors of the Superior and Chippewa national forests have requested their personnel to be alert for problem areas. County forestry personnel are also engaged in locating deer concentration areas and have initiated timber sales in these localities.

Under present conditions some fawn loss is expected in the severe condition-area. However, no reports have been received of deer in poor condition in any widespread area. Reports of occasional dead deer have all proved to be normal winter loss.

Shields said that the conservation department has initiated a special emergency browse cutting operation in a deer concentration area in northern Hubbard county. Deer were attracted to this area by the slashings from a logging operation and also moved into the area to get away from a severely ice-glazed area to the southwest. Although deer here are in no immediate danger, the browse cutting operation was intiated as a safeguard against late winter blizzard conditions as well as to produce stump sprouts for deer food in the future.

Director Shields said that any browse cutting which sportsmen would do now in the severe condition area would help the deer. Sportsmen wishing to help with browse cutting should contact local department fieldmen.

Sportsmen who are interested in obtaining a copy of the "Minnesota plan for emergency winter care of deer and for deer yard improvement" may write to the department. This plan explains the procedure to be followed for emergency deer browse cutting measures.

School Patrol Week Proclaimed By Gov. Rolvaag

Governor Karl F. Rolvaag has proclaimed the week of February 12-20 "School Safety Patrol Week", in recognition of the services of more than 30,000 school and bus safety patrol boys and girls in the state.

In his annual proclamation, Governor Rolvaag requested that local organizations, especially those who sponsor safety patrols within their communities, arrange special programs and activities to pay tribute to the boys and girls who serve the patrol program.

The governor said in the proclamation, "The school safety patrol has completed another year without a traffic fatality, and in the more than 40 years the patrol has existed not one fatal accident has been charged against it.

"This outstanding record has continued because of the vigilance of dedicated young boys and girls who accept and fulfill the responsibility of protecting their school mates from harm."

He suggested that all of Minnesota should show its appreciation to members of the school safety patrols of both the public and private schools:

"The patrol program is one of our most important pedestrian programs," Governor Rolvaag said. "With it we teach our children from the first day they attend school the proper ways to cross dangerous intersections and to obey traffic regulations on their way to and from school and at play."

The governor added that school safety patrol week includes February 17, generally accepted as the day in 1920 when the first school police were placed on St. Paul streets.

Detection Clinic For Oral Cancer Slated in Area

Registrations opened recently in Pennington county for free mouth cancer detection clinic scheduled for February 23 in Crookston.

Mrs. R. J. Dryden chairman of advanced registrations for the Pennington unit of the American society, urged men and women 45 and older to sign up for the examinations. It is in this age group that this type cancer is most often observed.

Persons may register with the receptionist at the dental offices of Dr. Edward Nelson, Dr. J. W. Ewing or Dr. H. R. Achenbach.

A quota of 150 has been assigned to the county. The overall goal of 1,500 for the nine participating counties was determined from facilities available and the number of dentists and physicians who will make the examinations.

Booths will be set up in Bethesda hospital, Crookston, to assure privacy during the examination. It takes only a few minutes to complete the examination of the lips, tongue, gums, floor and roof of the mouth, face, head and neck. The examination is painless.

February 18, is the deadline for registering. Each person registering will be assigned a definite period during the day to report for his checkup. Clinic hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Set Winter Show Garden Club Day

Garden club day is scheduled for Tuesday, February 22, when garden club members in the Red River Valley are invited to attend the program which will be held at the Northwest school and experiment station, Crookston.

The day's program will get underway at 10 a.m. with registration in the auditorium, Kiehle building. Donald G. Hoag and Neil S. Holland of the department of horticulture, North Dakota State university, Fargo, will speak on "What's New in Flowers and Shrubs."

A noon luncheon will be served at the Northwest School dining hall. In the afternoon, there will be an announcement of awards by the Minnesota State Horticultural society to 11th District and area recipients. This will be followed by a demonstration on "Latest Trends in Flower Arranging" by Holland and Hoag. A question period will follow the demonstration.

Swenson To Speak On Retarded at Newfolden Meet

"Education for Trainable Mentally Retarded Children" will be the topic discussed when the Marshall-Kittson Association for Retarded Children mets Monday at 8 p.m. in the Newfolden community school cafeteria.

Kenneth Swenson, principal of Knox and Mark Twain elementary schools in Thief River Falls and director of the program for the handicapped here, will be guest speaker at the meeting.

Educators and school officials in Marshall and Pennington counties are especially invited to attend and to ask questions regarding incorporating such programs into their own school system. The public is invited, lunch will be served and persons attending are asked to use the north entrance to the school.

State Collects $132,881,000 in Road User Taxes

Minnesota collected an estimated $132,881,000 in special taxes from highway users during 1965, according to J. S. Leonard, chairman of the Minnesota Petroleum council.

Basing his statement on preliminary statistics released by the U. S. Department of Commerce, he noted that this was an increase of $4,916,000 over the comparable amount for 1964.

"As in the past," Leonard noted, "the state tax on motor fuel provided the lion's share of the revenue—approximately $79,321,000 or 60 per cent of the total. The gasoline tax rate in Minnesota is six cents per gallon."

Other state highway-user taxes include motor vehicle registration and license fees.

Nationwide, state highway-user taxes in 1965 reached almost $7 billion, with motor fuel levies producing about $4.5 billion, or 64 per cent of total proceeds, he commented.

Leonard said that special federal taxes on highway users in 1965 accounted for an estimated additional $3.7 billion. "Again, the bulk of this, roughly 75 per cent, resulted from the four-cent federal tax on motor fuel," he said.

"The number of vehicles on the road is growing every year, and highways must continue to be built to accommodate the increased traffic" he added. "This can only be done if the revenues collected from motorists are used wisely for highway development purposes."

Boy Scout Week

During this week, the 56th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America will be observed by more than 5,665,000 boys and adult leaders in 143,300 Scout units throughout the United States. Scouting is a tremendous force for good in the lives of millions of boys, broadening horizons and creating an inbuilt sense of responsibility and duty that can never be forgotten in later life.

Today, over 93,000 organizations use Cub Scouting, Boy Scouting and Exploring as part of their own youth program for boys eight through 17. The national organization charters Scout units annually, and they are sponsored by religious groups, schools and PTA's, service clubs, fraternal orders, veterans, governmental groups, business and industry, labor unions and other civic and community organizations. In line with their scout Promise, "To help other people at all times," Scouts and leaders will undertake service projects for their sponsoring institutions during their anniversary week.

Every Scout takes the following oath: "On my honor I will do my best—To do my duty to God and my country and to obey the Scout Law; To help other people at all times; To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight." Any boy who makes this Oath an important part of his life in his formative years will grow to be a man of which his family, his community and his nation may justly be proud. The Boy Scouts of America deserve the recognition, support and thanks of all of us during their anniversary week.

It Just Ain't Fair

Our sympathies lie with the United States railroad industry as it battles with out-dated laws and restrictions while its competitors not only gain concessions from the government but actually get cash money for operations. No one can blame the railroad for crying "foul", because the situation just ain't fair.

Railroads have certain advantages over other carriers which they should be permitted to utilize. They have requested permission to lower rates on a number of occasions—a very real benefit to persons with goods to transport—but have had little encouragement from the federal Interstate Commerce commission. The situation must be frustrating at best to railroad management.

Meanwhile, competitive carriers are reaping the benefits of a number of programs which aid their causes. Airlines receive direct government subsidies to supplement their operations. Huge sums of taxpayers money are spent by the government in constructing, expanding and improving airports. States and municipalities join the federal government in providing these necessary services for the airlines.

Trucks roll along super highways built with taxpayer funds, and these roads are built heavier and more expensively than would be necessary for passenger cars only. Government planning includes allowances for the motor truck industry in highway construction and routing.

Water transportation is also supported by the government, with waterways maintained and improved with public money. The multi-million dollar St. Lawrence Seaway is only one example of the public purse being opened to the operators of water traffic.

While all this is taking place, the railroads are in trouble. They have shown profits the past few years—a tribute to efficiencies effected by the management and in some part to merging of operations. They own their own right-of-way—and pay taxes on it—while the other carriers operate on right-of-way which is furnished for them by tax money. In effect, the railroads are subsidizing their own competitors.

President Johnson said some time ago that there were inequities in the transportation system of our nation and that some of the other carriers should make a more equitable payment for the public facilities which they use to economic advantage. He is right, but what is being done about it? Practically nothing, and it just ain't fair.

Tightening the Screws

It would seem that the government is going to assure civil rights for everyone if they have to discriminate against most of them to do it. There is no question that the governmental machinery is set up to tighten the screws on the civil rights of the people.

W. Willard Wirtz, U. S. secretary of labor, has instructed heads of federal agencies take action assuring that discrimination is avoided in every aspect of government contracts. No fewer than 21 heads of federal agencies received letters from the labor secretary—and that's a lot of agencies to be concerned about one internal problem of our country.

Wirtz called on the agencies to review their contract award procedures to ensure that contracts aren't let to those failing to comply or meet past obligations and to strengthen the pre-award process, emphasizing that contracors take affirmative action to ensure equal employment opportunity.

To us, this is discriminatory in itself. Why should an employer be compelled to hire someone any more than an individual should be compelled to work for a particular employer?

In general, we dislike the labor department's action under executive order. Government's tactics of economic reprisal to assure conformity reeks of political pressure. Civil disobedience should not be encouraged, but Washington should be content to let due process of law run its course without wielding an economic club.

What Next?

As Charlie Brown of comic strip fame would say, "Good grief!" And his sentiment will be echoed across the nation now that a "blue ribbon" commission has recommended to President Johnson and Congress that every American family be guaranteed a minimum annual income. The figure being loosely tossed about is a minimum of $3,000 per year.

We thought that the welfare state had advanced about as far as it could with the advent of medicare and government grants to renters which enabled them to live in more expensive housing than they can afford. Now it seems that Uncle Sam sincerely wants to encourage the people of the nation to live beyond their means. There aren't any words in the English language which adequately describe the ridiculous nature of this proposal.

The 14-member group making the recommendation was the National Commission on Aechnology, Automation and Economic progress. It was created by Congress and appointed by the President to study "technological unemployment and related problems." The name "blue-ribbon" commission would seem to indicate that the recommendations were made while the members were heavily under the influence of a beverage marketed under the same name.

Annual cost of a guaranteed income plan was said to range from $2 billion to $20 billion, depending on its scope. As many as 35 million Americans could be affected if a minimum level income was fixed at $3,000 per year. It is proposed that the federal government make up the difference between a family's actual income and a fixed minimum standard.

If any program would encourage standing in line for a government dole rather than working to support a family, this would be it. The government claims there are now many families at the $3,000 poverty level, or with less than $3,000 annual income. The unambitious—and our country is displaying more and more of them—would certainly be content with the handout and other government help programs which discourage gainful employment. And the rest of the people in the country who believe in an honest day's work for their daily bread would be supporting the indolent. You tell 'em Charlie Brown: "Good grief!"

Needy or Greedy

The following editorial appeared recently in the Truman Tribune:

Various facets of the anti-poverty programs have develped into some humdingin' situations. Take the three legislators who have found themselves jobs with the Research Council headquartered in Little Falls to the tune of $6,000 each.

The legislators serving as county coordinators have appointments running until June 1, are Rep. Keith Hinman of Grey Eagle; Rep. Gordon Gerling of Little Falls and Rep. Charles Halstad of Brainerd.

The poverty that these three lawmakers are experiencing must be almost unbearable. During the 1965 session of the state Legislature each of these elected officials voted in favor of doubling their own salaries from $40 to $80 per day for a 120 day session. In addition to the daily pay they are depressed with the burden of $21 a day expenses while the legislative body is in session. They are also depressed with mileage reimbursement for interim committee work.

It is as though all this were not depression enough for them, so they gobbled up three plums that could have gone, to qualified persons actually in need of some nourishment.

The outcome of the 1966 legislative elections will be very interesting. If the voters care at all about their government, they will surely send many new men to the state Capitol for the 1967 session.

why doesn't somebody do something about the weather?

We'd like to second the motion. Sleet and snow, windstorms and tornadoes can cause untold hardship to our communities. They're also a potent threat to your dependable electric service. ■ Otter Tail can't do anything about the weather—but we can and do brew our own preventive medicine to meet such emergencies. Specially-trained crews, skilled in the use of emergency equipment and procedures, are on call, 24 hours of any day. Otter Tail's own short wave radio network keeps all points of the system in close contact and, if needed, Otter Tail's interconnection (power-sharing) agreements with other power suppliers provide additional assurance of help. ■ One more thing, though. Unpredictable as Old Man Weather is, we're still inclined to cross our fingers and knock on wood.
Otter Tail
POWER COMPANY

Otter Tail crews worked long and hard during the December area-wide sleet and snowstorm. Despite the severity of the weather, few serious power outages occurred. In Summit, South Dakota, an Otter Tail portable generating plant (left) restored electric service to the town much sooner than would otherwise have been possible.

The devastating Fairmount (N. Dak.) tornado of a few years ago found men and material speeding to the town from all parts of the Otter Tail system—within minutes. Power for critical services was restored to the town that same day.

Overexpansion Threat To Present Hog Prices

"Easy does it!" That's the watchword for hog producers considering expanded farrowings. Overexpansion now could sharply reduce pork prices in 1967. For the hog industry as a whole, a modest increase in farrowings will return higher profits than will a large increase.

Kenneth E. Egertson and Paul R. Hasbargen, agricultural economists at the University of Minnesota, point out some factors that could mean expanded farrowings. During the current strong price period for slaughter pigs, some "in-ner-outers" may be jumping back into production.

Large holdbacks of gilts and sows during the past few months indicates farrowings may be higher next spring than the five per cent intendedincrease reported by producers in the 10 corn belt states.

Actual farrowings in late spring and fall could be up as much as twice the reported amount and result in sharply lower prices in 1967. Egertson and Hasbargen said that as marketings increase in late 1966, prices should drop by two to two and one-half per cent for every one per cent increase in marketings.

Until then, the economists predict exceptionally good marketing conditions with pork prices hanging up around the $25 per hundredweight mark for most of the year. The expected high of $27 is predicted in the January-March marketing quarter.

Prices are expected to drop slightly to a $25 top in the April-June quarter and a $24 high in the July - September quarter. After September prices will be largely dependant on farrowings this spring and could stay high if farrowings are held to a four to eight per cent increase over last year.

Egertson and Hasbargen advise hog producers to watch the hog futures market. If futures prices look higher than expected for late 1966 and early 1967, producers might check with a local broker and get details on the program. Selling the hogs on future means that the producer will raise the pigs for a contract market price, and the removal of price uncertainty will permit better financial planning.

Hog producers should keep close control of production costs. Egertson and Hasbargen say management details are sometimes neglected when pork prices are high. They recommend making a better effort than usual to save pigs for market, since returns will be higher than last year.

Reminder Issued By VA on New GI Life Insurance

"We're in the wind-up phase now. I hope we have been able to contact everybody. We don't want any of our Minnesota veterans to lose out," states John R. Murphy, manager, Veterans Administration center, St. Paul.

He referred to the new GI insurance which has been on sale since May of 1965. The sale ends at midnight, May 2, 1966.

"We've been sending out stories to all the news media, the VA has been mailing reminders to veterans about the sale, we have spoken to many types of organizations, the VA has put up signs and exhibits of various types, notices have been sent to private industry for their employee publications and bulletin boards. In short we've done just about everything we can think of to let our veterans know about this opportunity," Murphy said.

"And we started right after the law was signed by President Johnson on Oct. 13, 1964. But when you remember that there are an estimated 402,000 veterans in the state of Minnesota alone, you can see the problem you're faced with in alerting all these veterans."

Murphy stressed that not all veterans are eligible for this insurance.

He said that to buy this insurance the veteran must (a) have been originally eligible for National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) between Oct. 8, 1940 and Jan. 1, 1957; (b) have now either no GI insurance or less than the $10,000 in authorized coverage; (c) be in one of the following three groups—(1) veterans with service-connected disabilities who meet standards of good health; (2) veterans whose service-connected disabilities alone do not permit them to meet standards of good health; (3) veterans whose non-service-connected disabilities as of Oct. 13, 1964, the date the bill was signed into law, prevented them from buying commercial insurance at the highest rates.

Murphy said such veterans can get the NSLI insurance in one of several permanent non - participating plans, up to $10,000 including any GI insurance they now hold.

The manager urged veterans who think they may be eligible to check with the contact office at the VA center, Ft. Snelling.

4-H Club Members May Enroll In Exchange Program

4-H club members 17 to 19 years of age who would like to participate in a new short-term international exchange program should apply by February 10, according to William Milbrath, extension specialist in young adult programs at the University of Minnesota.

Interested 4-H'ers should secure detailed information from their local county agents. Application forms are available from the State 4-H Club Office, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn. 55101. Participants will assume their own expenses for the entire trip.

The two-month 4-H member exchange was begun in 1965 on an experimental basis with England-Wales, Scotland and Ireland. The exchange has been broadened this year to include Argentina, Brazil, Paraguay, Peru, Colombia, Denmark, Germany, Ireland, Netherlands and Spain.

The 4-H'ers will leave Washington, D. C., about June 24 enroute to their assigned countries where they will spend nearly two months with host families in rural areas. After that, participants will take a 10-day tour of nearby areas. The return to the U. S. is scheduled for August 28. Consultation and orientation sessions will be conducted at the national 4-H center in Washington prior to the departure and following the return of the group.

Barley High in Per Acre Return

Gross dollars per acre return for barley in 1965, compared to other cereal crops, has been announced by the Malting Barley Improvement association, based on information released by the U.S.D.A. statistical reporting service.

In Minnesota, gross dollars per acre returns in 1965 were $44.44 for Barley, $42.42 for wheat, $32.45 for oats and $19.68 for rye.

Figures are derived by multiplying the average seasonal price received by growers by the state average yield per acre. The average price received includes all barley and would be even more favorable when premiums for malting barley were added, the associaton reports.

Favorable dollars per acre return from barley as compared to other crops should provide additional incentive to growers to participate in the malting barley acreage exemption available for 1966 plantings, the association concludes.

Canada Thistle Control Needed For Good Crops

Infestations of only two Canada thistle plants per square yard can reduce a wheat crop by 18 per cent and thick infestations can destroy a whole crop according to Richard Behrens, professor of agronomy and plant genetics at the University of Minnesota.

Minnesota farmers, educators and industries will begin an intensive program this year to control the Canada thistle. Existing methods are sufficient to make the program a success, he said.

Behrens outlined procedures which have been effective in controlling the weed. He said that chemicals are effective but crops cannot be planted following many chemical treatments for several years. Behrens pointed out that it is worth the effort to eradicate dense stands of thistle because a heavy infestation of thistle would not permit planting anyway.

Land taken out of production for various government programs can be cultivated with duckfoot shovels about every three weeks. Behrens said that this method would reduce stands of Canada thistle about 75 to 90 per cent if done from immediately after harvest one year to freeze up the next year.

He said that practices have been developed which will permit the planting of crops and still give substantial reduction of thistle stands. Chemicals such as 2,4-D or MCPA and dicamba can be used in most small grains except spring barley. Behrens said that the combination of MCPA and dicamba (Banvel-D) is more effective than 2,4-D or MCPA used alone.

St. Paul Campus, U of M, Requests Early Applicants

High school seniors planning to attend the college of agriculture, forestry and home economics, University of Minnesota next fall are urged to apply early.

John A. Goodding, assistant director of resident instruction, says admission is now based on the student's record up through and including his junior year of high school. Thus applications can be accepted earlier than in past years.

August 15, 1966, is the deadline for applications for fall quarter enrollment, but Goodding encourages students to make earlier applications for better results.

Early applications allow the college more time to evaluate the student's record and plan for fall enrollment, says Goodding, and it helps students to start planning for entering college.

Application forms are available from the high school principal or counselor. The student fills out the first two pages and the counselor or principal completes the remaining pages. The student must also include a $10 check to cover costs of examining the records, says Goodding.

After evaluating the student's record, the college informs each student whether or not he qualifies for admission. Those qualified are told when to attend the two-day orientation-registration program on the St. Paul campus.

For the college of agriculture, forestry and home economics, the two-day sessions will be held the first two weeks of August and September. Goodding says each student must attend one of the two-day sessions to take placement tests and register for fall classes.

Singers in Area Invited to Sing In Bemidji Group

Rehearsals for the Bemidji Civic Oratorio society's production of Handel's "Messiah" will be held each Sunday at 4 p.m. through February in Memorial hall on the Bemidji State college campus, according to Prof. Carl O. Thompson, director.

The oratorio will be presented March 6 at 8 p.m. in Memorial hall and a final dress rehearsal will be held at 4 p.m. that afternoon.

Prof. Thompson urges members of church choirs and community vocal music groups of the area to join in this annual event. If singing groups live too far to commute each Sunday they may learn the choruses, come for the final dress rehearsal and join the society for the oratorio's presentation.

Family Food Expense Comparisons Listed

How much of the household budget goes for food for the family? How does that amount compare with what other families spend? Some U. S. Department of Agriculture findings may supply some answers for comparison.

In the first place, the number of children and their ages make a tremendous difference in how much an individual family spends on food, according to Mary Rayn, extension consumer marketing specialist at the University of Minnesota. As the family increases in size, total food expenditures increase, although not in proportion to the number of persons. Also affecting food expenditures are size of family income, vocation of family head, number of earners in the family, family preference and location.

In 1965, food expenditures for the American family (an average of 3.7 persons) averaged approximately $1,469 or $28.25 a week, according to USDA estimates. Simple averages of expenditures per capita can't be applied to different-sized families.

Last year single consumers spent an estimated $675 for food compared to about $570 for each individual in a two-person family and $285 per person for a family of six or more. The total family food expenditures ranged from $22 to $38 a week, depending upon family size—or approximately $1,140 for two-person families, but $1,995 for families of six or more for a year.

Using a moderate - cost food plan for good nutrition (based on September 1965 food prices), USDA economists figure it costs about $4 a week to feed an infant. But the time the child is ready for school—five or six years old—he's eating close to $6 worth of food each week.

The cost of food to meet his needs grows right along with the youngster. At six or nine years, his food bill is $7.10. From that point on, costs will vary with boys and girls. The food bill for girls from 9 to 12 years will be $8.20; for boys, $8.30; from 12 to 15 years, $9 for girls, $9.80 for boys.

The peak of food costs for a boy comes in his late teens—when he needs more food than at any other time in his life. On a moderate - cost food budget, it takes about $11.20 to feed a 15-20 year-old youth, compared to $9.20 for a girl in that age range.

Alcohol or Drugs Increase Danger To Auto Driving

Either drugs or alcohol taken in even small amounts can cause a lot of trouble for the man driving a car, but the combined effect of the two can be extremely dangerous when it results in a reaction known as synergism, says the Minnesota highway department.

Unsuspecting persons who consume alcoholic beverages when they are taking sedative-type drugs are reaching for disaster, says the department.

Synergism is a reaction of drugs and alcohol upon each other in the human body whereby each intensifies the effect of the other—thus multiplying the effects of both the drug and the alcohol several times over. Synergism is known to have accounted for many accidental deaths.

Drugs alone may have an intoxicating effect on the user, and for this reason many of them carry the warning that if the user gets dizzy after taking the drug, he should not drive. These drugs include barbituates, tranquilizers, anti-histamines, amphetamines and true narcotics.

If you take sedative type drugs, don't drink, or at least ask your doctor if there is any danger in drinking after taking the drug. And if you drink, or if you take drugs that affect your senses, don't drive.

Karen Eskeli Is Winner of Award In Homemaking

Karen Eskeli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Eskeli of Plummer and a senior at Plummer high school, was recently named as Plummer's 1966 Homemaker of Tomorrow. Miss Eskeli scored highest in a written examination which was taken by all senior girls December 7. She has earned a special award pin from the sponsor of the program.

The search for the Homemaker of Tomorrow was instituted in 1954-55 to emphasize the importance of homemaking as a career. The program has enrolled 4,627,943 senior girls from throughout the nation, with total scholarship grants exceeding $1,201,000. The 570,824 girls and 14,714 schools participating in the 1965-66 search established a new record enrollment.

National Service Life Insurance Deadline Nears

Minnesota veterans were reminded today that only three months remain to obtain the newly reopened National Service Life insurance.

John R. Murphy, manager of the Veterans Administration center, St. Paul, said the deadline for the sale of the new GI policies to certain disabled veterans is midnight, May 2, 1966.

"If there is a possibility you may be eligible to purchase the insurance, please contact the VA center before the time limit runs out," Murphy urged veterans.

He stressed that eligible veterans include those who were found to have a service-connected disability so slight that they were not eligible for compensation payments and do not receive monthly payments.

Veterans who are eligible have several choices of insurance plans—ordinary life, 20-payment life, 20-year endowment, modified life, endowment at age 60 and endowment at age 65—and they may take out the full $10,000 coverage or as little as $1,000.

Notices Mailed To Producers in Marshall County

Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, said today that notices are being mailed to producers in Marshall county, listing farm allotments, base acreages, yields and payment rates under the 1966 wheat and feed grain programs.

With this information, farmers will be able to determine whether they wish to participate in the programs and the extent of their participation. Program benefits include price-support loans and payments and diversion payments.

Any producer who feels that the yield, wheat allotment, feed grain base, rate, or conserving base shown on the notice he receives for his farm is incorrect or inequitable (as compared with like data determined for similar farms) may ask the county committee to reconsider the matter. Such requests should be made in writing and mailed or delivered to the county committee within 15 days from the mailing date shown on the notice.

To take part in the programs, the farm operator first files his intention on a prescribed application form at the ASCS county office during the signup period. This period starts January 31 and will extend through April 15.

Elect Gerardy District Head Of Group Health

Peter Gerardy of Plummer was elected chairman of the district committee of Group Health Mutual when District 8 policyowners met Tuesday at the Rex cafe in Thief River Falls.

Other officers elected were Merton Roley, Warren, vice chairman; Manfred Brekke, Greenbush, secretary - treasurer; Olger Rokke, Newfolden, and Woodrow Eskeli, Plummer, committee members.

Ernest Swanson, Goodridge, member of the board, reported on the work of the directors during 1965. Chester Larson, rural Thief River Falls, was nominated as candidate for the state supervisory committee. Arnold H. Lindquist, general manager, reported that the company's insurance in force had increased by more than $6¼ million in 1965.

1966 Barley Seed High in Level of Smut Infection

Loose smut infection in barley in 1965 was the highest in 15 years or more, says H. G. Johnson, plant pathologist at the University of Minnesota. Seed certification organizations in Minnesota and North Dakota have temporarily doubled the allowance to eight per cent for loose smut in certified seed to provide sufficient seed for the 1966 crop.

If the seed meets required standards in other respects, Johnson says seed lots with low percentages of loose smut infection can be used for planting. Barley seed with high percentages of smut infection should be used for feed or sent to market.

The important step now is to have seed tested before any investment is made for cleaning, grading or purchasing seed.

The test does not control the disease, but shows the percentage of embryo infection for individual lots of seed. Knowing this percentage can guide the farmer in deciding which seed lot to use for the 1966 planting.

Farmers should consult their county agent for information about the test, Johnson said. For more information about loose smut infection, Plant Pathology Fact Sheet No. 6, entitled "Barley Smuts" is available at the county extension office or Bulletin Room, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

Johnson says the 1965 growing season was cool and moist. Loose smut infection tends to increase when these conditions occur at flowering time for barley.

The rise in smut infection was expected. But to find out the extent of smut increase, seed samples from throughout Minnesota were tested in St. Paul. Here are the test results:

- Twenty per cent of the samples had more than 10 per cent of embryos infected.

Thirty per cent of the samples had five to 10 per cent infection.

- Half of the samples had less than five per cent of the embryos infected.

Tests at Fargo which predominantly represent the Red River Valley showed even higher infection rates, Johnson reports the Fargo [illegible] 70 per cent of the samples had greater than 10 per cent infection.

Johnson says the highest infection in a single sample was 28 per cent at St. Paul and 40 per cent at Fargo.

In 1950, 46.6 per cent of all regular faculty members at the University of Minnesota held doctor of philosophy degrees. Twelve years later, 1962-63, the figure had jumped to 59.7 per cent.

Hear Colorado Concert Band

The Strandquist school band and [illegible] motored to Moorhead on Saturday to hear the Colorado State college concert band. There were 85 musicians with Wayman Walker, Fredrick Fennell, and Meridith Willson. Wilson has played with the John Philip Sousa band, and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and has written music for such movies as "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" and "Music Man". Some of the students, together with Mr. Cunningham and Miss Edmund went to a play which was put on by some of the students of Moorhead State college in the afternoon. The name of it was "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to The Forum" and it was a musical comedy. Chaperons were Mrs. D. Thun, Mrs. D. Haugen, and Mrs. W. Larson. We were impressed with the concert and the students very well behavior. We also wish to thank the bus driver, Philip Boen.

Earl Battey Speaks Here Monday

Last Monday evening we were privileged to hear Mr. Earl Battey, Twins catcher, and I'm sure there will be many more baseball fans this year! As he came on stage he was greeted by a standing ovation. He was sponsored by the General Mills company. There was also some very good talent from Karlstad, Lancaster and Stephen besides local talent that added a lot to the evenings entertainment and they were highly praised by all who attended. Refreshments were served by the band boosters club while Mr. Battey was kept every busy signing his autograph for young and old alike. Mr. Earl Haugard, mayor, presented Mr. Battey with a plaque in memory of the occasion. A dinner was served for about 20 men at Boen's cafe with Mr. Battey as guest before the evenings program. He was a house guest at the home of Earl Haugard where Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kruntz and Mr. and Mrs. Alton Henrickson also had a chance to visit with him. The proceeds of the evening will go to the summer recreation program.

Visitors at the Gotfred Berggren home the past week were Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Lindstrom, Calvin and Alan of rural Argyle, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Berggren and children, Pastor Russell Wierschke, Eric Hendrickson and Betty Berggren.

Mr. and Mrs. Ingvald Rokke and Eunice returned Saturday from a trip to Texas and Mexico. They had snow part of the way in Kansas and Oklahoma but temperatures were 75 degrees above in Texas. The little Mexican boys would shine shoes for a nickel. They didn't wear shoes so a nickel must have looked good to them.

It seems hard to understand when you see a man about town and a couple of hours later he had been stricken with a heart attack. The latest victim was Herbert Swanson, but details are missing.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Germundson of Karlstad were Thursday afternoon visitors at Ted Kimbroghs.

One Man Looks At The World . . .

Another looks at the world and his heart stirs with hope.

The first has seen only the world itself . . . full of evil, injustice, ugliness, pain.

The second has seen more than the world. He has seen God . . . Who is not content with the world as it is . . . Who offers men the spiritual tools with which to change their earthly environment . . . Who promises divine help and lasting reward.

For the man who is tired of scowling at life the Church has a message . . . and a mission.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A weak cold front passed through the area Sunday evening, causing temperatures to drop slightly. Forecast calls for variable cloudiness today and considerable cloudiness tonight and tomorrow, with possible light snow locally and snow mixed with freezing rain further south. Another warming trend is predicted tomorrow for the north and central portions of the state. Highs today will range from 12 to 22; lows tonight from 12 to 0.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—Can you please tell me where I may obtain a record of discharge of a man who was in the Navy during the years 1915 to 1918?

Q—If a veteran of World War II needs major surgery and he has no insurance of any kind, can he enter a VA hospital for the surgery?

A—For a nonservice-connected veteran to be eligible for admittance to a VA hospital it must first be determined that he needs hospitalization; secondly, that there is a bed available and third, he must sign a statement that he could not afford his hospitalization in a private hospital.

Q—Has there been an increase in rates of the so-called War Orphans educational assistance?

A—Yes. The rates for full-time institutional courses have been increased from $110 to $130 monthly with corresponding increases in other courses.

Q—Do I have to travel to the Veterans administration regional office to obtain the required certificate of veteran status for a home loan from the FHA under the new Housing Act?

A—No, that will not be necessary. The mortgage banker, who will handle the home loan, has been supplied the certification paper, VA Form 26-8261 which he will forward to the VA. To insure prompt certification by the VA, you should submit with his request all discharge and separation papers from all periods of active service.

Q—I am a disabled veteran of World War I with a 100 per cent disability. I have a daughter who is going into her last year of high school and I have been told that she may be eligible for free schooling in some college through assistance from the VA. Is this correct?

A—The son or daughter of a veteran who is rated with a 100 per cent disability on a permanent basis may be entitled to an educational allowance of $130 a month while attending school beyond the high school level. The maximum entitlement is 36 months. An eligible child may file for this benefit by completing VA Form 21E-5490.

Many Decisions Required When Driving a Car

No wonder driving a car is a difficult and dangerous job. The average man may not make more than a few important decisions each day while on the job, but when he gets behind the wheel of his car he is called upon to make a decision affecting his safety nearly every second he is driving.

In a recent study conducted by the traffic engineering department of the University of California, a driver traveling a two-mile course on city streets was required to make 58 decisions per minute. The study was conducted during a normal daylight hour, not during a rush hour.

What kind of decisions? The kind every driver makes every day. Slowing or braking to maintain a safe following distance; when to start making a turn; when to pass; swerving to avoid a pedestrian coming from between parked cars; when to pull into traffic; when to slow down to let another car pass; when to start signalling; when to use the horn; and when to do a hundred other things.

And it takes only one wrong decision to cause a collision.

Track Count Will Determine Fox, Rabbit Numbers

State game and fish director Ted Shields said today that his division is initiating a statewide winter tract count to determine the abundance of foxes, jack rabbits and snowshoe hares.

Shields said the tract count will be made during February and will give a reasonably accurate index of the fox, jack rabbit and snowshoe hare in the state from year to year.

The counts will be made in every county by game wardens, game managers and biologists who have had experience in other game census work. Each man will have a 5 mile census route. Two separate counts will be made this winter on carefully selected days.

Counts will be made after a fresh snow fall and when the temperature was above zero when the tracts were made. Below zero temperatures tend to restrict animal movement and give an unrealistic estimate of the actual abundance.

Shields said that by comparing data from the same census routes from year to year, it will be possible to appraise the increase or decline of fox, rabbit and hare populations.

Land Bank Office At Warren Makes 116 Loans in '65

Federal Land Bank association of Warren, which serves Marshall, Kittson, Red Lake, Pennington and Roseau counties, closed 116 loans for $1,556,600 in 1965 according to Harold Sorenson, manager. At the end of 1965, the association had 897 members with loans totaling $6,307,966.

The Federal Land Bank of St. Paul closed $162,845,600 in long-term loans to farmers and ranchers in Minnesota, North Dakota, Wisconsin and Michigan during 1965. It was the largest total in the bank's 48-year history, Sorenson said.

This represented a 12 per cent increase in lending over 1964 and was $8.6 million more than the previous record amount loaned in 1934, at the height of the emergency financing period.

Sorensen reported that the loans outstanding increased $59.7 million during the year to reach an all time high of $540.7 million at the close of 1965.

Veteran's Equity Bill Introduced By Rep. Langen

"Now is the time for proper legislative action," stated Congressman Odin Langen in his decision to introduce a bill providing for the raising of income limitations for veterans now entitled to a specified rate of pension.

"The primary purpose of my bill", noted the Minnesota lawmaker, "is the restoration of veteran pensions reduced or terminated as a result of the increase in social security benefits enacted into law last year."

Langen observed, "The added monthly social security benefit was just enough to place certain veterans, widows and their dependents in a position to receive less pension than before, or none at all." It is estimated that 29,000 veterans found themselves in the adverse position were significantly more was lost in veteran pensions than was gained by the social security amendments of 1965.

The Congressman called for correction, through passage of his bill, of this "unintentional but still very real hardship and inequity."

State Engineer Gives Comment on Load Restriction

"Each year, as you know, during the spring of the year it is necessary to place load restrictions in effect starting early in March and continuing into May," states G. A. Meskal, maintenance engineer for the Minnesota highway department.

"As the restrictions become effective in the various zones, the highway department does not issue transportation permits for axle weights exceeding those for which a road is posted nor for loads exceeding legal weights on non-restricted roads or pavements," Meskal said. "In cases when tandem or tridem axles are used, posted or legal weights may govern based on which axle weights are the lesser.

"Those engaged in heavy hauling, including the movement of construction equipment and machinery should schedule their operations so as to do their heavy hauling while the ground is still frozen. Seasonal and period transportation permits are not in effect during the seasonal load restriction periods.

"As usual, a map 17" x 20", showing the proposed load restrictions for 1966 will be made available to those who have requested same in previous years. Load restriction bulletins will also again be issued as the restrictions become effective by zones," he said. "Your cooperation to preserve your highways during the Spring of the year is earnestly solicited."

Push-Starting A Car Is Now Tricky Business

Before a motorist accepts the offer of another driver to push his stalled car to a start, he had better read carefully the directions in his car instruction manual as push-starting has become a complex matter, according to Arthur C. Tomlinson, executive secretary of the Minnesota AAA. Failure to do so might well result in a costly transmission repair job, the auto club official stressed.

"With some cars, ignition can be turned on while the car is at a standstill," Tomlinson pointed out. "With others, ignition should not be turned on until the car has reached a speed varying from 15 to 35 m.p.h. The speeds at which cars should be shifted into gear vary from a standstill to 35 m.p.h. Some cars must be shifted to the low gear; others, to the drive gear. And there are some cars that cannot be push-started at all".

The AAA spokesman said that, in view of the complicated nature of push - starting today motorists would be wise to carry a battery cable in the car and, in case of a no-start resulting from a dead or weakened battery, get a shot of electricity from another car rather than risk transmission damage by shoving the balky vehicle.

Poster Contest For 4-H Members Opens This Week

"Keep Minnesota Green" is the theme of the fire-prevention poster contest now open to all Minnesota 4-H youth.

Posters should emphasize causes of forest fires, damage caused by fires and prevention of forest fires, says Wayne Carlson, assistant state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota.

Posters, 11 inches by 14 inches, must be submitted to the county extension office by April 1, 1966. Name, age, address, 4-H club and county should be on the back of the poster.

One county winner will be selected from each age group, 9-11, 12-14 and 15-19. They will receive Keep Minnesota Green certificates.

State winners will be presented plaques at the state 4-H conservation camp in June. The youngest state winner will also receive a three-speed English bicycle and the two older winners, $50 savings bonds.

One of the three state winning posters will be reproduced on a printed book cover distributed to business groups and schools. The artist will be given an additional $50 savings bond. Posters will be judged on the basis of orginality, neatness, message and artistry.

County Board Takes Action At Meeting

Commissioners Favor Road Surfacing; Buy Addressing Machine

Pennington county's board of commissioners met recently for the February meeting and discussed a number of business items. Among these was the surfacing of the road extending east from the south end of the "airport road" to highway 59 and another section of road commonly known as the "Wylie road."

The board also accepted a bid in the amount of $10,832.15 for a new Addressograph machine which is used for addressing mailings by a number of county offices and a Graphotype machine for making address plates. No trade-in was allowed as the county will attempt to sell the equipment which has been in use for about 15 years and is being replaced by the new equipment.

Bids were authorized for advertisement on gas, oil, diesel fuel and weed sprays for the county highway department. They will be opened at the March 8 meeting of the commisioners.

Appropriation of $1,377.15 was made for the probation office to cover the Pennington county share of office costs during the last half of 1965. As provided by law, the board set minimum salaries of $6,500 for the county auditor, treasurer, sheriff and register of deeds. An adjustment was made in the wages of the deputy sheriff to bring the salary to $430 per month effective February 1.

Harry Sjulson was reappointed to the Area Redevelopment administration board by the commissioners who serve as an appointment committee.

Burgundy Pants Aid Apprehension Of Shoplifters

A pair of burgundy-colored trousers and a broken piece of cleaning equipment led to the apprehension of two youths in Thief River Falls recently and the solving of a number of shoplifting cases over the past year. Held at the Thief River Falls jail are Richard Bushee, 19, rural East Grand Forks, and Paul Reimer, 18, Cass Lake.

The two boys were noticed about 3:45 p.m. February 3 near a display of burgundy trousers just placed on display at Hamilton's Clothing. About an hour later, Art Hamilton brought an item of cleaning equipment to Dargus Fix-It shop for repair, and noticed two boys getting out of a car in the area. They were carrying three pair of trousers -one of them burgundy-colored with the tags still attached.

When he returned to the store, he inventoried the stock, noted that a pair of trousers was missing from the burgundy-colored display, and notified the police department. The two boys were apprehended at their place of residence.

Bushee, who had been given a suspended jail sentence about a year ago, had his suspension revoked and was held by police. He appeared in municipal court Mon-

Ronald Baker, Ada, Is Minnesota OYF Winner

STATE WINNER in the Minnesota Jaycees Outstanding Young Farmer competition concluded Saturday in Thief River Falls was Ronald Baker, 35, Ada, shown with his wife at left. At right are Robert Olson, president of the co-sponsoring Minnesota LP Gas Dealers association, and Marlys Mossestad, Miss Thief River Falls, who presented the awards plaques at the banquet. Approximately 350 people attended the evening awards banquet in the National Guard armory, including 38 of the 45 entrants in state competition sponsored by the Jaycees.

Awards Made at State Meeting Held Here Sat.

Approximately 350 people attending the Minnesota Jaycees Outstanding Young Farmer banquet Saturday in Thief River Falls witnessed the awarding of certificates to 38 candidates and award plaques to the three state winners. Ronald Baker, 35, registered Hereford breeder and grain farmer from Ada, won first place in the contest. Second place was won by Richard Fox of Rosemount and third place went to Phillip Parsons of Northfield.

A total of 45 candidates sponsored by Jaycee chapters in the state was entered in competition for the 1966 awards program, co-sponsored with the Jaycees by the Minnesota LP Gas Dealers association. The program recognizes young farmers for progress in their agricultural careers, extent of their soil and water conservation practices and their contributions to community, state and nation.

By virtue of winning the state event, Baker will compete as Minnesota's entrant in the national OYF program to be held April 3-5 at Birmingham, Ala. Stanley Olson of Fairmont, 1965 state winner, was a special guest at the state meeting here Saturday.

J. V. Rowe, public relations director for Sunray DX Oil company, gave the banquet address Saturday evening. He commended the young farmers for their efforts and noted that they were selected by what they have given, not by what they have received. "Life is like a bank," he said, "and we can't continually make withdrawls without making deposits." America is great, he added, because it is the only country in the world today where every citizen has the right to choose."

Dale Ellis, president of the Minnesota Jaycees, served as master of ceremonies for the banquet program, Rev. Paul Biegner gave the invocation; Lee Greenslit, state Jaycee agriculture chairman, led

Sheep Producers Meeting Set in Red Lake Falls

Sheep producers from throughout the area are invited to attend a sheep management school to be held February 15 and March 1 in Red Lake Falls, according to Charles Will, assistant Pennington county agricultural agent. The meetings will be held in the community hall basement beginning at 10 a.m. and ending about 3 p.m.

No registration fee is charged for the course, Will said. The course will be instructed by Bob Jordan at the University of Minnesota.

Included in the first section of the school will be early lambs produced entirely in dry-lot, late lambs produced in dry-lot and late lambs produced on pasture. Flock management is the topic of the second section and covers shearing the ewe flock before lambing, foot trimming, parasite control, docking and castrating, ram management and lambing season practices.

Nutrition will be covered in the third section of the course and will include early gestation, late gestation and lactation in the ewe flock and early creep rations and finishing rations for lambs.

The final section of the course, dealing with breeding, will cover ram selection, ewe performance records and breeding season practices such as "flushing" rations and breeding records.

Consolidation of Districts Closer

Grygla and Gatzke school districts and a portion of the Skime district came a step closer in becoming one consolidated district as the result of a decision handed down February 4, by Judge Harley Swenson of Crookston nullifying the June 2, 1964, Marshall county board's order of detachment and annexation of about 50 petitioners in the Gatzke district who petitioned to join the Middle River district.

'On the basis of Minnesota statutes and statements of the trial court, quoted in the Norman county case, consolidation proceedings prevail over orders of detachment and annexation. This is one of a number of rulings that have supported the position of the Gatzke, Grygla and Skime boards. Previous rulings have been made by Judges Chommie, Murphy and Forbes, according to C. L. Stapleton, Beltrami County superintendent of schools.

The legal battle is the result of the efforts of the three districts to consolidate. The Commissioner of Education approved the consolidation by signing a plat and an election was held July 28, 1964, in which voters favored the consolidation by a vote of 585 to 140.

As a reult of the election, the Minneota Department of Education issued the district its new number-447. Since then the Middle River and Goodridge districts, intervening on behalf of three petitioners have appealed the consolidation, and it is expected to come up in this springs term of court in Bemidji.

Herbert Olson, Bemidji, and Robert Swenson, Alexandria, are attorneys for Grygla and Gatzke, and Popovich and Knutson, St. Paul, represent the other side in the question.

Temperature and precipitation readings recorded at the airport are as follows: 35, 27 and two inches of snow containing .20 inch of water on Wednesday; 32, 12 and an inch of snow containing .04 inch of water on Thursday; 15 and -7 on Friday; 30 and 6 on Saturday; 6 and -20 on Sunday; and a low this morning of -2.

General Manager Of Land O' Lakes Asks Milk Support

Early in February, Frank D. Stone, general manager of Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., sent letters to secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, and to the senators and representatives from the Land O'Lakes area states requesting immediate action to increase the support price for manufacturing milk.

Stone called attention to the lag in the existing support price as compared with 75 per cent of parity. He said that an additional price increase was needed to take account of the situation which exists in the North Central states, where most of the milk for manufactured products originates. He noted that the feed crop produced in such abundance last year is of poor quality and a large increase in quantity fed is necessary to maintain production.

Production has not been maintained as compared with a year earlier, Stone added and milk production in this area is down 10 to 15 per cent from that of a year ago. Butter production is down more than 20 per cent; cheese production down five to 10 per cent; and nonfat dry milk production is down more than 20 per cent.

The Land OLakes manager called attention to the fact that the government has not been able to fill its requirements for either nonfat milk or butter.

Stone said that the department of agriculture has recognized the need for price increase in many federal orders, but has not raised the support price for manufactured products.

He asked that the department of agriculture and the senators and representatives support this urgently needed price increase. The National Milk Producers federation, National Creameries association and National Butter Institute are joining Land O'Lakes in this effort.

G. Asbjornson Honored On His 95th Birthday

Gunder Asbjornson, formerly of the Oklee area, observed his 95th birthday on Thursday at the Valley Home in this city. To mark the occasion, his daughter, Mrs. Henry Waale and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Asbjorn Asbjornson, served coffee, birthday cake and lefse to all the residents at the home and to all the well-wishers who came to extend birthday greetings. Assisting them in serving the refreshments were Mrs. Carl Lindblom and Mrs. Sam Haugen of Goodridge.

At a brief program preceding the reception, Otto Baker, administrator of the Valley Home society, welcomed the guests. The Rev. Robert Amundson, pastor of the Ebenezer church at Plummer where Asbjornson is a member, led in devotions and prayer and the guests participated by singing the "Happy Birthday song."

Making the room festive were floral arrangements and plants, which together with gifts and cards, had been received by the honored guest from those present as well as from those who were unable to attend. Centering the serving table was a large birthday cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Waale to resemble an open Bible.

Born in Norway Asbjornson immigrated to the United States at the age of 16 years, working first as a farm hand in the Glenwood and Starbuck areas. He then farmed for awhile in the Fisher community before coming to this area where he home-steaded both in Garnes township, Red Lake county and in Mayfield township, Pennington county. Upon his retirement he moved to Thief River Falls where he resided for seven years. Prior to his residence at the Valley home, with his daughter and family, the Henry Waale's at their farm home near Goodridge. His wife died in 1954.

Campanula Club Hears Reports On House Plants

Campanula Garden club members met Tuesday, February 8, at the Pennington county court house meeting room with Mrs. Martha Matheson and Mrs. Hjalmer Peterson as hostesses. President Mrs. Walter Fischer presided at the business session.

Mrs. L. A. Meyer was in charge of the topic, "House Plants". She stated that they have a special place in the home and may be placed in various locations according to the amount of light and humidity needed, growing best by a large window because of the greater abundance of light and circulation of air. Coleus, geraniums, century plants and cacti do the best in a south window while those best adapted to a north exposure are African violets, palms, ferns, Chinese evergreens, English ivy, philodendron, Rex begonias and wandering Jew. Plants recommended for a west window are the spider plant, fuchsia, watermelon begonia, primrose and flowering maple. She concluded by stating that "even a small number of house plants, well kept, add color and interest to the atmosphere of the home".

The March meeting will include reports on the Farm Crop show and on new plants to try in 1966.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. JULIUS ALBY

With the arrival of the month of February and the numerous sales on canned cherries, the homemakers are again checking their files for various ways of serving cherries. For something unusual and for a treat that can be served in a short time after removing from the oven, this Cherry Cheese Pizza may be kept for several days in the refrigerator.

CHERRY CHEESE PIZZA

Pastry:

1½ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup minus 1 tablespoon lard
1 tablespoon butter
3 or 4 tablespoons milk

Method: Mix as for pie crust and roll on a lightly floured surface into a 14-inch circle, one-eighth inch thick. Place on a 12-inch pizza pan, turn up and flute edges. Prick with a fork and bake 15 minutes in a moderate 350 degree oven.

Filling:

1-8 oz. package of cream cheese
2 eggs
½ cup sugar
one-third cup coarsely chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla

Method: Blend soft cream cheese and sugar; add eggs and beat well. Add vanilla and nuts and pour into partially baked crust. Bake another 10 minutes or longer in a moderate oven. Remove from oven and spread one can cherry pie mix as a glaze over the crust.

May be eaten with the fingers as a cookie or as a dessert, decorate with a swirl of whipped cream or a slice of ice cream and eat with a fork.

Mrs. Julius Alby, who contributed this recipe, says that it is one of her favorite desserts. She likes to cook and bake and especially enjoys trying new recipes. However, she usually trys the new recipes when she entertains guests as her husband, who retired after several years of construction work, prefers "just plain cooking". She also lists sewing as one of her hobbies and with 24 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren, she has an opportunity to do a great deal of it. During the summer the Albys generally have a garden enabling her to can and preserve their own vegetables.

She is a member of the Numedal homemakers club, Oak Ridge American Lutheran church women, the Salvation Army Home league and the Women's Christian Temperance.

The Albys have lived for the past 17 years, on a farm in Norden nine miles from Thief River Falls. They have four children. Living in Thief River Falls are Mrs. Claude (Lelia) Trickle who has 12 children and three grandchildren and Mrs. Roger (Janet) Hible who has two daughters. Another daughter, Mrs. Harold (Donna) Plew lives at Maitland, Fla., and has three boys and one girl. Their only son, Allen Alby, lives in South Dakota and has a son and a daughter.

1966 Farm Prospects Stated by Economists

Farmers planning for 1966 should be more optimistic than in some recent years. In 1965, realized net income of the nation's farmers was the highest since 1952 and the outlook for 1966 is even better.

University of Minnesota agricultural economists S. A. Engene and P. R. Hasbargen say farm costs will creep upward during 1966, but not enough to seriously affect planning. They outline some considerations in planning for 1966.

Crop Planning: The feed grain program is somewhat different this year. Decide whether to participate or not, and if so, to what extent. Estimate your gains: diversion payment, payment-in-kind, reduced costs, conservation and fertility benefits and labor savings. Estimate the losses: reduced value of production and conservation cost.

First do the estimating for the 20 per cent minimum participation and then for greater degrees of participation. See which plan will give the most returns for your operation. To help make these estimates, a crop planning work sheet is available at your county extension office.

Wheat program changes make it more attractive to stay within your allotment, say Engene and Hasbargen. However, additional diversion of wheat acreage will not be eligible for additional payments this year.

Many corn growers are considering the shift to narrow rows, but research results are not conclusive as to how much. Remember that a shift to narrow rows will add costs because of equipment changes.

For large farms, consider 8 or 12 - row equipment. Harvesting equipment should handle at least three rows. And the picker-sheller or combine may be more favorable than the picker for narrow rows. With this change, drying equipment may also be needed. For smaller farms, the shift may not be profitable, especially if most corn is fed on the farm.

Livestock Planning: The strong pork prices and high profits of 1965 are now tempting hog producers to expand production. Producers should keep in mind that over-expansion in the hog industry will decrease prices.

The December 1 national pig crop report showed hog producers planned to increase December - May farrowings by six per cent over last year. Current reports indicate the farrowing increase in late spring could be well above six per cent.

Engene and Hasbargen recommend getting hogs to market by late summer, if possible. They say fall and winter prices probably will be lower and a sharp decline could develop in 1967.

The university economists say the beef cycle has passed its peak and the number of cows on hand is down. Slaughter will remain high through 1966 but increased demand should keep prices rising over the next two years. However beef demands may slack off somewhat next winter if hog prices decrease.

Cattle feeding profits should be good in 1966. The fed beef market will hold strong, but feeder prices will also remain high.

Dairy prices are expected to rise slightly in 1966, but Engene and Hasbargen say production efficiency should be stressed before increased volume. The dairy options in the new farm legislation will tend to discourage increased production if dairymen approve the proposals. Farmers affected will probably not vote on the proposals until late 1966 or 1967, but in the meantime, dairymen are urged to study how the proposals will affect their operation.

Lamb prices this year are expected to be higher than 1965 because of continuing decline in sheep numbers. Most of the price increase will come during the first half of 1966 and the university economists advise sheep producers to push early lambs for the summer market.

Turkey and broiler production will move upward in 1966 and prices will decline somewhat. This same general pattern will also be true for eggs. With specialized egg producers taking an increasing share of the market, Engene and Hasbargen say there is little place for the small farm flock.

Langen Says Post Office Conducts Probe of Service

Congressman Odin Langen said he was glad to note that the post office department has responded to his request for a probe of mail service throughout the nation. Langen's comment came after it was revealed that more than 200 postal inspectors descended on the nation's 72 largest post offices early in February in an effort to determine the cause of delayed and misdirected mail.

"While this is an excellent beginning," Langen said, "I only hope that these inspectors extend their activities into the rural areas of the nation and take the time to hear the complaints of the people at large as well as the local postal officials who must labor under a system that was not of their own design."

Congressman Langen said he was particularly interested to note that the teams of postal inspectors, part of a six-month task force study, are headed by A. C. Hahn, deputy assistant postmaster general for operations.

"Mr. Hahn was in my office less than two weeks ago and assured me at that time that the Post Office Department intends to 'improve mail services across the entire nation, including rural areas, following the current study. It is hoped that this probe of deteriorated mail service will result in positive proposals for restoring the postal service to at least the level of performance formerly enjoyed."

Mr. Langen said he hoped the people of the nation would openly convey their problems and experiences to the postal inspectors when they visit. "I believe the views of the patron public are every bit as important as the views of the postal personnel and I hope the public view will be solicited by the inspection teams. And if given the chance, I certainly urge every person with a postal problem to speak up and be heard."

Minnesota Game Wardens Arrest 205 in January

State game wardens arrested 205 persons during January for violations of the game and fish laws, the Minnesota conservation department reported today.

Fishing violations comprised over one-half of all arrests for the month. Of the 126 fishing violations, wardens found 85 were ice fishermen using more than one line, 24 had no license and seven had over the limit catches. There were 20 arrests for shelter and darkhouse offenses including five persons found spearing fish without licenses.

There were 21 arrests for big game violations, 16 for transporting loaded or uncased firearms in a motor vehicle and five for hunting in a closed park or game refuge. There were only three small game violations, four waterfowl offenses and two for trapping violations.

Eighteen miscellaneous violations made up the balance of arrests for the month.

State's Veterans To Receive $5.8 Million in 1966

Nearly 121,000 veterans in Minnesota will receive through the year checks totalling over $5.8 million which represents payment of the 1966 GI Insurance dividends, according to John R. Murphy, manager of the Veterans Administration center, St. Paul.

He said the dividend payments will be made automatically throughout the year on the monthly anniversary dates of the individual policies. He emphasized that there is no need to contact the VA.

Of the total dividend payable to eligible veterans in Minnesota, Murphy said, over $5.4 million will be paid to nearly 115,000 veterans of World War II who hold National Service Life Insurance policies, and the remaining $414,000 will be shared by 5,600 World War I veterans who have U. S. Government Life Insurance policies.

On a national basis, the 1966 dividends amount to $224,200,000 and will go to 4,606,000 eligible veterans, Murphy said.

Korean conflict veterans hold low-cost, non-participating type policies that do not provide for payment of regular annual dividends.

Murphy said the dividends represent prifarily a return to the policyholders of part of their premium payments since the death rate of insured veterans continues to be lower than the mortality rate upon which premium payments are based by law.

14 Members Join Pennington NFO During January

Announcement that 14 members had joined the Pennington county chapter of the National Farmers organization since the January meeting was made by president Daniel Johnson at the February meeting held Thursday at the Joppru sales barn.

It was also announced that an NFO grain sale had been made on soybeans at an on-the-farm price of $2.80. Members were also urged to attend a meeting Tuesday, February 22, at 2 p.m. in Kiehle auditorium at the Northwest school of agriculture at Crookston to hear an address by Erhard Pfingstep, NFO vice president.

Seymour Iverson, Thief River Falls, reported on a meat board meeting held the same day at Halma. Harlan Otto of Beltrami was elected chairman of zone one which includes Kittson, Roseau, Red Lake, Pennington, Marshall and Polk counties. Otto Omlid of Goodridge was elected alternate chairman. Attending the meeting in addition to Iverson and Omlid were Melvin Joppru and Alton Carlson of Thief River Falls and Juell Chervestad, Oklee.

Merle Lundeen, Oklee, and Donald Erickson were named captains for the membership campaign being held in Pennington county.

Highlights of a special NFO feeder cattle auction held February 5 at the Winter sales barn were given by Melvin Joppru. He noted that about 200 head of cattle were consigned by various farmers in the area. Some of the prices received by area farmers included the following: Stanley Hruby, Goodridge, Hereford steer calves, $29.50; Seymour Iverson, TRF, 20 Hereford steers, $29.50; Ingvald Dahl, Newfolden, Angus steers, $29.50; Alton Carlson, TRF, Shorthorn steers, $28; and Mrs. Ed Koglin, Goodridge, Hereford steers, $28. Another sale has been set for Winger March 5 and farmers with cattle to sell may list them with Melvin Joppru.

All dairymen were urged to attend a special educational meeting later to be held in Thief River Falls Monday (today). The NFO-sponsored session was arranged to explain how farmers can legally bargain and sell together nationwide through an agency called "Nationwide Milk Products, Inc."

WRECKED in a crash near the Family Bowl Thursday night were the two cars pictured above. At 8:15 p.m. Thursday the car in the top photo, driven by Curtis Haugen, 18, of Strandquist, was traveling south on Highway 32 and attempted a U-turn at the intersection with Greenwood boulevard. The vehicle was struck by the car in the lower photo, driven by James Asp, 25, of Goodridge. Both cars are considered total losses. Both drivers, along with Dianne Anderson, 20, of Thief River Falls and Harlan Deschene, 18, of Argyle, passengers in the Haugen vehicle, were hospitalized at Northwestern hospital. Haugen received a concussion and possible rib fractures, and is listed in good condition. Miss Anderson suffered fractures of the right clavicle, and is also listed in good condition. Deschene received injuries to the teeth, lip and lower jaw. Asp, who was alone in his car at the time of the mishap, was treated for cuts and released.

Prowlers To Regional; Meet Roseau Tuesday

Billy Poole's goal at 7:56 of the third period broke a 1-all tie and gave the Prowlers a 2 to 1 win over the East Grand Forks Green Wave in the finals of the south sub-regional hockey tournament played at Crookston on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Billy's goal, with Wayne Smith and Billy Dicken assisting, propelled coach George Schlieff's squad into the Region Eight hockey tournament at Roseau on Tuesday and Wednesday.

On Tuesday night, at 9 p.m., the Prowlers will meet the defending regional champion Roseau Rams in a first-round game. At 7:30 p.m., the Warroad Warriors, seeded as the region's number one team, will meet the Hallock Bears, winners by a 5 to 2 score over Baudette in the finals of the north sub-regional tourney at Warroad on Saturday night.

The Region Eight championship game will be played at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday. On Saturday night, Feburary 19, the runners-up in Region Eight and Region Seven will meet in a playoff game to determine the Region Three entry in the state tournament.

The Prowlers, on Chuck Bedard's high-lofted shot, which eluded goalie Verdell Olson and bounced into the south net, gave the blue-and-bold a 1-0 lead at the 2:42 mark of the opening period. But the ever-trying Green Wave Curt Monson, with Lee Hearn assisting, scored at 9:10 of the first period.

In the second period, which was scoreless, the Prowlers had a some anxious moments when they had to skate off a pair of penalties, but coach Schlieff's squad held off the threats to enter the final period in a 1-all deadlock.

In a semi-finals game on Friday night, the Prowlers, on goals by Poole and Kent LeMoine, gained a 2 to 0 first period lead. And Wayne Smith's tally early in the second period gave the locals a 3-0 edge. But coach Mike Hajostek's Red Lake Falls Eagles, with Louis Toulouse and Tom King scoring, pared that lead to 3 and 2.

Prowlers To Regional; Meet Roseau Tuesday

Billy Poole's goal at 7:56 of the third period broke a 1-all tie and gave the Prowlers a 2 to 1 win over the East Grand Forks Green Wave in the finals of the south sub - regional hockey tournament played at Crookston on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Billy's goal, with Wayne Smith and Billy Dicken assisting, propelled coach George Schlieff's squad into the Region Eight hockey tournament at Roseau on Tuesday and Wednesday.

On Tuesday night, at 9 p.m., the Prowlers will meet the defending regional champion Roseau Rams in a first-round game. At 7:30 p.m., the Warroad Warriers, seeded as the region's number one team, will meet the Hallock Bears, winners by a 5 to 2 score over Baudette in the finals of the north sub-regional tourney at Warroad on Saturday night.

The Region Eight championship game will be played at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday. On Saturday night, Feburary 19, the runners-up in Region Eight and Region Seven will meet in a playoff game to determine the Region Three entry in the state tournament.

In south sub-regional tourney first-round play at Crookston on Thursday, Crookston Central defeated Bemidji, 8-2, and Red Lake Falls defeated Red Lake, 10-1. In semi-finals play on Friday night, Thief River Falls defeated Red Lake Falls, 4-2; and East Grand Forks, in an overtime game, edged out Crookston Central, 4 to 3.

In Saturday night's sub-regional finals at Crookston, the result was in doubt until the game-ending buzzer. The Prowlers, on Chuck Bedard's high-lofted shot, which eluded goalie Verdell Olson and bounced into the south net, gave the blue-and-bold a 1-0 lead at the 2:42 mark of the opening period. But the ever-trying Green Wave Curt Monson, with Lee Hearn assisting, scored at 9:10 of the first period.

In the second period, which was scoreless, the Prowlers had a some anxious moments when they had to skate off a pair of penalties, but coach Schlieff's squad held off the threats to enter the final period in a 1-all deadlock.

In a semi-finals game on Friday night, the Prowlers, on goals by Poole and Kent LeMoine, gained a 2 to 0 first period lead. And Wayne Smith's tally early in the second period gave the locals a 3-0 edge. But coach Mike Hajostek's Red Lake Falls Eagles, with Louis Toulouse and Tom King scoring, pared that lead to 3 and 2.

Monte LeMoine's goal at the 4:51 mark of the third period provided the Prowlers with some game "insurance", with the locals winning the game by a 4 to 2 margin.

Bemidji Free Throws Thwart Prowler Bid

Expert marksmanship from the free throw line, particularly by Howard Hoganson who converted on nine of ten tries, and Dan Christensen, who entered the game in the fourth period and made six straight, provided the Bemidji Lumberjacks with the points to defeat the Prowlers, 59 to 52, in a basketball game played at Bemidji on Friday night.

This week, on Friday, the Prowlers will meet the East Grand Forks Green Wave in a District 31 conference game at East Grand Forks. And on Saturday night, February 19, the Halstad Pirates from District 30, will play the Prowlers on the Lincoln high school court.

In Friday night's varsity game, the Bemidji Lumberjacks led at all the period stops, having a 16-11 lead at the end of the first period, a 30 to 21 margin at the intermission, and 46 to 38 lead at the end of the third period.

In the opening period of play it was the outside shooting of guard Jack Boyer, who looped in four field goals, who boosted the Jacks into the lead. In the second period it was Bob Johnson who paced the Bemidji scoring, with the burly center notching three field goals and a pair of free throws.

The Prowlers outpointed the Jacks, 17-16, in the third period, and Tommy Cummings, who had been held to one field goal by Boyer in the first half, scored five field goals on jumpers from the outside and added a free throw. The Prowlers trailed by eight points, 46 to 38, entering the final period.

Hoganson drove in for a close-in shot to open the fourth period. Bob Brodin netted a Prowler field goal, and Neil Josephson scored a field goal. Christensen, who had entered the Bemidji lineup when Boyer fouled out, made a pair of free throws. At the 4:16 mark, the Prowlers' Karl Poppenhagen left the game on fouls. Johnson made a free throw point for the Jacks. Bob Brodin converted on a one-and-one; and Cummings, fouled in the act of shooting made both free throw tries. Christensen dropped two free throws into the south basket. Bruce Saustad added two free throws for the Prowlers, and when Cummings also scored a pair of free throws, the Prowlers trailed by three points, 53 to 50. Christensen made his fifth and sixth free throws, and Hoganson, on Stromberg's fifth personal with 1:31 to play, made both free throw attempts, and Bemidji held a 57 to 50 lead. Cummings drove in for a layup for the Prowlers and Hoganson finished off the game's scoring with a pair of Bemidji free throws.

Cummings, with 19 points, was the game's high scorer. Hoganson, with 17 points, and Johnson, with 14 points, led the Jacks' scoring.

Bemidji 'B' Team Beats Prowlers

Coach Phil Buhn's Bemidji B squad, trailing by a 21 to 16 score at the halftime intermission, turned in a 17-point third period to overcome that deficit and go on to defeat the Prowler B team, 48 to 43, in a preliminary game played at Bemidji on Friday night.

Bill Helleman, with five field goals and a free throw, paced the Lumberjacks' second half rally. The Prowler Bs, with Larry Peterson scoring 9 points, Neil Josephson adding five points and Paul Ihle scoring four points, had a well-earned 21 to 16 lead at the intermission. No Favor

That wasn't any favor to the hockey Prowlers that coach Larry Gilbertson and his Hallock Bears performed on Saturday night when, in the finals of the north sub-regional tournament at Warroad, they defeated the third-ranked Baudette Bears, 5 to 2, to gain a berth in this week's Region Eight tourney at Roseau. That win by Hallock arranged the regional pairings in such a manner that the Prowlers will meet the Roseau Rams in a first-round game on Tuesday night at 9 p.m. Hallock will meet the top-ranked Warroad Warriers at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday.

While it is true that the Prowlers, in one of their finest efforts of the season, defeated Roseau, 2 to 1, in a game played at Roseau a month ago, it's a fact that coach Oscar Almquist's defending regional champions are always tough on their home ice. The Prowlers appear to have shaken off the slump that plagued the squad the past couple of weeks, and the boys have been skating with desire and are goal-hungry.

There have been complaints that this season's club hasn't been a goal-scoring team, and it's a fact that the Prowlers have been having difficulty in scoring goals. But in 20 games the Prowlers have tallied 60 goals, and that compares favorably with the totals marked up by the squads of recent years.

Last season, in 26 games, the Prowlers scored 81 goals, and allowed 48 goals. The 1963-64 squad scored 52 goals and gave up 36 scores in 22 games. The 1962-63 Prowlers, in 22 games, scored 73 goals and allowed 71 goals. The 1961-62 squad hit the net for 83 goals in 21 games, and allowed 41 goals. And the 1960-61 Prowler team, in 20 games, notched 46 goals and allowed 47 goals. So the present record isn't to be criticized except that the Prowlers have been making hard work of scoring those 60 goals.

The highest goal total, by a Prowler hockey squad was recorded in the 1959-60 when coach Gene Sacks team rolled up 152 goals in 23 games. That was the team co-captained by Dale Wennberg and Arlen Hjelle. But this squad had several lopsided games such as a 17 to 0 win over Williams, a 16 to 0 win over Williams, an 11 to 1 win over Baudette, a 10 to 2 win over Warroad and a 12 to 0 win over Red Lake Falls. The Prowlers haven't scored in double figures in the past three seasons.

The best defensive record of a Prowler hockey squad was that of the 1953-54 state champions who, in 20 games, gave up but 21 goals. That team scored 121 goals, and with Jack Hoppe in the goal, and Mike McMahon, Les Sabo and Jim Zavoral on defense, allowed but 21 tallies. Jack had six shutouts, and in only two games did the Prowlers' opponents score three goals. Warroad was defeated, 5 to 3; and Williams was beaten 4 to 3.

A Fine Facility

Last week I had the opportunity to look over the new hockey arena in Grand Forks, and a fine addition it will be to the hockey facilities over there. George Smith, a member of the executive committee that proposed the arena and was instrumental in securing the pledges for the building, was my guide.

The arena, which is a fire-proofed structure of steel and cement, has an ice sheet that is 192 feet long and 85 feet wide. And this ice sheet is of artificial ice so that the building can be heated to about 50 or 60 degrees, making for spectator comfort.

It is estimated that the arena, with its lounge and concession addition, will cost about $300,000. And provision is being made whereby the ice-making plant can be utilized by the nearby Grand Forks curling arena in case the curling club's plant, which is old, needs standby assistance.

When I was there the cement footings were being poured for the 1,850 permanent seat bleachers which will occupy the south side of the rink. With temporary bleachers on the north side, and at the ends, the seating capacity of the building will be about 4,000.

It's very probable that Region Eight fans, who attend the tournament at Roseau on Tuesday and Wednesday, will be faced by standing-room only conditions. And with the increase in high school hockey interest in this area, the local fans should consider the prospect of a new arena here. But the construction of a new arena, at least an outside shell, should be a cooperative effort. Adequate parking facilities must be available; and the building should be large enough to accomodate crowds of at least 5,000 fans.

And if provisions are made for an artificial ice plant, this plant should be such that the curling club could use its ice-making facilities. And one wall of this building could be a common wall in the construction of a swimming pool.

With construction costs continuing to spiral upwards and into the forseeable future, now is the time to make plans.

ACP Program To Aid Minnesota's Wildlife

Minnesota conservation department pointed out today that the guidelines for the 1966 federal Agricultural Conservation Program ACP) for Minnesota have recently been announced by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service. Under ACP the U. S. department of agriculture cost shares with farmers to put good conservation practices on the land.

Director of Game and Fish Ted Shields said that the 1966 ACP practices include several modifications and new measures of considerable importance to wildlife.

One important change is the increased payment for establishing vegetative cover for nesting. If a farmer leaves his land seeded an additional year, he will receive $8 per acre per year compared to the $5 rate for a one year seeding.

This practice will give added incentive for farmers to participate in the program and will provide some high quality wildlife nesting cover during the second year, Shields said.

The G-1 practice for seeding up to 30 acres of oats for pheasant nesting cover was very popular last year and is expected to be so again. This practice also includes cost-sharing with the landowner for the establishment of wildlife food plots and the planting of trees and shrubs to provide winter cover for pheasants and other wildlife species.

Shields said that the G-1 practice can help to restore much needed wildlife cover in the intensively farmed areas of the state.

An important change in the G-2 practice for development or restoration of shallow water areas for waterfowl, furbearers and other wildlife is the increase of the cost-sharing rate from 60 per cent in 1965 to 80 per cent this year with a maximum of $2,500 per farmer. This measure may incude the construction of dams, level ditches and the excavating and blasting of potholes.

Many valuable wildlife impoundments have been built in Minnesota through the Agricultural Conservation Program. Interest in building wildlife ponds is expected to increase with the higher cost sharing rates offered this year.

Shields urged farmers to contact their local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service office for more details on the ACP practices.

"The ACP wildlife practices give an added incentive to farmers to put good land use measures on their farms and at the same time improve them for wildlife," he said.

Editorials . . .

"The using up of strength is in a certain sense still an increase of strength; for fundamentally it is only a matter of a wide circle; all the strength we give away comes back to us again, experienced and transformed. It is so in prayer. And what is there that, truly done, would not be prayer?"
—Rainer Maria Rilke

Price of Poverty

"Even in the Great Society, it would be cheaper to send the unemployed to Harvard."

That wry editorial comment comes from the Charleston, South Carolina, News and Courier. It has to do with some revealing facts concerning training projects in Virginia, as disclosed by Senator Robertson of that state. Examples: 36 unemployed kitchen helpers were being trained at a cost of $83,601. Sixty unemployed persons were being trained as nurses' aids at a cost of $78,390. Eighteen unemployed workers were being trained as bricklayers at a cost of $70,579.

Senator Robertson did a little arithmetic and found that it cost $3,921 to train each bricklayer and $5,497 to train each plumber's helper. Even in these days of inflation, you can get a good deal of college education for that kind of money.

You may be for or against the antipoverty and other welfare programs, but one thing is crystal clear: The costs, largely because the fine and grasping hand of politics is always present, run inordinately high in the light of the results obtained. And those costs are almost invariably greater than the optimistic preliminary estimates.

The American Way

Most Minnesotans who are engaged in any phase of marketing certainly should be interested in the following remarks by an American business leader, as reported by Land O'Lakes News.

"Call it what you will—free enterprise, capitalism, or simply business—this system is the greatest of all the man-made miracles. It has fed more people, clothed more people, educated more people, given more happiness to more people than any other political and economic order in the history of man—and its potential scarcely has been tapped.

"In the face of these facts, one would expect that there would be widespread public appreciation of the free enterprise system and understanding of what it takes to keep it going. One would expect that there would be heard across the land agressive witnessing for its accomplishments. But, unfortunately, this is not true. Too much is taken for granted and the voices of support are seldom raised. Meanwhile, the discordant sounds of antagonism and criticism toward business are heard without effective challenge."

Cooperatives are one of the four types of business methods in our free enterprise system, so, we can well take a lesson from the above statement.

We cannot afford to let the story of our nation's free enterprise system go untold. We cannot afford to let the story of what our cooperatives are doing go untold. We cannot afford to have this be "The Greatest Story Never Told."

No Little Problem

The question of whether or not states should be permitted to elect one body of their legislatures on a geographic basis is no little problem. A good history of what has happened and what the arguments are appeared recently in the Industrial News Review. The article was as follows:

Over a period of time, the Supreme Court of the United States has handed down a series of decisions which require that states reapportion their legislatures on the basis of population only. These are commonly referred to as the "one-man, one-vote" decisions. The result has been a long and intense controversy which is far from ended.

It has been common for states to establish the legislatures on a basis comparable to that of Congress. One house is apportioned on population; the other on geographical and political considerations as well as population. The Supreme Court dictum has thrown this old and established system out. And the result has been a large and growing movement to restore the right of the states to constitute their legislatures as their people may desire.

At the last session of Congress, a constitutional amendment, usually referred to as the Dirksen Amendment, was offered in the Senate. Its purpose is ". . .to preserve to the people of each State power to determine the composition of its legislature and the reapportionment of the membership thereof in accordance with law and the provisions of the Constitution of the United States." There were 57 yea votes as against only 39 nays. However, the Amendment was rejected, because the necessary two-thirds majority was not obtained. However, as Senator Dirksen has said, "The final chapter has not yet been written. The battle will be continued." And it promises to provide one of the major issues of the current session.

The arguments in favor of the Amendment, and in opposition to forcing all state legislative houses to be apportioned on a population basis only, are many and varied. Justice Harlan, in dissenting from one of the court's decisions, said: ". . . judicial entry into this realm is profoundly ill-advised and constitutionally impermissible. . . the vitality of our political system, on which in the last analysis all else depends, is weakened by reliance on the judiciary for political reform; in time a complacent body politic may result."

A very different kind of argument comes from Senator Dirksen: "The question is not one of rural domination or urban domination or ethnic domination or labor domination or any other type of domination. The issue, simply, is whether the people of the state are to be allowed to determine for themselves the manner in which they would be governed."

Still another telling argument is put forward by the National Council for Fair Representation: ". . .It will cure the present situation in which a bare majority of the voters can deny representation in the State legislature to all other individuals. . .It will protect racial and religious minorities. . .This Amendment provides for the minority representation in the halls of government and the protection of the rights of individuals to participate. . .This Amendment will make government more democratic because it will insure the appropriate representation in the State legislature of the 49 per cent of the people who might

Others, among them Senator Lausche of Ohio, urge passage of the Amendment because they feel that without it legislatures will be dominated by big-city political bosses, and there can be no doubt that the "one-man, one-vote" rule will, in most of the states, give the cities overriding powers at the expense of rural people.

The sparks will fly when the Senate is again called upon to consider the Amendment. And the evidence indicates there is a wealth of public sentiment back of it.

Pointing a Finger

Apparently feeling the heat of its internal problems and loss of confidence of the people, the Minnesota DFL is attempting to take the offensive once again. The party has been rocked back on its heels by the involvement of Lt. Gov. A. M. Keith in the American Allied insurance scandal and a move within the party to dump Gov. Karl Rolvaag.

George Farr, state DFL chairman, has pointed an accusing finger at Rep. Odin Langen, Republican Congressman from Minnesota's Seventh district. The charge: that Langen ". . .has taken up where Senator Goldwater left off in the United States Congress." Supposedly, this is a bad thing for Langen to do.

"Langen received the highest approval rating of any Minnesota Congressman by an ultra-conservative political group—Americans for Constitution Action," Farr said. "The rating is based on adherence to reactionary Goldwater principles.

"An analysis of 10 key roll call votes in the United States House of Representatives during the first session of the 89th Congress reveals that Rep. Langen voted 90 per cent in support of the Goldwater position as expressed during the 1964 campaign," Farr continued. "As a result his vote showed his disregard for the wishes and inclinations of the people in his district."

What did Langen oppose? He opposed the elementary and secondary education act; creation of a cabinet department of housing and urban development; medicare and poverty legislation; public works and the economic development act. Ain't that awful?! Let's look at it.

The elementary and secondary education act puts the federal government into education without reason and at increased cost; urban development has been in invitation to corruption from the start and is of no benefit to Langen's rural area; medicare is a step toward socialized medicine and increased social security benefits mean increased social security taxes; anti-poverty programs were hastily conceived and monumentally ineffective; and the same is true of public works and the economic development act. So where's the big sin?

Farr calls Sen. Goldwater a reactionary, and it sounds like a nasty word. In politics, a reactionary is a person who advocates a return to a former condition, situation or social order. In other words, Sen. Goldwater would like the nation to return to the basic principles which have permitted the United States to make the amazing progress it has since its founding.

It was during the Presidential campaign that the DFL pointed its finger at Sen. Goldwater and said, "He wants to increase U. S. participation in the Vietnamese war." Now the party is defending President Johnson for doing the very things which Sen. Goldwater was honest enough to say must be done. It is any more right now than it was then?

We know nothing of the Americans for Constitution Action, but if we were to place the future of our nation in the hands of such a group, we would feel more secure than with the Americans for Democratic Action which the DFL embraces. The ADA—first love of Vice President Hubert Horatio Humphrey—poses more danger to our freedom and the American way of life than any other group outside the Communist Party. And sometimes we wonder how different they are.

Council Awards Bids To Several Bidders

Bids which had been opened previously were voted upon by the Thief River Falls city council at its regular meeting Tuesday night. The council voted to reject all bids submitted for four pickup trucks to be purchased by the city, as the bids did not conform to specifications. Bids for the trucks will be reopened March 8 at 3 p.m.

In a move to purchase a new police squad car, the council accepted the bid of the Tunberg Motor company for a 1966 Ford for a price of $1,369 plus the city's present squad car in trade. Other bids accepted were that of the Times as the official city newspaper and the Northern and Union State Banks as city depositories.

The contract for airport gasoline was awarded to the Shell Oil company whose bid amounted to 21.06 cents per gallon for 80-87 octane gasoline and 23.56 cents per gallon for 100-130 octane gasoline.

The Mobil Oil company was awarded the contract for bulk gasoline delivery to the city street department at a cost of 13.81 cents per gallon, and the bid of Western Oil and Fuel for station delivery to the police department at the rate of 16.60 cents per gallon was accepted.

The governing body heard the third reading of an ordinance amending Section 21.210 of the municipal code and coordinating the times during which on and off sales of non-intoxicating liquors may be made. Adoption followed the reading. Also heard was the second reading of an ordinance providing for two regular meetings of the council each month, amending Rule 29 of Section 2.101 of the municipal code.

It was moved to advertise for bids on construction of a Civil Defense warning station March 8 at 4 p.m. The facility will be set up in a storage room in the basement of the city auditorium at Civil Defense expense.

Alan Gehrls, bartender at the municipal liquor store, was granted a $10 per month progression raise as recommended by Tom Fuller, store manager. Also granted was Mayor Orin J. Gren's appointment of Charles A. Jones as police patrolman effective March 1.

It was resolved to enter into an agreement with the Department of Aeronautics, a supplement to the original agreement, increasing the state's payment for snow removal at the airport to $500. Increased snowfall prompted the offer from the department.

Police Chief Elton Cummings and Police Capt. Alan Noreen were granted permission to attend a state police association workshop sponsored by the League of Minnesota Municipalities March 21, 22 and 23 at the University of Minnesota campus.

Roy Barzen deeded to the city a strip of land measuring 80 x 1,050 feet. This extension of Brooks

He was elected to the NFO board of directors in 1960 and has served as vice president since 1962.

Morris Steiger County Candidate For King Agassiz

A Black River township farmer, Morris Steiger, has been named Pennington county's agricultural ambassador. Steiger is Pennington county's King Agassiz of 1966 and will compete for the title of King Agassiz VI of the Red River Valley.

County King Agassiz candidates will be honored on Sunday during the Red River Valley Winter shows. Climax of the day will be the coronation ceremony at 7 p.m. in the Winter shows arena. Senator Walter Mondale will speak and crown the new king, presented to the senator by King Agassiz V, Erman Ueland, Fertile.

Steiger farms—with his brother, Douglas, and his father, John Steiger—3,300 acres of land. A total of 2,300 acres is owned and operated under the name of the Steiger corporation, of which Morris serves as secretary-treasurer. The Steiger Farms are noted for their oats, barley, wheat and millet.

Included in the corporation is tractor building and manufacturing of other farm machinery parts. The huge, four-wheel-drive tractors are made in different sizes ranging from 140 to 240 horsepower.

Morris has served as an active member of the Rural Area Development association. He is chairman of the Black River town board and is a member of his church council. He is president of P.T.A. and has been a 4-H leader.

Milk Producers Get Information On Market Group

Approximately 75 interested dairy farmers and creamery operators attended a meeting held Monday evening in Thief River Falls regarding Nationwide Milk Products, Inc. Speaker was Duane Okeson of Detroit Lakes.

Although the meeting was sponsored by the Pennington county unit of the National Farmers organization, it was noted at the meeting that NFO and the milk marketing organization are separate organizations.

Okeson explained the 14-state cooperative being organized in an attempt to raise milk prices for producers. The cooperative was chartered in Delaware, with membership agreements to be between cooperatives and Nationwide Milk Products, Inc.

Okeson said that the farm price for milk in Minnesota is now $3.53 per hundredweight, or 62 per cent of parity. Milk would sell at the farm for $5.66 per hundredweight at 100 per cent of parity, he said.

The aim of Nationwide Milk Products, Inc., is to obtain a "fair price the farmer for his milk" by banding farmers together to bargain for a price.

Sheriff's Office Reports Mishaps In County Sunday

Two accidents Sunday afternoon and evening, one resulting in minor personal injury, were reported today by the Pennington county sheriff's department.

The first mishap occurred about 12:25 p.m. when a pickup truck driven south on the airport road by Mrs. Russell Gustafson of St. Hilaire struck a row of mailboxes just south of the city limits. Mrs. Gustafson reportedly applied the brakes on the pickup as it started to slide on the extremely icy road. Neither the driver nor her three-year-old daughter were injured, but damage to the truck was estimated at $150.

The other accident happened about 8:10 p.m. on SAR 24 about one-half mile south of the junction of highways 1 and 219 south of Goodridge. A car driven south on SAR 24 by Harold Knutson, Goodridge, left the road on the west side and struck a mailbox at the entrance to the Justin Dahlen farm.

Knutson was taken to Northwestern hospital where several stitches were necessary to close a cut in his forehead and he was hospitalized overnight. Ingvald Knutson, brother of the driver and a passenger in the car, was not injured. Minor damage to the car included a broken windshield and scratches.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Risberg and Judy of Detroit Lakes were recent weekend visitors at the home of Mrs. Risberg's mother, Mrs. Mabel Furr.

Olga Bloomsness Receives MESPA's Highest Award

Sixteen educators were honored by the Minnesota Elementary School Principals association (MESPA) for their outstanding contributions to the education of Minnesota youth.

The MESPA's highest award—honorary life membership—was given to Miss Olga Bloomsness, retired principal of Knox elementary school, Thief River Falls. Miss Bloomsness is only the 22nd person awarded the honor in the organization's history.

The MESPA's award program states:

"Miss Bloomsness retired principal of Knox elementary school in Thief River Falls, has served the communities of Alvarado, Radium, Viking and Thief River Falls for nearly half a centry. As principal in the Thief River Falls system, her leadership in educational pursuits has influenced the lives and philosophy of children, parents, co-workers and her community for the last 20 years.

"Local, state and national associations have benefited and progressed by her efforts and energies. We, along with her co-workers in the Norther division, congratulate her on being awarded an honorary life membership in the Minnesota Elementary Principals association."

County Townships Share Cigarette And Liquor Tax

Pennington County townships will share $3,193.45 in liquor tax disbursement and $4,569.09 in cigarette tax disbursement, according to Ellsworth Jorgenson, Pennington county treasurer. The funds were received in the county office this week.

The liquor tax awarded to the townships represents 65 cents per capita on a basis of 4,913 persons—an increase of one cent per person from 1965. Cigarette tax represents 93 cents per capita as compared with 99 cents in 1965.

DEDICATION of the new gymnasium and classrooms addition to Goodridge public school took place Monday evening. The above photo was taken just as people were beginning to take their places for the ceremonies. To fully appreciate the roomy and well-lighted gymnasium, one must first have experienced a visit to the previous gym—a frame building with low ceiling, dim lighting and seating space far too small for the school's athletic contest or community events. The stage shown at left is centered in the south wall of the new gymnasium, and the chairs set up would seat 250 people.

Take Steps To Better Annual Fall Dairy Sale

Several major steps toward improving the Top of the Nation dairy sale held annually in Thief River Falls were taken at the annual meeting of the Top of the Nation Dairy Improvement association held Thursday at the Pennington court house in Thief River Falls.

Members of the association voted to increase the entry standards from 400 to 450 pounds of butterfat for grade animals and from 450 to 500 pounds for registered cows. All animals consigned to the sale must have these minimum production records or be springing heifers out of dams with these records.

Due to the demand for good 4-H project calves, the association also voted to offer for sale at the 1966 Top of the Nation event not more than 10 calves suitable for 4-H club dairy projects. To give 4-H club members an opportunity to attend, and to increase the number of bidders at the sale, the sale date was changed from the traditional Thursday to Saturday, October 15.

A report on the 1965 sale by Fred Sorensen, sale manager, noted that 19 cattle were sold at an average price of $285.

Three new members were elected to the board of directors of the association. They were Carl Krohn, Viking; Mylo Carlson, Angus; and Robert Brinkman, Warnaska. Reelected were Clyde Christensen and Donovan Bruggeman, Thief River Falls; Donald Craigmile, Hallock; and Sheldon Erickson, Badger. The new directors succeed Ronald Olson, East Grand Forks; Neil Kruger, Warren; and Earl Erickson, Viking.

Fred Sorensen was elected president of the association with Clyde Christensen as vice president, Stuart McLeod as secretary and Kenneth Onken as treasurer. Members of the association requested that Dean Workman of Borup again be contacted and requested to serve as auctioneer for the sale.

The Top of the Nation dairy sale has the highest entry standard of any dairy sale in the nation. All cattle consigned must be on Dairy Herd Improvement association test to meet the butterfat production requirements for sale entry. Each animal entered is also inspected for type before the consignment is accepted.

AWARDS were presented and promotions granted at the city-wide Boy Scout Court of Honor Monday night at St. Bernard's church. Dennis Johnson (left) of Troop 60 was promoted to the rank of Life Scout, second only to the Eagle Scout rank as the highest attainable in Scouting. John Matts of Explorer Post 46 and formerly of Troop 60 was advanced to Eagle Scout last year and Monday night was awarded the Eagle Palm award—a mark of distinction awarded only to Eagle Scouts. Richard Bischel of Troop 60 was also advanced to the rank of Life Scout, but was unavailable when the above photo was taken.

Middle River Man Dies After Crash Of Pickup, Panel

A near head-on crash on a snow-covered road fatally injured Arthur Saxberg, 48, Middle River, about 10 a.m. Monday. Saxberg died Tuesday morning at Warren hospital of injuries received in the mishap on SAR 4 about eight miles west of Newfolden.

According to the Marshall county sheriff's department, Saxberg was a passenger in a pickup truck driven by his brother Melvin, 58, and was traveling west on SAR 4. The pickup collided with a panel truck traveling east on the road and driven by William E. Matulka, 26, East Grand Forks. The right side of each vehicle was extensively damaged in the crash.

Oscar Erickson, Marshall county sheriff, said the roadway was covered with snow that there were icy spots and that snow was falling heavily at the time of the crash. The accident is still under investigation.

Funeral services for Arthur Saxberg will be held Saturday at Emanuel Lutheran church of Ringbo, east of Holt, at 3 p.m. Rev. Sidney Swenson will officiate and interment will be made in the Holt cemetery. Collins Funeral home of Middle River is in charge of arrangements.

Saxberg is survived by two brothers, Melvin of Middle River and Alvin of New Mexico, and a sister, Mrs. Huey Engstrom of Warren. A more complete obituary will be published in a later edition of the Times.

Lappegaard and Erickson Vows Spoken At Redeemer

Gloria Lappegard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Lappegaard, and John Erickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Erickson, all of rural Thief River Falls, exchanged marriage vows Monday, January 3, at 8 p.m. at Redeemer Lutheran church in this city. The Rev. Dennis W. Rolin officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by one-hundred relatives and friends. William Halbasch provided a program of organ music and played the traditional wedding march as the wedding party approached the altar.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Lappegaard wore a blue woolen jersey dress with black accessories. The groom's mother was attired in a red woolen dress complemented by white accessories. Both wore identical corsages of blue and white carnations.

Attending the wedding as honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lappegard and Mrs. Agnes Eldelbes, grandparents of the bride and Mrs. A. J. Ulvedal of Grand Forks, N. D., grandmother of the groom.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony. Centering the serving table was a square, four-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. Frosted in white with blue flowers the cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Ben Vatsans and Mrs. Caster Moe. A friend of the groom's family, Mrs. Lester Jasperson, cut and served the cake while Mrs. Lester Nordhagen, cousin of the bride, poured. The gifts were arranged by sisters of the groom, Janet and JoEllen Erickson, and guests attending from Grand Forks, N. D., Bemidji and surrounding areas were registered by Mrs. LaRoy Williamson.

The bride, a graduate of Lincoln high school, was employed by Dow-Key company in Thief River Falls. The groom, also a graduate of Lincoln high school, is in the United States Navy stationed at San Diego, Calif., where the newlyweds are at home at 4173 Bannock Avenue.

The 1966 crop of noncitrus fruits may be about the same as in 1965. Increases are probable, however, in clingstone peaches, Bartlett pears and cherries, which suffered in 1965 because of unfavourble weather. The 1965 record crop of grapes will most likely not be matched in 1966.

Marshall-Beltrami Soil District Activities Noted

Twenty-five farmers became cooperators with the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation district during the past year. Seventeen farmers worked out long-range soil and water conservation plans for their farms with the aid of SCS technicians, according to Robert Kloubeck, work unit conservationist.

Fourteen stock water pits were built and 37 miles of drainage ditches were constructed; 10 acres of land were planted to farmstead windbreaks. A total of 303 farmers received technical assistance on conservation problems from the district and 733 acres of permanent pasture were improved by reseeding to approved grasses and legumes.

District Supervisors for the past year were Lyndon Magnuson, Grygla, chairman; Ole Prestebak, Goodridge, vice chairman; Oliver Howland, Grygla, secretary; Peter Aune, Gatzke, treasurer; and Grant Satre, Grygla, supervisor. Board members meet once each month to take care of the district business and to plan needed activities to get conservation applied on the land.

Outstanding accomplishments for the year were listed by Kloubec. (1) The district sponsored a speaking contest in the area schools in November. Two students from the Grygla school and two from the Gatzke school participated in the contest. First place winners was Karen Sandland of Grygla. Cash prizes of $10 and $5 were given for first and second place winners. The contest was jointly sponsored by the district and the Daughters of the Soil who provided the rules and regulations of the contest.

The theme of this year's speech contest was "What Is a Small Watershed and How May It Affect My Community". Karen Sandland's speech won first prize in the Area I, (Northwest Minnesota) speech contest. A conservation plaque was awarded to her at the district's annual cooperators' meeting.

(2) A crop variety and fertilizer plot was set up on the Bob Prestebak farm along highway 219. The following grains were in the plot: oats, wheat, barley, flax, soybeans, mustard and sunflowers. All grains were labeled so farmers could see the results during the season. Grasses and legumes added this year included bluegrass, brome, timothy, rye grass, red clover and trefoil.

(3) The annual cooperators meeting was held in Grygla in January. Eighty-five were in attendance to hear Jim Justin, agronomist from the University of Minnesota. Justin spoke on pasture management. Through the cooperation of the Allis Chalmers company, the district had the use of a watershed display, and the Grygla school children also had an opportunity to observe this display.

Working with 16 drainage groups this year tied the district's 1964 high. Sixteen different groups of farmers were given assistance with their drainage problems, showing cooperation among cooperators in solving their drainage problems. Schools in Grygla and Gatzke received from us the book "Land, Water and People".

One of the district cooperators, Agassiz National Wildlife refuge, was assisted in a special experimental project. The project, consisting of 120 acres of cropland that was diked, was completely drained and a pumping plant was installed. This is the first system of this type in the Marshall-Beltrami district.

In October the board toured the Gatzke community and observed practices on several farms. It then selected Art Peterson as "1965 Conservation Farmer of the Year". Conservation education in schools was also given special attention this past year. Ralph Rundell, conservation technican, had two educational meetings with the Grygla school teachers and one session each with the fifth and sixth grad-

The Library Corner

by Flora Allison

1966 marks the 89th year of Carl Sandburg and new interest is noted in his works as he reaches the twilight years. Excerpts of the commentary written by Herbert Mitgang following an interview with the much-read author at his home in Flat Rock, N. C. are quoted from the New York Times Book Review: 'The poet - biographer - historian - journalist - novelist - auto-biographer - troubador is living quietly".

Lincoln lovers will enjoy his books, "The Prairie Years" and "The War Years". Nor can anyone forget his poef, "Fog", which, in six brief lines, describes Chicago. His last book is very descriptive; called 'Honey and Salt,' it appeared on his 85th birthday, and is a collection of poems filled more with kindling than fire; a quiet love of words, of nature and of mankind.

Where does he stand in American letters? Among established critics and reviewers. . .not very high. . .but he still pleases the people he has celebrated. . . and has the admiration of distinguished poets.'. .Many another journalist. . .has been inspired by this peculiarly American stylist.

Many of his works are on the shelves at the public library. Come in and look for your favorite, or perhaps discover one which is new to you.

For the about - to - be - adult, there is a new book, "The Dropout", authored by Lucius Cervantes, which is a revealing, probing cutting into the ever-recurring social problem. This plague prompted J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, to name the army of dropouts Public Enemy No. 1, even ahead of communism and racism. The causes and cures of this social blight are explored in depth, with suggestions for solving what is labeled "among the greatest challenges ever to face our people."

A recent gift to the library is "Robert Kennedy at 40," written by Nick Thimmesch and William Johnson. The latter, incidentally, is the husband of a former local girl, Ruth Jacobson. This revealing story traces the almost meteoric rise to prominence of the late President's younger brother, as "a man of his own, on his own" in its frank evaluation of a dynamic and controversial present-day figure.

"A Mouse Is Miracle Enough" to remake the twilight years, years which had settled into a pattern of loneliness and seclusion, for a Spartan-type widow. The mouse, an unwanted gift, provides in time the incentive for the widow to re-join the mainstream of life. Told with charm and tenderness by Myna Lockwood, this refreshing tale can be found at the library for your reading pleasure.

Recreating history in "Avalon", Anya Seton weaves a narrative of the later portion of the 10th century. The hero, a descendent of Charlemagne and King Alfred, embarks on what becomes a lifelong search for the "Islands of the Blessed," perhaps the Avalon of King Arthur's dream. He experiences "yearning and mystery, tragedy, saintliness and love" in a period of political and religious strife, of searching and conquest, set in Greenland, North America and England. It's here on the shelf. Lose yourself for awhile.

The small-fry will be the library devotees of tomorrow, and we cater to their interests with great care. "A Set of Golden Books," rich with pictures, will delight them, stimulate their budding interests, activate imaginations and provide slushy-day enchantment indoors. . .Parents, bring your children to the library, a land of wonder, and help them with their book selections. You'll enjoy it and the experience will cement the precious bond existing between you by sharing the interests of their questing young minds. The books results rewarding.

avenue south of the trailer court and south of First street will be graded as a road.

A request by the Poppler Furniture company to change its loading zone to the alley behind the store was referred to Chief Cummings and City Engineer D. H. Stewart for study and recommendation.

FFA Week Opens Saturday; Gov. Proclaims Event

Governor Karl F. Rolvaag has officially proclaimed the week of February 19-26 as "Future Farmer Week" in Minnesota. The week is to be observed in Minnesota as a part of the nationwide week honoring the National Association of Future Farmers of America of over 425,000 members and its 9,500 affiliated organizations.

The week is also observed to honor 14,236 Future Farmer members in Minnesota and its 284 affiliated local chapters. The theme for the FFA Week is "Agriculture Is More Than Farming."

The FFA Week will officially open the 36th anniversary celebration of Minnesota Future Farmers as the first state FFA chapters were founded in Minnesota in the fall of 1929 and the first annual meeting was held on May 16 and 17, 1930. Since the beginning of the FFA program in 1929, Minnesota has approximately 68,000 former Future Farmers who have studied vocational agriculture in the Minnesota public secondary schools.

Membership in the FFA is made up of boys between the ages of 14 and 21 who are, or who have been, students of vocational agriculture in high school. Vocational agriculture in high school provides an excellent background of training for FFA boys planning to farm, enter agricultural college or work in a wide variety of non-farm agricultural occupations.

State headquarters of the Future Farmers of America is located in the agriculture education unit of the state department of education, St. Paul.

Rams Defeat Prowlers Meet Warroad Tonight

It will be the defending champion Roseau Rams against the challenge of the Warroad Warriors in the finals of the Region Eight hockey tournament at Roseau tonight, with the faceoff slated for 7:30 p.m. The two finalists gained their way to the championship game by winning regional first-round games on Tuesday evening. The Warroad Warriors, in a free-scoring tilt, defeated the Hallock Bears, 11 to 6. The Roseau Rams edged out the Thief River Falls Prowlers, 2 to 1, in a tense and bitterly-contested game.

Following tonight's championship game, the Hallock Bears and the Thief River Falls Prowlers will meet in a consolation game. The faceoff for this consolation game will be at 9 p.m.

Coach John Hopkins' Warroad squad had too much scoring punch for coach Larry Gilbertson's Hallock Bears in the Region Eight tourney opener on Tuesday night. The Warriors held a 4 to 3 lead at the end of the first period, and an 8 to 3 lead at the end of the second period. The Warriors moved into an 11 to 3 lead in the third period, but the Hallock team, refusing to concede, came back with three goals in the final minutes to pare the Warroad margin to 11 to 6.

In the Roseau vs. Thief River Falls game, the Rams, after being held scoreless in the first period, notched the game's opening tally early in the second period when sophomore Mike Lundbohm pulled the trigger on a scoring play set up by the Rams' veteran center-ice man Bryan Grand. The tally came at the 1:12 mark. The Prowlers made a couple of scoring rushes during the period, having a break on the defense, but goalie Jim Nelson refused to yield.

Incidentally, the loser in tonight's regional championship game will enter a playoff, at Roseau, against the runner-up in Region Seven on Saturday night. The winner of this playoff game will be the representative of Region Three in the state high school tournament in St. Paul on February 24, 25 and 26.

The 10th Annual States-Dominion

The fairgrounds curling arena will be the scene of the tenth annual States-Dominion bonspiel this weekend. The first rocks in the 'spiel will be thrown on Friday afternoon and it will be late Sunday afternoon before the event winners will be determined. The curlers, and there will be 32 rinks, with four curlers to a rink, will be competing for the prizes in the three events.

The first event, which is the L. B. Hartz Wholesale event, is the bonspiel's top prize. In the second event, which is sponsored by the Wilson Bros., the rink with but one defeat will come out the winner; and the third event will be the Noper's Motel event.

Last year's first event was won by the local club's Ardell Liden rink, and skip Ardell will be on hand to defend his title. The rink will be, as last year, an all-Liden rink, but brother Ken will take over for brother Lyle, who is hospitalized with a leg infection. Other members of the rink are Donovan and Dewey Liden. Ken will probably throw the lead rocks, with Don at second, Dewey at third and Ardell will throw skip rocks and place the broom.

There will be, as usual, a large contingent of Winnipeg curlers down here for the bonspiel. And, of course, the Hank Monson rink from Grafton, N. D. will be here. The local bonspiel is getting to be a habit with some of these North Dakota and Manitoba rinks, and as far as the local club's membership is concerned it's a welcome habit.

If the sports fans who are curious about the finer points of curling; this weekend will be a fine time to come out to the arena and watch the "boys" in the "roaring" game.

The District's First

District 31 will hold its first wrestling tournament on Thursday evening, February 17, in the Crookston Central gymnasium. Three teams, Thief River Falls, Warren and Crookston will compete in the tourney, and the individual champions in each of the 12 weight divisions will win a berth in the Region Eight tournament at Bemidji on Saturday, February 26.

District 29, with Bemidji, Walker and Park Rapids, will hold its tournament at Mahnomen. And two teams, Greenbush and Roseau, will compete for the District 32 honors. Individual winners from Districts 29 and 32 will join the District 31 winners in the regional. District 30, according to the competitive setup as arranged by the State High School league, will send two wrestlers in each weight classification into the regional.

Coach Ed Krystosek's Prowler squad unbeaten in District 31 competition, and with a season's dual match mark of eight wins and two losses, will be favored in Thursday evening's tourney at Crookston. Incidentally, the first matches in the district tournament will get under way at 6 p.m. The finals are billed for 7:30 p.m., with consolation finals listed for 9 p.m.

The Prowler wrestlers, led by co-captains Steve Furuseth and Gary Olson, should win six or seven or eight of the matches. Myles Olson, Billy Beach, Les Nordhagen, Rod Colver, Don Hanson, Bruce Parnham, along with Furuseth and Olson, are some of the Prowler wrestlers who will enter competition as favorites. One of the top matches of the tourney, if it developes as predicted, could be the 165-pound match between Crookston's veteran Kent Charron and the Prowlers' Dan Kaushagen. In a match last week, at Crookston, Dan scored a 7-4 decision over Charron.

Manitoba All-Stars vs. Canada's Nationals

An interesting exhibition hockey game is slated for the Winnipeg arena on Thursday night when a team of all-stars chosen from the Manitoba Senior Hockey league will meet the Canadian Nationals. The league-leading Warroad Lakers and the second place Selkirk Fishermen each placed six players on the all-star roster. The league's leading goalie, Julian Klymkiw, heads the Warroad contingent along with flashy center Bill Christian. Other Lakers named to the squad are Murray Balagus, and defensemen Keith Brandt, Tom Marshall and Chuck Lumsden.

The Red River Mixers of Grand Forks had four players named to the 18-player squad. Dave Mazur a center and John Leaythem, at right wing were named up front, with Don Ross at defense and Ben Harper as a goalie.

Coach Marshall McCarthy of Selkirk will direct the play of the squad. Warroad's Cal Marvin will be the club manager.

In last Thursday evening's hockey game at Winnipeg, between a team of Winnipeg Old Timers, featuring such players as Bill Mosienko and Bill Juzda and Bones Raleigh, and the Canadian Nationals, and which was a benefit game for John Russell of the Nationals who lost his left eye during a hockey mishap, more than 8,000 fans were on hand. The game ended in a 3-all draw.

2 Teams Emerge Unbeaten In Jr. College Tourney

Two two-day junior college basketball series that was played on Lincoln high school court here on Friday and Saturday found the Mayville State College freshman and the Fergus Falls junior college squads being unbeaten.

In opening round play on Friday night, coach Al Adams' Thief River Falls junior college team lost to coach Mel Northway's Centennial junior college team, 80 to 32. In the second game on Friday evening's program, the Mayville College freshmen defeated the Minneapolis Central junior college team 107 to 71.

On Saturday afternoon, the Minneapolis Central team rolled up a 112 to 41 win over the local junior college team. And in the best game of the series, the Fergus Falls junior college team, trailing by two points, 33 to 31, at the intermission, rallied to defeat the Centennial junior college squad, 75 to 64.

Red Lake Falls Defeats Plummer

After being held to a 23 to 23 deadlock at the intermission, the Red Lake Falls Eagles outpointed the Plummer Cardinals 8 to 6 in the third period, and 20 to 15 in the final period to score a 51 to 44 win in a basketball game played at Plummer on Friday night. Kent Spears paced the Eagles' scoring with 18 points, while Gary Arlt tallied 14 points for the Cardinals.

On Friday night the Plummer Cardinals will play the Fisher Flyers at Plummer. The Red Lake Falls Eagles, on Friday, will travel to Oslo for a game against the Bobcats.

Lake of the Woods Trawler Use Discussed in Baudette

Opinion among sportsmen, resorters and commercial fishermen who frequent Lake of the Woods for economic or recreational purposes is still divided on the question of whether or not the Division of Game and Fish is correct in its contention that commercial trawls and the lake's sport fishery are compatible. However, support among sportsmen's groups for the Game and Fish position is growing.

These two facts became apparent during a meeting of representatives of sportsmen's organizations, Lake of the Woods resorts, Game and Fish division, commercial fishermen including trawlers and gill netters, and Lake of the Woods county government held in Baudette recently. In the smoke-filled meeting room of the Baudette VFW club, spokesmen for each of the factions affected by the controversial issue presented their views.

The last session of the legislature killed a Department of Conservation bill which would have allowed up to five commercial trawls on the lake. The department sponsored the bill in the belief, supported by data obtained in two years of trawling, that the sport fishery would benefit from its provisions because the trial period indicated they would take fewer walleyes and more rough fish, chiefly tullibees, than gill nets.

Strong opposition to the proposed bill came from northwestern Minnesota sportsmen's groups. The opposition was spearheaded by the Western Roseau County Sportsmen club, which circulated petitions at a mass meeting in Roseau last March calling for defeat of the bill. Many sport fishermen have since taken a second look at the trawl proposition since that time, however, particularly upon learning that the bill's defeat had resulted in an expansion of gill net activity on the lake.

Ted Shields, director of the Game and Fish division, along with Chuck Burrows and Hjalmar Swenson, division fishery biologists, presented the stand of the conservation department at the Baudette meeting. Shields stated that the department believes that at this time there are plenty of walleyes in the lake for both the sport and commercial fisheries. It admits, however, that in some areas of the lake, particularly near Warroad, conflict arises because the two groups fish the same grounds.

The department's legislation is planned to attempt to lessen this sort of competition by further regulations about net placement, it was said at the meeting.

In answer to questions about lake bottom damage done by trawls, Shields replied that they should be fished in not less than 15 feet of water, and beyond that depth there is little or no bottom vegetation to be disturbed. It was also pointed out that as the trawl net fills with fish, it rises to the surface rather than being dragged over the bottom.

Replying to another question about trawl operation, Swenson said it would be illogical to assume an area of "dead" water following passage of a trawl. Fish flare in front of the net and close in behind it, Swenson explained, with the additional comment that if the trawl was that efficient at removing fish, the carp removal problem in other lakes would be a minor one.

The long range plan of the Game and Fish division is to phase out the gill netter by not re-issuing licenses when a holder of one dies. The division also believes, on the basis of the best data available to it, that the trawl should be used to take up to about three million pounds of tullibees annually from the lake and that the trawl is by far the optimum gear for doing this while removing a minimal poundage of walleyes and other game fish.

In the four years trawls have operated on Lake of the Woods, two of those years with a Game and Fish man aboard, the percentage of their catch which was walleyes was 1.0 in 1961, 0.9 in 1962, 0.7 in 1963 and 0.6 in 1964. In pounds of walleye, the trawls took 6,549, 10,135, 6,111 and 5,562 in the same years.

Using 1963 as a base, each of the 20 gill net licenses on the lake took about six times the walleye poundage as did each trawl license.

James Ballard, president of the Lake of the Woods Resort association, told the gathering that the resorters would back the department of conservation, as they did in the 1963 session. They will ask that two trawls be reinstated, to be fished no closer than two miles from shore and in not less than 20 feet of water, that no trawler be issued any other commercial license, that all game fish caught alive be returned to the water, that any fish killed by the gear be turned over for charitable use and that an additional warden be assigned to help police commercial fishing.

A spokesman for the Northwest Association of Sportsmen's clubs indicated that group would support reinstatement of trawls; a representative of the Crookston Sportsmen's club said he was interested in facts and a commercial fishery which removed the fewest game fish.

James Wills, who represented the Pennington County Sportsmen's club at the meeting, said he would advise the club, on the basis of what he learned from the meeting, to support the conservation department and the resorters in their quest for a trawl bill, if the bill would curtail gill net operations in such choice fishing areas as Buffalo Point, Stony Point and Springsteel Island.

A member of the Springsteel group still opposes trawls on the grounds that they will mean an extension of commercial fishing and added pressure on the Lake of the Woods sport fishery. The Western Roseau County Sportsmen's club is still apparently adamantly opposed to trawls.

Gill netters wondered, through their spokesman, if the trawl is so efficient that it would deplete the tullibee population to the point where it will no longer be an asset to the extensive fur industry in Roseau and Lake of the Woods counties. They also questioned their curtailment through restrictions of net footage and mesh size when the conservation department proposes to make other commercial fishermen more efficient. The small fisherman (gill netter) is the whipping boy, he suggested, and charged there was no justification for eliminating him when there are about 400,000 feet of gill net in Canadian waters of the lake, compared to 60,000 on the Minnesota side of the border.

Julius Anderson, prominent mink rancher of the area, said that most of the opposition to trawls resulted from misinformation spread by certain groups, chiefly the Western Roseau County Sportsmen's club, and refuted a number of statements made last year by Leo Walsh of the Roseau club. Walsh, who was present at the meeting, offered no comment.

The meeting concluded with a suggestion that a small group of representatives of conflicting interests on the lake be brought together to attempt to find a workable solution satisfactory to all interests before the matter is brought before the legislature again.

Using Pesticides Around Poultry Requires Caution

Minnesota poultrymen might well wonder, "Why the great concern about pesticide residues in poultry products." The plain fact is that poultry is as vulnerable to pesticide residues as any other plant or animal food product, says Melvin L. Hamre, University of Minnesota extension poultry specialist.

If birds get even a small amount of certain pesticides from their feed or water, it's enough to cause residues in the body tissues and egg yolk. Recent research shows that once these residues are absorbed into the body tissues, they are relatively long-lasting. And the federal food and drug administration has established a zero tolerance for chlorinated hydrocarbon pesticides in eggs and poultry meat.

The contaminated eggs or birds cannot be moved to market and no indemnification program exists to offset losses resulting from contamination due to residues.

Proper management can do much to prevent contamination of poultry products and can help protect the flock owner and the poultry industry from economic losses, Hamre said.

Each flock owner must take responsibility to use chemicals properly. The poultryman should read understand them and follow the directions to keep his poultry products free of residues, Hamre advises.

The most hazardous pesticides from the residue standpoint are the chlorinated hydrocarbon compounds. This group includes DDT, lindane, chlordane, benzene hexachloride (BHC), heptacolor and others.

These compounds and others are not approved for use around poultry and should never be used where they may contaminate the birds, or their feed, water or environment, Hamre says.

For the latest recommendations on appropriate pesticides to use, consult Entomology Fact Sheet No. 17, "Insect Pests of Poultry." Get copies from your county agent or write to the Bulletin Room, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

State Fishing Season To Close On February 15

Minnesota's fishing season on walleye, northern, muskellunge and bass comes to a halt on February 15, the state game and fish division reminded sportsmen 1 day.

Ice fishing shelters must be off the ice of inland [illegible] and rivers not later than February 28. They may be used after [illegible] date only if they are not [illegible] out before 7 a.m. and are removed by 7 p.m.

On Minnesota - Canada boundary waters the removal deadline is March 31, while on Minnesota-South Dakota border waters it is March 5, and on Minnesota - Wisconsin border waters the date is March 1.

Last year, game wardens arrested 150 violators who did not remove their shelters in time. In many instances, the violators were ordered by the court to remove the shelters in addition to receiving substantial fines.

Purpose of the regulation is to prevent the shelter from being deposited in the lake when the ice goes out. Boards and other debris from the shacks become a navigation hazard and litter the shoreline.

The season on walleye, northerns and muskies will open again May 14. The bass season will open state-wide on May 28, but waters in northeastern Minnesota will open May 14.

Cold War Vets Bill Adopted by Representatives

Congressman Odin Langen applauded the action taken by the House last week in passing a cold war veterans benefits bill. "I am gratified that the House has approved this much-needed legislation, which embodies some provisions similar to those contained in the bill I introduced earlier this session.

"Recognition has thus been given Armed Forces personnel serving during the cold war who have had to postpone their education and career plans because of military service," Langen said, "and our country must continue to meet its obligation to its fighting men."

The House - passed bill provides for monthly stipends to qualified veterans who commenced active duty after Jan. 31, 1955, and who are pursuing further education in civilian life. Also included in the bill are provisions for home loan guarantees, non-service-connected medical care in the Veterans' administration hospital system, job counseling and job placement assistance, federal employment preference and other miscellaneous aids.

"It is always better to say right out what you think without worrying too much about proving your point. After all, our proofs are only variations of our opinions, and the contrary-minded listen neither to one nor the other." —Goethe

Concert Tonight

Attendance at tonight's concert by the Minneapolis Console Piano Quartet in the Lincoln senior high school auditorium will be twice interesting. The performance itself will have interest, as will the number of people who attend and their response to the program.

We can imagine there are a number of extremely concerned persons who are figuratively holding their collective breath in regard to the concert. They hope, as we do, that the attendance will be large and the quality of the performing talent will be good.

Persons interested in a concert association for Thief River Falls, and a resulting cultural advancement for the community, would do well to attend the concert tonight. Curtains will open at 8 p.m.

A Serious Defect

In an article published in Newsweek recently, Walter Lippmann discussed "The Thin End of the Wedge" in which he expresses his views of our steadily increasing commitments in Vietnam and the area in which it is located. According to Lippmann, the "thin end of the wedge" was to begin the ground war in Vietnam with our professional army—with officers and men who had voluntarily joined the armed forces.

As the edge widened it became necessary to resort to the draft. And, as Lippmann points out, ". . .now it is becoming plain that to go on with what has been started, the President must call up, selectively, the reserves. The necessary engineers, administrators, doctors and dentists are to be found only in the resserves".

Lippmann continues:

"The thin-end-of-the-wedge tactic seriously impairs the judgment of the people, the Congress, and the administration itself. For it permits them, indeed encourages them, to think about what they would like to do and to pay no serious attention to what they can do and at what price.

"The modern Keynesian economics has been so successful in practice that the old-fashioned idea of balancing the budget annually is discredited. I myself believe in the Keynesian economics. It teaches that it is imperative to bring into balance and keep in balance the total demand for goods and services and the available supply of capital and labor. It would be a mistake to think that in human affairs we need no longer continue to balance our objectives with our capacity, our programs with our available resources, our foreign commitments with our military and political power.

"For the belief in this kind of balance is the central principle of prudent and wise government. It must always be borne in mind by the makers of a foreign policy, by the commanders of military forces, and by the proponents of innovation and reform. The tendency to fall away from this principle is, I believe, the radical defect of the Johnson administration, and if it is not remedied, will bring it down from the high promise of its beginning to grave disaster."

Not Cooperating

U. S. Senator Walter F. Mondale said the American consumer movement has not been a success in terms of accomplishing its legislative objects and that it won't be until consumers themselves, particularly women, assume a greater role in demanding action. The remarks are contained in an advance press release prepared for his speech today at the 24th annual meeting of the National Rural Electric cooperative associaton.

The following are quotes from the senator's talk:

"Despite the fact that both Presidents Kennedy and Johnson advocated passage of these measures, despite the creation of the National Consumer Advisory Council and a special advisor to the President on consumer affairs, and despite all the other activity and support of these measures, they are still languishing in Senate sub-committees years after being introduced.

"Consumer legislation cannot be enacted by just a few interested Senators and Congressmen, and a few interested national organizations. It requires continued, effective local backing and encouragement, financial support and communications to Congress."

It could be that Senator Mondale is missing a very evident fact: That is that consumers have been doing very well for themselves on their own and feel no crying need for the "protection" which the government is so willing to provide.

The senator cited, as an example, the failure of the "Truth in Packaging" and "Truth in Lending" legislation which has been advocated by the so-called "consumer movement". This group assumes—either from personal experience or imagined chaos—that all shoppers are stupid and unable to decide for themselves how they shall spend their money or obtain their loans. They look on processing, packaging and retailing as a great "con" game.

Nothing the government has imposed on the people has yet simplified things for them. Free enterprise has been able to grow on the basis of brand names and product quality, while those who may try to fool the housewife do so only once and soon find themselves without a market.

We consider it a thrill and a privilege to select what we want from among the colorfully-arrayed shelves of the supermarket. How boring it would all be if the items were packaged like military survival rations or surplus food commodities distributed through welfare offices.

Don't waste too much time crying over the plight of the poor consumer in the superkarmet, Senator. She is holding her own and then some. Shed one small tear for the processors who work hard to gain her favor, and then get back to work on a budget that will save the consumer some tax money so she can buy some of the things she wants.

Straight Talk?

The House Republican Task Force on Agriculture has recommended that various obsolete provisions should be dropped, confusing verbiage clarified and logical streamlining made in existing farm legislation. Several examples of the need for these changes were cited, and they show the need quite clearly.

For instance, one provision of the law mentions "corn" eight separate times—and then a footnote explains that the word "corn" really means "wheat".

Maybe you think you know what a feed grain is, but just to be sure, let's see how the government's farm program defines feed grains:

"The term 'feed grains' means corn, grain sorghums, and if designated by the Secretary, barley, and if for any crop the producer so requests for purposes of having acreage devoted to the production of wheat considered as devoted to the production of feed grains, pursuant to the provisions of section 328 of the Food and Agriculture Act of 1962, the term 'feed grains' shall include oats and rye and barley if not designated by the Secretary as provided above: Provided, That acreages of corn, grain sorghums, and if designated by the Secretary, barley, shall not be planted in lieu of acreages of oats and rye and barley if not designated by the Secretary as provided above: Provided further, That the acreage devoted to the production of wheat shall not be considered as an acreage of feed grains for purposes of establishing the feed grain base acreage for the farm for subsequent crops."

An indignant farmer reportedly wrote to his Congressman and said, "I just visited the ASC committee and some ninny down there told me that otas wasn't a feed grain . . .would you please explain that to my mule; I sure can't!"

Well, a lot of "mules" around the country are having trouble with the laborious legal language confounding the farm program. It would seem that some revision for the sake of simplicity is in order. The only problem is: Can we dare to hope that a Washington group could undertake such a project without following precedent and confusing matters even more?

The federal courts have had all sorts of problems interpreting the relatively simple language of the constitution. Imagine how confused they must be with the agricultural act!

The Great Deceit

We believe that members of Congress and the federal administration are guilty of deceit when trying to find grounds for some of the outlandish legislation proposed or enacted.

How many political speeches have you heard where the speaker has not referred to "services demanded by the people"? The chances are you haven't heard very many, and these days anyone in government who mounts a platform delivers a political speech. We believe these politicians are hiding their giveaway programs behind a false impression.

We wonder, for instance, how many people in the nation "demanded" rent subsidy payments. We wonder how many "demanded" projects like the Neighborhood Youth Corps (which was established in some communities over the objections of the citizens). We wonder how many are "demanding" guaranteed income such as a Presidential commission has recommended.

It is our opinion that these and many other projects now enacted or proposed are the product of Washington bureaucrats and do not have anything to do with the demands of the people. If our administration and lawmakers were so sensitive to the wants and desires of the nation, they would work to maintain the freedom of the people and reduce the cost of government rather than dream up spending plans under the pretense of fulfilling "demands".

A local official noted just the other day that the Office of Economic Opportunity was created to help local people with locally-initiated projects to help eliminate poverty. A multi-county committee was organized for that purpose and has been functioning for about a year.

In accordance with the complicated procedure set forth in the law, this committee has made a number of applications for funds and has been halted at every turn by the Chicago office. No funds have been allocated for any of the programs, and time is rapidly running out for several of them.

The one project which was provided with federal funds after only a short time, however, is Operation Medicare Alert. Ahis is a government-initiated program—not locally-initiated as provided in the act. And its purpose is to survey people over age 65 to find out why they have not registered for participation in the federally-promoted medicare program.

This must be considered an instance where the government is using one of its self-created programs to serve another of its questionable programs—at the expense of people who the first program was purported to assist. It is just another part of the Great Deceit—an integral part of the Great Society that few people demand, want or even understand.

January Shows State Vacation Interest Highest

Interest in Minnesota vacations is at an all-time high, according to figures released today by the Minnesota department of business development. Commissioner William B. Farrell said the figures for the first month of 1966 indicate "A tremendous upsurge in queries about Minnesota vacation opportunities."

Farrell said the January figures showed 6,679 inquiries were received by the Vacation Information center, compared to 4,757 during the same month a year ago. The highest previous count for January was in 1964 when 5,027 inquiries were received.

Another indicator of increased interest in Minnesota vacations comes from Kansas City, where the Minnesota display registered over 4,500 names of persons interested in Minnesota vacation information. Commissioner Farrell said the extremely high registration was due in part to a revised system of card registration, but he said "our beautiful new sports and travel show display has been receiving tremendous praise from sports show visitors."

Last year at Kansas City, just over 1,300 persons registered for Minnesota vacation information. Nearly three - and - a - half times as many persons registered in this year's ten-day show. In the entire schedule of sports and travel shows in 1965, over 16,500 persons registered for Minnesota information, but if the Kansas City show is any indication, this year's total could top 40,000.

The Minnesota department of business development manages two displays which are manned by game wardens and other conservation department officers. The display used in Kansas City is now on its way to Omaha for the sports and travel show which opens there on February 18.

Highway Dep't, To Remove Trees

As part of the program to improve the safety features of Minnesota highways, fixed objects which present driving hazards are being removed where possible, according to John R. Jamieson state highway commissioner. This program will include the selected removal of dangerously located trees.

"The tragic loss of two college students just this past week when their auto struck a tree off the roadway," said Jamieson, "Dramatically points out the need for a careful program of eliminating those hazards that we can in order to reduce fatalities on our highways."

He added that during 1964 there were more than 7,400 accidents in the state in which vehicles struck fixed objects.

"The department is keenly aware of the aesthetic value of trees bordering highways," Jamieson said, "and our maintenance personnel have ben instructed to remove trees which might be struck by vehicles running off the roadway. These trees will be replaced with shrubbery which will serve as a 'shock absorber' to prevent serious damage, injury or even death when such mishaps do occur."

One of the first highways to see the enactment of this safety program will be Trunk Highway 10 between Anoka and St. Cloud, with work scheduled to begin the week of February 14.

Many Rough Fish Taken from Lakes

Despite a slow start due to a late freez epu, state rough fish removal crews and contract fishermen have made some big hauls this winter, the conservation department reported today.

State fisheries supervisor Hjalmer Swenson said nearly 84,000 pounds of carp and over 3,800 pounds of sheepshead were removed from Pokegama lake in Pine county in one seine haul.

At Pelican Lake in Pope county near Glenwood, 74,200 pounds of carp were removed; and at Gilchrist lake, also in Pope county, another 56,500 pounds of carp were taken. Also included in the Gilchrist haul were 9,480 pounds of buffalofish.

One fisherman under contract with the state removed 41,500 pounds of carp and 30,000 pounds of bullheads from Pomme de Terre lake in Stevens county.

Swenson said many other substantial hauls of rough fish have been recorded this winter and that rough fish removal operations will continue as long as weather and ice conditions permit.

He said many game fish have also been removed from shallow lakes in the course of rough fish removal operations and transferred to deeper lakes where there is less chance of winterkill.

They were sent to the recruit training center in San Diego, Calif., where they are undergoing nine weeks of intense indoctrination into Navy life and preparation for future assignment to one of the careers available to Navymen. 430 Marshes and Lakes Mapped in Biological Survey

Field crews of the Minnesota conservation department's research and planning section mapped and conducted biological surveys on 430 lakes and waterfowl marshes during 1965. Ted Shields, state game and fish director, said 90 were fish lakes which were investigated to determine numbers and species of fish life and other biological features.

There were 110 fish lakes and 230 smaller lakes and waterfowl marshes which were sounded and mapped. Shields said the information gathered will be used as the basis for fish and game management and recreational and land-use planning.

Copies of the maps of the fish lakes showing depth contours, shore line features and adjacent roads, can be purchased from the State Documents Section, Centennial Building, St. Paul. Maps covering about 2,500 lakes are presently available.

Most lake survey work is now done on a watershed basis, Shields said. In this way information can be gathered on all bodies of water, both large and small, in a watershed.

Some of the smaller lakes may not be well known but all are used by fish and wildlife, he said.

Some of them also have odd names. Included in the lakes investigated last summer were the following: Football, Joker, Carrot, Tomato, Wiggle, Inkey and Wrinkle.

More Federal Income Tax Queries Given

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal Revenue, St. Paul.

Q—When a husband and wife both have income and file separate returns, can the husband claim his wife as a dependent?

A—No. Husbands and wives are not considered each other's dependents. If the wife files a separate return, she uses her own exemption, and it cannot be claimed again on the husband's return. Generally, it is advantageous for married taxpayers, both of whom have income, to file joint returns.

On a separate return, a husband can claim an exemption for his wife, if she had no income, did not file a separate return and was not the dependent of another taxpayer.

Q—I worked for several employers in 1965. Should I send all of my wage and tax statements with my return?

A—Copy B of all Forms W-2 should accompany your return. Missing Forms W-2 will delay the processing of your return and any refund you are entitled to receive. You need not list all your employers on the tax form; only the total wages earned and the income tax withheld.

Q—In my new job, I drive about 30 miles a day from my home to work and back again. Can I deduct 10 cents a mile for this driving?

A—No. Commuting to and from work is a personal expense which is not deductible.

Q—Are unemployment benefits taxable: I received payments for 20 weeks in 1965 between jobs.

A—No. State unemployment benefit payments are not taxable. They do not have to be reported as income on your return.

Q—Do I have to list my wife's social security number on our return? She does not work but did receive some dividend income in 1965.

A—Your wife's social security number should be reported on the return. If any separate income she receives is included on the return, it is necessary to report her number. If she does not have an account number, application for one should be made to the local social security administration on Form SS-5.

Q—May I deduct a standard amount for business use of my personal automobile?

A—If you use your car in your work, you must apportion your annual mileage between business travel and personal travel. On the business mileage, you may deduct 10 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles, and 7 cents a mile for each succeeding mile. This standard mileage rate is in lieu of actual driving expenses and depreciation deduction for which records must be kept.

This standard mileage rate deduction is an election you make. It can be changed back to actual year.

A—Yes. Taxpayers 65 years of age or older are entitled to an extra $100 when they elect the minimum standard deduction; all of their medical and drug expenses are deductible without regard to the 3 per cent and 1 per cent limitations; they may exclude some or all of the profits realized on the sale of their personal residence; and most senior citizens can claim a retirement income credit. These and other benefits are explained in IRS Document 5563, "Tax Benefits for Older Americans," available free at local revenue service offices.

LUNCHEON speaker at the Minnesota Jaycees Outstanding Young Farmer banquet held Saturday in Thief River Falls was Dr. Rodney A. Briggs, dean of the Morris branch of the University of Minnesota. Dr. Briggs talked of the future in agriculture and the necessity to accept change, challenging the young farmers in attendance to continue to grow and build in the field of agriculture.

Processed vegetables: Total canned vegetable stocks appear to be about the same as last year. Supplies of snap beans, sauerkraut and green peas are much larger than a year ago and supplies of canned lima beans may be up a little. Because of the smaller stocks of canned tomato items, beets and asparagus, these canned foods will probably be offered less frequently as specials.

Snow Settles in State Deer Range

Although snow depths in the main deer range have dropped somewhat as a result of unseasonably warm weather, Director of Game and Fish Ted Shields said today that conditions are still severe in Cook, Lake, northern St. Louis & Koochiching counties.

If present conditions persist there will probably be a loss of fawns and some older deer in this area. The department has 12 crews totaling 50 men on deer browse cutting operations at the present time in the northern deer range.

Shields encouraged sportsmen to assist with browse cutting operations to help the deer now in the severe condition area. Sportsmen who wish to help should contact local department fieldmen.

Shields urged the use of snowmobiles or snowshoes to pack down trails to guide deer in yards to areas where there is food. A circular route leading from the yard to the feeding area and return is best, he said.

Shields said sportsmen who are interested in obtaining a copy of the "Mminnesota plan for emergency winter care of deer and for deer yard improvement" should write to the Department of Conservation, Room 350 Centennial Bldg., St. Paul. This plan explains the procedure to be followed for emergency deer browse cutting measures.

A Great Leader Still Leads

It has been said that a man is tallest when he is on his knees. The familiar picture of George Washington kneeling in prayer at Valley Forge reminds us that the "Father of our Country" was a man who walked close to God and who taught his soldiers to pray.

Washington recognized that human frailty is not a sign of weakness—that it is the first step toward finding the needed strength. To call upon God for the resources we lack is to supply our deepest want.

The example of our first President still points men to God. Just as George Washington found God's strength available, so do men in our time when they call upon Him in faith. Discover Him in your own life. Worship God in your church next Sunday.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

WHAT GOES UP stays up in at least one case, as the above photo shows equipment being installed at the new Land O'Lakes fertilizer plant in Thief River Falls. The dragline is hoisting into place a top section and head drive for one "leg" to be used in the plant. The "leg" will be used to unload railroad hopper cars and transport bulk fertilizer to bin storage in the new 50x120 building located south of the Land O'Lakes elevator. When the project is completed, the co-operative will offer custom blended fertilizer in bulk or bags and will also carry a stock of bagged fertilizer of various analysis in the warehouse.

Handicraft Store Offers Craft Classes

New Classes are starting soon on working with liquid resin. You have seen these grape clusters that sell for $20 to $35 and with a $2.95 can of resin and some Christmas tree balls you can make one just like them.

Downstairs at Western Auto is a Hobby Craft Store that is not surpassed until you get to Minneapolis. You should see the things they do with styrofoam and Swiss Straw down there. Wall and table decorations that have that professional touch and they cost only a fraction of what you would expect to pay. You make everything yourself — free classes show the customers how it is done.

With 50c worth of plaster they make wall plaques that sell for over $5.00. Some are painted with water paint, just like the paint youngsters use in school. Others are sprayed so they look like iron, bronze and gold.

New items soon to be seen are velour paper and colored feathers for making flowers.

They also have all the flower vines, artifical flowers, beads, sequins, etc. that can be found in the dime stores.

A CHECK in the amount of $325 was donated to the March of Dimes Friday morning by the Lincoln high school student council. This amount was the accumulated proceeds of the second annual Sno-festival, carried out a couple of weeks ago under student council auspices. The money was raised by charging a nickel per vote in the king and queen election and by holding a Sno-festival dance with a small admission fee. Lynn Dorn, Sno-festival queen, is shown handing the check to Dell Christianson, March of Dimes campaign director. Also pictured, from left, are Mark Stromberg, student council president; Susan Lee, student council treasurer; Jerry Droppo, Sno-festival king; Richard Mabey, March of Dimes county chairman; and Cathy Wysoski, March of Dimes teen chairman. Mabey said that largely due to the teen campaign, Pennington county surpassed its March of Dimes quota of $1,300 by approximately $100.

East Marshall Joins In Food Distribution

DESTINED for war-ravaged or drought-stricken countries in Asia? Not these cartons and packages; they are part of the surplus commodities being made available to low income families and those receiving welfare assistance in Pennington and eastern Marshall counties. An arrangement has been made between the Marshall and Pennington county welfare departments whereby the Pennington county office will distribute commodities to eastern Marshall county residents at Thief River Falls—thus saving them the travel to Warren to obtain the food.

Announcement was made today by Ronald Mooers, Pennington county welfare director, that the welfare boards of Marshall and Pennington counties have entered into an agreement whereby persons eligible to receive donated food commodities in east Marshall county will receive their commodities together with persons from Pennington county distribution center which is located in Thief River Falls.

Under this agreement, families from east Marshall county which would otherwise have to travel to Warren to get their commodities will be able to get them more easily by traveling the shorter distance to Thief River Falls. The agreement, believed to be a first in Minnesota, was entered into for the purpose of making donated food commodities easily available to as many families as possible.

Mooers explained that the commodities are provided by the United States department of agriculture for distribution to needy families. Commodities are available to families with low income and to families who are receiving financial assistance.

Foods available at the present time are bulgur (a wheat product), pea beans, butter, cornmeal, canned beef, dry milk, flour, shortening, peanut butter, rice, rolled wheat and raisins. The monthly allotment of food per person has a wholesale value of about $4 and weighs about 20 pounds.

To be eligible for commodities, a family may have no more than $750 in liquid resources (bank accounts, bonds, etc.) for a one person family or $1,000 for families of more than one. Families with may have an additional $250, in liquid resources for each person over 65.

The maximum amount of income a family may have varies with the size of the family. For example a family of one may have net income of $110 per month, a family of four may have $230 per month and a family of eight may have $375 per month.

Distribution of commodities was started in Pennington county in April of 1965 with 487 persons receiving food products that month.

Engineer Corps Suspends Study On River Basin

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers has suspended further study on proposals for water resource development of the Red Lake river basin in Minnesota.

Col. Leslie B. Harding, district engineer at St. Paul, reported the decision on the basis of a finding by the Public Health service that adequate water supply is available to meet the future water needs along the Red Lake River of the North. Harding said development of the Red Lake River lopment of the Red Lake River water resources for flood control and recreation only is not economically feasible.

Initial analysis considered a system of three flood control reservoirs, one above Red Lake Falls on the Red Lake River, another above Red Lake Falls on the Clearwater River and the third located on the Red Lake River about three miles downstream from Huot.

"Because of the very limited storage capacity available in the upstream sites, the costs were found to far exceed the flood control benefits obtainable," Harding said. "Thus we restricted further studies to the site below Huot. At this site a maximum capacity of about 180,000 acre-feet could be developed at an estimated cost of about $15 million."

He said, however, that average annual costs were found to exceed the average annual benefits, including recreational benefits, "by a substantial margin."

To justify a major multi-purpose reservoir, Harding said, substantial additional benefits would be required. The Public Health service found that available flow supplements from the existing reservoir on the Red Lakes are generally adequate to meet future water supply needs, he said.

Pennington SCD Notes Busy Year During '65

Many activities marked the past year for the Pennington County Soil Conservation district, according to Robert Kloubec, work unit conservationist for the district. District officers included Harold South, chairman; Melvin Scholin, vice chairman; Merle Dagen, secretary; Carl Lindblom, treasurer; and Fred Lundeen, supervisor.

Twenty-four farmers became cooperators with the district during the year, while 16 farmers worked out long-range soil and water conservation plans for their farms. Seventeen stock water pits were constructed and 71 miles of field drainage were completed. Farmstead windbreaks were planted on 21 acres of land.

A total of 418 farmers received technical assistance from the district during the past year, Kloubec said. Group drainage surveys were asked by 18 different groups of farmers and 10 of these groups completed their planned drainage projects. Group action is helping farmers in the county solve a number of difficult drainage problems, Kloubec added.

Other highlights of the year cited by the conservationist and assistant Gordon Jelle were as follows:

In July 30 people went on a tour of the Little Black River watershed in western Pennington county. Following the tour a preliminary hearing was conducted and the state soil conservation committee since has approved the watershed. The local group is now waiting to be put on the priority list so a plan can be developed for the watershed and presented to the local people for their consideration.

The Pennington County Fair association received technical assistance from the SCD staff on a tree planting project. Trees were planted along the east and north sides of the fairgrounds. Pennington Quads 4H club assisted in this project by hand planting where it was too wet to use the tree planter.

A hay day was held in cooperation with the county extension service and county implement dealers in June. The emphasis was on putting up quality hay with the use of hay conditioners.

Conservation camp scholarships to Winona state teachers college and Valley City state teachers college were offered by the district board to elementary teachers in Pennington county.

"Weeds in newly planted trees are a serious problem", Kloubec said. "We rented a weed sprayer, and sprayed trees for weed control on five farms. Simazine was used and gave very good results. Five more farmers had planned to use the weed control program but because of a very wet spring this wasn't possible; 1966 calls for a continued use of Simazine to control weeds in newly planted trees.

"This being one of the wettest seasons in history, application of practices, particularly drainage was very low," he added. "District plans in 1966 call for promoting wildlife conservation practices and one-row field belts. Beautification is also being promoted by the planting of flowering crab trees."

Dr. Paul Sponheim Heads Concordia Religion Dep't.

Dr. Paul Sponheim, formerly of Thief River Falls and currently on the faculty of Concordia college, Moorhead, has been named chairman of the college religion department, according to Concordia President Dr. Joseph L. Knutson. His appointment is effective immediately. He succeeds Rev. Lloyd Svendsbye, who will become editor-in-chief of Augsburg Publishing House in Minneapolis in August.

Dr. Sponheim is a native of Thief River Falls and graduated from Lincoln high school.

In November, Dr. Sponheim was granted a leave of absence for the 1966-67 academic year. During that time he will serve as visiting professor in systematic theology at Luther Theological seminary, Gettysburg, Pa. In his absence Dr. James Hofrenning will serve as acting department chairman.

Dr. Sponheim, a 1952 graduate of Concordia, spent 1953-54 at the University of Copenhagen in Denmark as a Fulbright scholar. Following graduation from Luther Theological seminary in 1957, he continued his study at the Divinity school of the University of Chicago, where he earned the master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees. Much of his graduate study and research dealt with Kierkegaard and Schleiermacher, leading 19th century theologians.

He returned to Concordia in 1961. While on leave in 1964-65 he returned to Copenhagen for further study of Kierkegaard. Currently he is working on a manuscript on Kierkegaard which is part of the Harper and Row series, "Makers of Modern Theology." He is also preparing a manuscript for Augsburg Publishing House tentatively titled "Conflicting Faiths in a Confused World". Sponheim spends one day a week at Luther Theological seminary in St. Paul where he is visiting professor of systematic theology.

Dr. and Mrs. Sponheim and their three sons live at 1311 22nd av. S. in Moorhead.

New Products Will Control Animal Breeding Cycles

A new synchronization product which can be fed to beef cattle and sheep will provide farmers with mass control of these animals' breeding cycles, says C. J. Christians, University of Minnesota extension specialist in animal breeding. The product, called Medroxyprogesterone acetate, has been cleared by the Federal Food and Drug administration.

It is the first synchronization product for beef cattle and sheep that can be used as a feed additive. The product is a synthetic derivative of progesterone and the tradename is "Repromix."

Christians say that use of Repromix with effective artificial insemination programs will give farmers a tool for producing more uniform animal crops for selection and breeding.

For breeding cattle, the approved feeding to synchronize estrus and ovulation is 180 to 250 mg. of the product per head per day for 18 to 30 days. To bring ewes into heat at the same time the recommended feeding is 50 to 100 mg. per head per day for 14 to 21 days.

Christians points out that a combination of artificial insemination and estrus synchronization will enable beef cattle and sheep producers to increase the number of offspring from top performance tested sires and to improve the average merit of their breeding herd.

Unless immediate progress is made in increasing food production, the world is apt to experience one of its greatest famines in history within the next 10 years.

That belief was expressed by Edwin J. Wellhausen, associate director of agricultural sciences, Rockefeller Foundation, Mexico City, speaking at the first of a series of "World Food Problems" seminars on the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota. Subsequent seminars will be held on March 7, March 21 and April 4.

Wellhausen pointed out that world population will double by the year 2,000, but that food production will not keep up unless immediate urgent steps are taken. Three alternatives are available he said.

First, developed countries like the United States could go all out to produce enough to feed the world. However, farm capacity and world food distribution and shipping facilities are not sufficient to do the job.

Second, the rate of population growth could be reduced. If the nutrition level is to be raised, the rate of population growth would have to be slowed down considerably. Population control could overcome food deficits, but this is not likely in the immediate future.

Third, the rate of food production could be increased in the underdeveloped countries where population is growing the fastest. Here a dynamic and rapid impact can be made. To do this would require an increase of over two per cent in average annual growth rate of agricultural production to reach accepted standards of nutrition.

Wellhausen pointed to spectacular gains in Mexico, Taiwan, Chile Greece and other southern European countries as examples of what can be done.

"Food production can be doubled in all less advanced countries and tripled or even quadrupled in some through the widespread use of modern scientific production methods," he said. "Agriculture in most of these countries is still bound by ancient traditions. It has not yet become of age. The potential is very great."

To meet the problems of world food production, Wellhausen suggested that U. S. institutions such as the University of Minnesota could do certain things, such as:

1. Stimulate speedier action toward solutions by helping make people in developing countries aware of their situation. With few exceptions, leaders of a country are not aware that their food problems are steadily going from bad to worse. Some real, well-planned education needs to be done.

2. Help meet the serious worldwide shortage of people with training required to plan, implement and carry out programs to increase food production. The training now received in U. S. universities does not prepare a man or woman for the immediate job ahead in the less-developed countries. Special programs are needed.

3. Be influential in reorienting U. S. agriculture to produce what the less developed countries really need. Up to now it has been a question of getting rid of surplus production.

"The U. S. corn belt could render a real service to the less developed world by producing more soybeans and making them available in the form of 'soy protein' ", he said. He then suggested that some of the U. S. Corn production be diverted to soybean production.

4. Help develop programs of research in food technology in underdeveloped countries. Here is the place to put to work some real good chemists, he said.

5. Provide scientific knowledge on the genetic improvement of rice, maize, wheat and sorghum. For example, if the genes governing drought resistance could be identified and manipulated at will in the development of high-yielding drought resistant varieties, a substantial amount of certain foods could be produced in many countries of light rainfall. Scientists can make real contributions in areas such as these.

State's Crippled Children Service Plans 64 Clinics

Orthopedic defects in children, thanks to recent advances in medical science, have virtually disappeared, so that the current stress is on locating and treating Minnesota children suffering from mental retardation, epilepsy, heart lesions, learning problems in school and cystic fibbrosis.

So declared Dr. Mildred A. Norval, director, crippled children services, in announcing the 1966 schedule of state-wide field clinics sponsored by Minnesota department of public welfare. One such clinic is held in Thief River Falls.

During 1965, 53 field clinics were held in 29 Minnesota communities, clinics are scheduled for this year.

Minnesota children under 21 years of age with mental retardation and various physical handicaps may be examined; and those needing periodic follow-up and whose parents cannot provide the necessary care may return to the clinic. A physician's written referral and summary is requested on each new patient.

Each child is examined by a and a report of their findings is sent to the family physician. A public health nurse discusses the child's health with the parents, and helps them work out plans to follow the medical recommendations of the physicians. A medical social worker helps the parents with any emotional, social or financial problems that require solution.

Parents should consult with their county welfare department and ap- weeks before the clinic comes to town.

East Marshall Joins Pennington In Food Program

The number of eligible persons has gradually been increasing and at the present time there are 213 families with a total of 685 persons eligible.

During the 11 months since the program was started, an average of 541 persons has received commodities each month with a wholesale value of $2,200 and weighing 11,000 pounds.

The program was started in Marshall county in January of 1966 and at the present time 555 persons are eligible to receive commodities through the Thief River Falls distribution center. Commodities were distributed this month to 1,167 persons. Of this total 536 persons were from east Marshall and 631 were from Pennington.

Mooers pointed out that of the 213 families from Pennington county now eligible to receive commodities, only 68 are non-public assistance families. He stressed that the program is intended to provide food products for families with low income as well as to those getting public assistance.

Examples of families that may be eligible are those who are unemployed or those who have employment but whose income is low. Families who derive their income from farming may also be eligible if their yearly net income is low. Families who are interested in receiving donated food commodities may make application at their county welfare office.

Include Number In Corresponding On GI Insurance

Minnesota veterans or dependents of veterans who write the Veterans administration concerning GI insurance are urged by the VA to include the insurance number on the correspondence.

John R. Murphy, Manager of the VA center in St. Paul, said lack of a number fails to identify the policy and may require an exchange of correspondence with resultant delay. The number may be obtained from previous VA correspondence concerning the policy or from the policy itself.

He said a continuing problem to VA is the lack of proper identification of the veteran. An insurance policy number or a C-number (an identifying claims number assigned to each individual veteran) will speed up action in all correspondence.

Correspondence concerning insurance should be sent to the office to which premium payments are sent, Murphy said. Letters concerning other veterans benefits should be sent to the VA center at Ft. Snelling.

Olaf Hanson, 88, Pioneer of River Boat Days, Dies

Olaf B. Hanson, 88, a brother of Mrs. Mary Yestsund of this city and a former resident of Thief River Falls who during the early pioneer days operated a steam boat on the Red Lake River, died early Wednesday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Dave Thorbeck, in Gonvick.

Funeral services for Olaf B. Hanson will be held today, (Monday) at 2 p.m. at the Samhold Lutheran church in Gonvick with the Rev. E. M. Berg officiating. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

Olaf Hanson was born Sept. 7, 1877 in Helgeland, Norway, a son of the late Olai Hanson and Barbara Olson Hanson. He immigrated to the United States with his parents, brothers and sisters in 1893 living for a year at Red Lake Falls before moving to Thief River Falls. During those early years he assisted his father in operating a steamboat on the Red Lake River and for a number of years he owned and operated one of his own.

On Dec. 15, 1901 he was united in marriage to Hilda C. Clementson at Plummer. They established a homestead near Goodridge in 1904, moving in 1912 to Hangaard township, Clearwater county where they farmed for many years. The Hansons retired where they resided until last November when they returned to Gonvick to make their home with their daughters, Mrs. Alvin Strand and Mrs. Dave Thorbeck.

Survivors include his wife, Hilda; two sons, Helmer Hanson of Gonvick and Marvel Hanson of Sterling, Alaska; nine daughters, Mrs. Lothard (Stella) Jacobson, Little Marais; Mrs. Dave (Emma) Thorbeck and Mrs. Alvin (Ovidea) Strand of Gonvick; Mrs. Ernest (Olga) Berger, Park River, N. D.; Mrs. John (Alice) Skjerven, Plummer; Mrs. Lester (Esther) Bergeson, East Grand Forks; Mrs. Bill (Maybell) Greenly, Oakland, Calif.; Mrs. Jack (Gladys) Weaver, Kenai, Alaska and Mrs. Richard (Delores) Tuff of Soldotna, Alaska; 43 grandchildren, 40 great-grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Mary Yestsund of Thief River Falls.

Veterans Need Liability Release If Selling Home

Veterans in Minnesota are reminded that if they sell their GI homes and permit the buyer to assume their GI loan, they still remain liable in case of subsequent foreclosure unless they obtain a release of liability.

This can be obtained upon request to the Veterans administration, if the VA approves the buyer as a good credit risk, according to John R. Murphy, manager of the VA center in St. Paul.

A release from liability, however, does not restore the veteran's eligibility for another GI loan, Murphy stressed. This can be restored only when the VA is no longer liable to the lender on the guaranty, and if the veteran: (a) is forced to sell his home through no fault of his own, for reasons of health, employment, etc.; (b) has his property taken by a government agency for public use or destroyed by a natural hazard; or (c) is in military service and must dispose of his home because of a military transfer.

Retirement Income Is Explained by IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal Revenue, St. Paul.

Q—I am quite confused about the retirement income credit. I feel certain I can claim this credit for 1965. I've read some things about how to claim the credit, but when I look at the form, I get lost in trying to figure it. Can you make an explanation in simple words so I can be sure on this point?

A—The retirement income credit is a tax benefit provided for individuals who are retired or senior citizens who are 65 years of age or older. Basically, if you qualify, you may credit against your 1965 tax up to 15 per cent of your retirement income.

To qualify, you must have had more than $600 of earned income in each of 10 calendar years before 1965. If you and your wife both qualify, each may claim the retirement income credit.

Retirement income, for individuals under 65 years of age, includes only a pension or annuity from a public retirement system, such as government employees, public school teachers, policemen or firemen. If you are 65 years or older, retirement income consists of ordinary dividends, interest income, pension and annuity income and rental income, to the extent reported as taxable on your 1965 return.

The credit is 15 per cent of the retirement income received during 1965 or $1,524 whichever is the lesser. On a joint return for husband and wife, both over 65, the alternative amount is $2,286, instead of $1,524.

In determining the amount of retirement income subject to the tax credit, it must be reduced by the amount of social security or railroad retirement benefits received in 1965. These amounts are excluded from gross income.

The retirement income must be reduced also by the amount of earned income in excess of $900 received in 1965—if you are under 65 years—or 50 per cent of the earned income between $1,200 and $1,700—if over 65 years. Any earned income over $1,700 is taken into account in full.

Any balance—after these adjustments—will be subject to the 15 per cent retirement income credit.

In completing Part V - Retirement Income Credit - page 2, Schedule B, Form 1040, it is suggested that you follow each line and arrive at your retirement income subject to credit and the allowable credit.

If you are confused, go to your local revenue service office for information and advice on how to compute your retirement income credit.

Invite County Women To Public Affairs Seminar

Pennington county homemakers are among those invited to participate in a public affairs seminar for women to be held February 23 at 9:30 a.m. at Kiehle auditorium on the campus of the Northwest school of agriculture near Crookston.

According to Miss Beverly Tvelto, Pennington county home agent, some of the questions to be covered in Dr. Waldo's presentation include: "If conventional federal farm programs cannot be expected to solve all of the problems of rural areas, what other kinds of efforts are currently underway to solve these rural problems? Where should development efforts be concentrated?"

1966 Crop Objectives In Line with Policy

Farmers can make their decisions for participation in commodity programs this year with the assurance that 1966 crop objectives are in line with U. S. food policy as outlined in President Johnson's message on Food for Freedom, according to Ben Wichterman, Chairman of the Minnesota state ASC committee.

The President proposed two bills—one to establish commodity reserves and another to amend and retain the best parts of P. L. 480. These bills will be debated by the Congress and will, if passed, become effective in January of 1967. After they become effective, additional time would elapse before agreements could be developed with other countries to provide with U. S. food aid.

As for reserves, the message noted that it is not likely that any purchases to build up reserves would be needed during the first year.

While pointing to the 60 million acres now in conservation uses as "Major Emergency Reserve", the message cautioned that this acreage would not be brought back into production to produce unwanted surpluses or to supplant efforts of other countries to develop their own agricultural economies.

For the immediate future, there is urgent need to reduce the carry-over stocks of feed grains and cotton, as Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman recently pointed out, Wichterman said. For other commodities, the built in flexibility of the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965 and other farm legislation provides the means to react swiftly to changing conditions as demonstrated by recent program modifications affecting soybeans, rice and wheat.

Spring wheat producers will not be offered the opportunity to divert wheat acreage for payment. This could encourage some increased wheat acreage, the state ASC chairman added. The expected supply of wheat of more than two billion bushels for the coming year is more than ample to meet needs. Going into the new marketing year, the carry-over of wheat added to sizable 1966 crop production will be more than sufficient to meet a year's domestic food and seed use.

Farmers who participate in the Voluntary Feed Grain Program will be able to plant soybeans on permitted feed grain acreage and continue to earn feed grain price support payments as if they had planted feed grains. This will enable farmers to shift from feed grain acreage to soybeans for which production possibilities continue to outstrip foreseeable needs.

A major proportion of yearly acreage diversion is accounted for by feed grains and if the supply is to be kept in balance with needs, feed grain acreage diversion by program participants must stay at high levels, officials said.

Why Do Service Stations Sell As Many Aspirin As Drug Stores?

The Answer Is . . .

Carbon Monoxide

When you bought your car, you got free of charge, a chemical manufacturing plant that manufactures the most deadly gas known to man . . . carbon monoxide. Small children and pets are more affected by this gas, which you can't see or smell.

Leaking exhaust manifold gaskets . . . leaking systems . . . worn out mufflers . . . broken off tail pipes . . . allow this deadly gas to enter your auto.

One hundredth of 1 per cent makes your eyes sting, and you can become sick.

Four-hundredths of 1 per cent will prove fatal.

IT'S JUST THAT SIMPLE

Have your exhaust system checked at your service station or garage. If you need a muffler or tail pipe insist on the best—Walker tail pipes and mufflers supplied to your garage or service station by

You Wouldn't Marry A Woman You've Known For Five Minutes. . . WOULD YOU?

Yet, the bogus seed and fertilizer salesmen are now starting to make the rounds of the countryside, hardly take that long to sell some farmers "bonafide, pure" seed that usually turns out to be something much less!

One way to beat this bogus salesman is to buy from honest people you know, and can trust. When the itinerant calls at your farm, turn him back to the road. Tell him you plan to buy all your seed from us. It's the best insurance against poor seed!

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

With the increasing concern and research in the field of mental retardation in children, hospitals and institutions throughout the nation are establishing more thorough screening programs to detect phenylketonuria, more commonly called PKU. According to the Minnesota State Medical association, phenylketonuria affects one out of every 10,000 babies born in this country. Although the disease is rare, it is a serious cause of mental retardation.

What is phenylketonuria? Phenylketonuria is an inherited metabolic disease which, if untreated, results in brain damage and severe mental retardation. Approximately 25 per cent of the children in families in which both parents are carriers of the phenylketonuric gene are likely to be affected.

Babies born with phenylketonuria generally appear normal at birth. Between the ages of four to 24 months, their condition degenerates progressively to a level of moderate to severe mental deficiency. Motor and mental development may be slow. Convulsions, irritability, excessive vomiting or other neurological symptoms may be present. These children also irritability, excessive vomiting or other neurological symptoms may be present. These children also have a tendency towards dermatitis and eczema. Generally physically attractive, PKU babies often have blond hair and blue eyes.

In advanced cases of phenylketonuria, the symptoms may be quite definite. In many cases, however, the disease cannot be detected without testing the blood or urine to determine the presence of phenylalanine. If the disease is not detected before the child is four months old, irreparable brain damage may result. Early detection and treatment with a special diet will iminimize or may actually prevent mental retardation in the victim of phenylketonuria, say doctors who have studied this disease.

Prowlers Lose First Dist. Basketball Game

Coach Larry Selk's East Grand Forks Green Wave, showing a well-balanced scoring attack, and expert shooting from the free-throw line, defeated the conference-leading Thief River Falls Prowlers, 69 to 63, in a District 31 basketball game played at East Grand Forks on Friday night. It was the first loss in district conference play this season for the Prowlers.

Coach Whitey Olson's Prowlers have a pair of conference games remaining on the schedule, meeting Climax here on Saturday, February 26. This evening (Saturday) the Prowlers will meet the Halstad Pirates on the Lincoln court. And, on Friday night, March 4, playing at Warren, the Prowlers will conclude their 1965-66 schedule.

In a preliminary game played on Friday night, the East Grand Forks B squad defeated the Prowler B squad, 66 to 55. Scoring in double figures for the Prowler B's were Larry Peterson, with 18 points and Doug Knutson, with 10 points.

In the varsity tilt it was a pair of nifty-shooting guards, Gary Winkka and Rich Anderson, that boosted the East Siders into a commanding first period lead. In this first period, which found the Green Wave outpointing the Prowlers 21 to 9, Winkka hit on four field goals, and Anderson added three field goals. At one point early in the period the East Grand Forks squad held a 15 to 3 advantage.

And the Prowlers, who were guilty of numerous misplays throughout the game, were forced to play come-from-behind basketball. The Prowlers trailed at the intermission, 34 to 22.

In the fourth period the Prowlers outpointed the East Siders, 25 to 20, but it was accurate shooting from the free-throw line that protected the Green Wave lead. In the final period, which found the Prowlers scoring 11 field goals, East Side was able to score but four field goals. But the Green Wave converted on 12 of fourteen tries from the free-throw line. For the game the East Grand Forks squad had mark of 21 points in 27 tries from the gift-shot line.

Tommy Cumming with 10 field goals and four free throws, was the game's high scorer with 24 points. Mark Stromberg, with 12 points, and Karl Poppenhagen, with 11 points (nine of these in the fourth period) were other Prowlers in double figures.

All of the starters for coach Selk's squad were in double figures in the scoring column, with Terry Johnson having 16 points to be the East Siders' high scorer.

Agassiz Council Explorer Scouts Will Bowl Here

Explorers in the Lake Agassiz Council, Boy Scouts of America, have an opportunity to learn a new sport or continue an event in which they have participated in the past few years.

The first is a bonspiel which was held in Grafton, N. D. on Saturday. The other is a bowling tournament which will be held in Thief River Falls in April. The boys will have an opportunity this year to bowl against the score set by Dick Weber, bowling's man of the year.
